Two Fountain Men Wounded In Shooting

Two men were shot about 10 p.m. Saturday in the Wayside Inn at the South side of Fountain.

They were Kelly Lucas, 44, and Mark Christian, 48, both of Fountain, said Deputy Sheriff J. E. Ames.

Lucas was taken to Penrose Hospital with a wound in the abdomen. Hospital officials said his wound was "serious."

Christian, a Fountain rancher, suffered a wound in the right abdomen and was in serious condition in St. Francis Hospital.

Ames said that a party was being held for investigation of the double shooting.

Fountain police reported that three shots were fired.

Lucas was shot after the suspect put his arm around him and said, "How are you?" police said.

One shot hit Lucas and one hit Christian. Police believe that the shot which hit Christian may have been "wild."

The suspect was taken to the sheriff's office for questioning.

Anti-Poverty Bill Given Approval In House Vote

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's prize legislative package — the $947.5-million antipoverty bill — sailed through the House on Saturday by a 226-184 roll-call vote.

The 42-vote victory margin widely exceeded the predictions of House leaders, who had worked for weeks to line up votes and looked for a 10-vote edge.

Unexpectedly strong support from Southern Democrats and Republicans helped account for Johnson's solid triumph. The Southerners provided nearly 60 votes and the GOP chipped in 22. Forty Democrats voted with 144 Republicans against the bill.

The President, spending the weekend on his ranch near Johnson City, Tex., told a news conference, "We have by this compassionate commitment kept faith with the morality of our society."

Noting the measure drew some Republican support, he al-

PARENTS OF SLAIN CIVIL RIGHTS WORKER — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goodman of New York City are overcome by grief as the body of their son, Andrew, 20, was removed from an airplane at Newark airport. The body was brought to Newark from Jackson, Miss. Goodman and two other civil rights workers disappeared in Philadelphia, Miss., June 21. Their bodies were found in a concealed grave there Aug. 4. A hunt is in progress by federal agents to track the killers. (AP Wirephoto)

FBI Reported on Trail Of Civil Rights Killers

By MICHAEL SMITH

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — Arrests in the slaying of three civil rights workers were believed imminent Saturday. In Texas, President Johnson said "substantive results can be expected in a very short time" in the case.

Reliable sources said the FBI was trying to locate the weapon matching five bullets removed from the bodies of the men during autopsies in Jackson.

President Johnson, in a news conference at his ranch home near Johnson City, Tex., said he had talked with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover by telephone and was assured by Hoover that the investigation in Mississippi was going exceedingly well.

One of the slain trio, Andrew Goodman, 20, a Queens College student from New York City, had come to the state as a volunteer worker in the Mississippi summer project only two days before the three mysteriously vanished.

At Jackson, the Council of Federated Organizations — COFO — announced that many of the summer volunteers would be leaving the state within the next two months to return to college. But COFO said other volunteers would take their place.

The other victims were Michael Schwerner, 24, a New York City social worker, and James Chaney, 22, a Negro from Meridian, Miss.

An intensive search was launched by the FBI and state investigators, assisted in the massive land search by 400 sailors from the Meridian Naval Air Station.

The search apparently netted no leads until Tuesday, when an informer reportedly accepted the FBI's reward and gave directions on where to find the bodies.

High sources had reported the FBI knew the identify of the killers.

Townsfolk believed that the informer who led the agents to the bodies may also know the identity of the slayers.

When no arrests followed immediately, conjecture was that arrest would come after the completion of the FBI laboratory investigation.

Coroner Fulton Jackson said Saturday the coroner's jury had been unable to render a verdict in the deaths because the report from Washington had not been received, but he indicated he expected it soon.

Traffic Crash Victim Dies In Springs

Alvin Ordaz Jr., 27, Pueblo, died Saturday morning at a local hospital from internal injuries suffered Wednesday in an automobile accident near the south entrance to the Air Force Academy five miles north of Colorado Springs.

Two other off duty Pueblo firemen, Otto Steckman and A. L. Sandoval, both 24, were injured in the accident.

State patrolmen said the car towing another vehicle and driven by Steckman, missed a curve and struck a steel highway signpost.

The body was taken from Colorado Springs to the Rivera Funeral Home in Pueblo.

Military Spy Satellite System Planned by U. S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will begin work immediately on a military communications satellite system which can swiftly relay military orders "in times of crisis," it was announced Saturday.

President Johnson disclosed plans to go ahead with the system at a news conference Saturday at his Texas ranch. Details were released by the Defense Department here.

The first satellites are to be launched early in 1966.

"This system will provide reliable, worldwide circuits, highly resistant to jamming and physical attack, for carrying essential military communications in times of crisis," the Pentagon said.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara turned over to the Air Force the task of carrying out plans for orbiting 24 of the satellites which will provide two-way voice circuits between important military locations around the globe.

The huge Titan III rocket will be used to boost the satellites into orbit. Present plans call for three Titan III shots, each lofting eight satellites into near-equatorial orbits about 18,000 miles high.

The cost figure made public Saturday was $20 million. The Pentagon said that would be velopments and still hopes for the price of the 24 satellites.

LONDON (UPI) — Miss Jean Kerrigan, daughter of the industrial organizer of the British Communist party, said Saturday she has resigned from the party because "it has failed to live up to its Stalinist past."

Carson Man's Son Drowns in Drainage Ditch

The body of the seven-year-old son of a Ft. Carson sergeant was discovered Saturday in a rain-filled drainage ditch near the quarters area on post where he lived.

The victim, Juergen M. Eaton, was the son of Sgt. 1.C. and Mrs. Edward E. Eaton, military authorities reported.

They said that the boy probably fell in the ditch about 12:15 p.m. He was pronounced dead on arrival at 12:30 p.m. at Ft. Carson Army Hospital. The body was taken to Nolan Funeral Home.

The boy's father was assigned to Co. 5, 5th Signal Battalion.

Viet Situation Still Serious, President Says

JOHNSON CTY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson said Saturday the situation in Southeast Asia "remains serious" and U.S. forces are alert against any Communist effort to renew or widen the crisis in that area.

But Johnson noted at a news conference that "there have been no further incidents in the last 24 hours" to rekindle the tension touched off by Communist gunboat attacks on two U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin and the resultant American air strike against the vessels' North Vietnamese bases.

At the same time the Chief Executive voiced "grave concern" over reports of renewed fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. He said the United States was keeping a close watch on the Cyprus de- a peaceful solution through U.N. mediation.

Johnson made the foreign policy observations at a news conference at his LBJ Ranch. He said he had conferred earlier by telephone with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The President called the North Vietnamese attacks on the U.S. ships "only part of a pattern of aggression" and said America is determined not only "to give a clear and positive

North Viet Reds Build Up Troop Concentrations

By MALCOLM W. Browne

GIO LINH, South Viet Nam (AP) — The commander of South Vietnamese forces along the northern border told Premier Nguyen Khanh Saturday there were dangerous concentrations of North Vietnamese forces across the demarcation line.

Khanh, in battle dress, visited border installations and, from an observation post, looked out over North Vietnamese forces who appeared to be strengthening their fortifications.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, the local Vietnamese commander, told Khanh of the Hanoi buildup on the other side of the demarcation line—the narrow Ben Hai River.

Khanh rode in a camouflaged can as he toured artillery emplacements and tank and troop positions within a few thousand yards of the frontier.

Asked by a newsman if a major conflict appeared imminent, he replied, "At this point, the future is in the hands of God. It depends what the Communists

Mao Reported Willing to Kill 900 Millions

LONDON (UPI) — The official journal of the international Communist movement reaching London Friday charged that Red Chinese leader Mao Tzetung would be willing to have 900 million people slaughtered in a war to destroy capitalism and attain a new Peking-type civilization.

In the view of the Peking leadership, the journal said, hundreds of millions of men, women and children would perish to serve as "the manure of history to fertilize the soil of a new civilization."

The charge was contained in the current issue of the World Marxist Review, published in Prague, Czechoslovakia in 18 languages. The Chinese edition has been dropped since the dispute between Moscow and Peking.

The charges in the Moscow-controlled publication formed part of a major Kremlin retort to Peking's hard-line communism and especially to Mao's personal philosophy.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The Greek Cyproit government said early Sunday that Turkish warships were less than 10 miles off the northern Cyprus coast.

After an all-night meeting of President Makarios with his Cabinet and military advisors, a government spokesman said the Greek Cypriots had decided to ask for the help of "friendly countries" in the face of what he called the Turkish invasion threat.

The spokesman said the Turkish ships were off the port of Kyrenia inside Cypriot territorial waters. Cypriot authorities announced last week the extension of Cypriot waters to 12 miles from three miles.

Informed sources said Makarios had made a special appeal for help, in the event of a Turkish invasion, to the Soviet Union, the United Arab Republic and Syria, all three of whom have declared support for the Greek Cypriot case.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A tense and bloodied Cyprus awaited a new attack by Turkey on Sunday. A high Turkish government source warned of renewed strafing unless Greek Cypriots moved back from positions threatening Turkish Cypriot communities.

Cyprus U.N. Ambassador Zenon Rossides told the U.N. Security Council in New York a Turkish fleet was on its way to Cyprus and that a Turkish invasion of the island was imminent. Other reports told of Greek naval units headed for the embattled island.

The high Turkish government source said in Ankara that Turkish warships would "hit back strongly" should Greek ships try to interfere with Turkish military action.

Thirty Turkish air force jets made day-long strafing and rocket attacks on Greek Cypriot towns, battle positions and shipping in the northwest portion of the island Saturday.

The Cyprus government announced that 24 Greek Cypriots were killed and 200 wounded. It claimed one Turkish plane was shot down by antiaircraft fire and its pilot captured.

President Archbishop Makarios vowed a fight "till death" as the United Nations Security Council met in New York to seek a way out of the mushrooming threat of a Turkish-Greek war.

In Washington, U.S. officials termed the situation "highly precarious." They said Greek Cypriots should pull out of the strategic Turkish villages they seized in the last few days. They added that they look to Greek Premier George Papandreou to take a position of responsible leadership in the dangerous situation.

The bulk of the U.S. 6th Fleet is in the western Mediterranean, several hundred miles from Cyprus, and officials at the Pentagon in Washington said they knew of no orders for any movement of the fleet.

A Nicosia government source said the United States had voiced opposition to the Turkish jet attacks and appealed to Turkish Prime Minister Ismet Inonu to call them off. This could not be confirmed immediately in Washington.

The explosive situation is a threat to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's eastern flank along the Iron Curtain countries. Both Greece and Turkey are NATO members.

The Security Council meeting got under way in an atmosphere of grave international tension, convened at the request of both Cyprus and Turkey.

A U.N. spokesman said the commander of the U.N. peace force in Cyprus, Gen. Kodendera Subayya Thimayya, was actively seeking a cease-fire in Cyprus while the U.N. debate went on.

Following a Cabinet meeting in Ankara presided over by Inonu, the Turkish source said Saturday's air attack on Cyprus did not cause the Greek Cypriots to retreat. He claimed, however, that supply lines had been shot up and an undetermined number of tanks and other vehicles had been destroyed.

A communique issued at the presidential palace said Turkish sorties were carried out against seven Greek Cypriot towns on the northwest coast stretching

Russians Warn U.S. Against Buzzing Ships

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet newspaper Water and Transport charged Saturday that U.S. military aircraft are continuing to buzz Russian ships at a "dangerously" low altitude."

Water and Transport said Saturday a twin - engine U.S. plane buzzed the Soviet motorship, Smolny off the Soviet Pacific coast Friday.

Martial Law Announced by Commie China

TAIPEI (AP) — Communist China has clamped martial law over its mainland coast from Shanghai to Hainan Island and moved troops to coastal areas, the official Nationalist Chinese Central News Agency said today.

The agency said martial law was imposed after the United States bombed North Viet Nam Wednesday, and said about 20 per cent of the militiamen from communes in a southern province were moved to coastal areas for patrol duty.

Phil Hatcher All-Around Pikes Peak Rodeo Cowboy

By SHIRLEY COCHRAN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Phil Hatcher, 29, of Okemaha, Okla. was named all around champion cowboy Saturday night of the 1964 Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo.

Hatcher earned the solid silver and gold belt buckle by placing first in bulldogging and second in calf-roping. He downed two steers in 14 seconds flat and tied two calves in a fast time of 31.2 seconds.

Hatcher is a real working cowboy employed by Beutler Brothers, producers of the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo.

Because of his job as feeder for Beutlers' rough string of rodeo stock, Hatcher was not present to accept the award at the close of Saturday night's performance. He was on his way to Sidney, Iowa with some of the stock which will appear at that city's rodeo beginning Tuesday. The Pikes Peak or Bust champion is currently among the top 15 in bulldogging in the nation. His horse which worked perfectly as he roped his calves is a prize purchase from the Hal Cooper Ranch in Oklahoma.

championship in girls' barrel racing. Ardith had a total time of 53.2 seconds in her three trips around the triangular pattern. This is the second consecutive year that Ardith has earned this championship.

Only one second behind Ardith was Sammy Thurman of Fallon, Nev., who rounded the course in 54.2 seconds.

In third place money was Dorothy Snow of Dennison, Tex., with 54.3 seconds and fourth place money and honors went to Pauline Heller of Grand Junction, for her 54.5 second time.

The Brangus calves were friskier than ever Saturday night and the four money winners in this event were lucky to have tossed their ropes at the critters in previous performances. The fastest tying time Saturday was 14.8 made by Tuffy Cooper.

Nikita 'Condemns' U. S. Raids Against Red Viets

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in his first statement on the Southeast Asia crisis, Saturday condemned U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam. He warned that war would mean the death of capitalism.

In a speech during his tour of farmlands in the North Cacasus, Khrushchev's statement was published in the government newspaper Izvestia.

"If the imperialists dare to unleash war, this war — although it will bring many victims and disaster to the people of the world — will end in the full destruction of capitalism," Khrushchev said.

"The Soviet Union does not want war and is doing everything to prevent it. But if the imperialists unleash war upon the Socialist countries, the people of the Soviet Union will fulfill their sacred duty and will stand up for their motherland and for other Socialist states."

Addressing himself to last Wednesday's U.S. attacks on North Vietnamese naval bases, Khrushchev said.

"The Soviet Union resolutely condemns these aggressive actions of the United States which represent an attempt again to introduce methods of arbitrariness into the relations between states.

"We would like to warn all kinds of wildmen and semi-wildmen — normal and abnormal men who do not wish to live in peace and respect the independence of nations — not to intervene in the internal affairs of other nations."

Referring to Soviet military power, Khrushchev said:

"The Soviet state now possesses enormous fighting power on which we can rely so that we can work calmly and creatively. . .we are convinced of the correctness and inevitability of victor for our peace loving policy."

Cadets May Get Pay Hike

The military pay bill awaiting President Johnson's signature will give Air Force Academy cadets their first pay raise since the service school began operation in 1955.

The 2,700 cadets will add $9.45 to their monthly pay of $111.15. Cadet pay rates equal one-half the amount paid to a second lieutenant with less than two years service.

Previous military pay hikes did not include officers in the lowest total service category so cadets also missed earlier increases.

From his monthly stipend a cadet must pay for academic supplies and clothing and personal expenses.

PIKES PEAK MTN CLIMB THOSE HIGH ADVENTURES

Mystery clings to episodes in human lives. There is something which drives men to adventure one way or another. They will take discomfort for comfort. They will forsake a good money-making business for a life of hardship and a great loss of money to gratify the desire for adventure and perhaps loss of life.

No one understands why they should make a hazard out of adventure and perhaps they do not know themselves.

High climbing expeditions have urged men to the Alps, and Himalayas and the Andes and the highest and most difficult climbs in the United States. These expeditions mean many months of preparation and even years for the Himalayas.

Man's reactions to the high peaks are numberless, complicated and profound. They react to something more than beauty, coming face to face with those lofty and gigantic peaks. There is a feeling of the immutable, the indestructable and eternal. There is the sense of being under a spell of a spirit, not just an inert mass of rock and ice which has looked down thru the drift of ages upon a million vanished races of men.

This might be the way some feel and yet while thinking various things, what is the spell people felt in the Himalayas or any of the great peaks? There is a strange, deep nameless influence which once felt cannot be forgotten and leaves always behind it, a restless longing to feel it again and a longing like home-sickness, a yearning and imploring until it has its way. There is interaction between man and mountain — sensations that are deep, ample and sincere. Mystery is the predominant element in the spell cast by mountains.

It is sensed most definitely when they reflect the pastel colors of sunsent, particularly when a giganic snowcap looms from afar in a haze of golden radiance. In some it might evoke a religious response; in others an artistic delight. The bulk of mountains, the largest object in nature, reduces our ego to insignificance. Religion and mountains have blended down thru the ages, yet there is no hint of the preacher when making a difficult climb. The mind is in contemplation upon the mountain. One is grave and there is the desire to think.

Bodily comfort is disregarded for the climber embarks upon the climb with full knowledge of the strains, stress and toil. At the foot of Mt. Blanc in the Alps is a cemetery. Most of the bodies lie somewhere in the deep gorges of the big mountain but a white cross stands there, bearing the manes of the ones who lost their lives. Most of these people who lost their lives were professional men — lawyers, bankers, authors, professors. There came a time in their lives when they wanted adventure either to climb, sail in dangerous waters or explore in wild country. They had comforts and were valuable citizens. They were urged by some mysticism or spirit of adventure.

Lodge Will Explain U. S. Views in Allied Lands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Friday agreed to a request by President Johnson for him to visit various allied capitals and explain America's position in the Southeast Asia situation.

Lodge announced this to reporters after visiting with Johnson at the White House for almost two hours and being escorted to the door by the Chief Executive for a farewell handshake.

Details of the trip still are being worked out, Lodge said.

Lodge and his wife were at the White House Thursday night for a state dinner honoring United Nations Secretary General Thant, and Johnson asked the former envoy to South Viet Nam to drop by again Friday morning.

"He and the secretary of state asked me to make a visit to a number of allied capitals," Lodge said, "to acquaint our ambassadors and our allies with the situation in Southeast Asia as we understand it, and the position and purposes of our government in Washington."

Lodge said he told Johnson "that I would certainly make this trip."

Lodge said he and Johnson did not discuss domestic politics.

Asked whether he now plans to support the Republican Goldwater-miller ticket, Lodge told the White House newsmen "I don't think this is the time or the place to talk partisan politics."

Lodge resigned his Saigon post late in June to work on behalf of Pennsylvania's William W. Scranton's unsuccessful bid to wrest the GOP presidential nomination from Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

Army Aviators Hear Story Of Lost Plane

Gen. Griffith was commander of Wheelus Air Base in Libya at the time a U.S. B-24 Liberator bomber, the "Lady be Good", was discovered and the search for the crew members was undertaken. He personally participated in the recovery of some of the crew members and directed the support provided by Wheelus Air Base during the long investigation.

Gen. Griffiths presentation was about the discovery of the "ghost bomber," that disappeared without a trace to be discovered 16 years later by oil exploration crews some 400 miles deep in the Libyan Desert. It also concerned remarkable state of preservation after 16 years on the desert, and the extensive investigation which finally unravelled the mystery of the ill-fated flight and the fate of the crew members of the Lady Be Good.

LT. COL. A. J. LACOUTURE

Commander Of Top Army Battalion Here

The man who commanded the outstanding Regular Army battalion of the Army Air Defense Command's nationwide missile force during the year in which the trophy was won is Lt. Col. Arthur J. Lacouture Jr., now serving at ARADCOM headquarters in Colorado Springs.

Col. Lacouture commanded the 4th Battalion, 7th Artillery, a Nike Hercules missile unit at Austin, Texas, until last May 23. The unit was designated by Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, commanding general of ARADCOM, as winner of the 1964 Commander's Trophy for the best Regular Army battalion during the fiscal year which ended June 30.

The award is one of five 1964 Commander's trophies for which Gen. Duff designated winners this week. To qualify for the trophy, Lacouture's former unit received the highest overall rating among Regular Army battalions of ARADCOM for Operational Readiness Evaluations (OREs), Technical Proficiency Inspections (TPIs), and Short-Notice Annual Practice (SNAP) firing conducted by missile firing batteries at McGregor Range, N. M.

Col. Lacouture, who lives at 1435 Iowa Ave., commanded the battalion from October 1962, to May of this year. He is now chief of the Analysis Branch of the Combat Developments Division in the G-3 (Plans, Operations, and Training) Section of ARADCOM.

Col. Lacouture was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in June, 1943, and was commissioned in the Artillery. His primary career field with the Army is research and development.

He has since served in a wide range of command and staff assignments involving joint operations with Air Force units and other branches of the Army.

Following tours in Hawaii, Korea, and Alaska, Colonel Lacouture attended the University of Southern California and was graduated in 1955 with a Master of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering. He was a member of the U. S. Army Air Defense Board, Fort Bliss, Texas, from 1955 to 1958. In 1958 and 1959, he attended the Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

For the next two years he served in the Combat Developments Division at ARADCOM headquarters.

Plaques Await Claim by 17 City Servants

The city has 17 handsome plaques waiting to be claimed by persons who served on boards and commissions.

Thse palgues reflect a small measure of appreciation by the city for those who have served on the various municipal boards in the past — service that required a lot of time and effort and without compensation.

Mayor Harry W. Hoth was one of those responsible for seeing that the plaques were made for those who have given service to the city.

C. L. Heitman Jr., assistant to the city manager, said the plaques can be picked up in his office. Plaques are waiting for the following persons:

L. P. Siddons, Byron N. Church, Perry Geiner, Gordon Ingraham and J. Hartley Murray, former Planning Commission members; J. Hartley Murray and B. H. Baker, contractors Board; Willis Armstrong, Mrs. Dennis O'Rourke and Mrs. Darnell Rucker, Library Board; O. H. Sanderson, Gas Board.

Tom Cobb, James Cooper and Walter Weber, Mechanical Board; George Vradenburg Jr. and Lester Griswold, Park and Recreation Advisory Board; John J. May and Virgil Thompson, Board of Adjustment.

Goodwill to Host Handicapped Employes

Goodwill Industries of Colorado Springs will host its 50 handicapped employes and members of their families at the group's annual picnic, Sunday, Aug. 23, at the former El Paso County Sheriff's Posse Club, Crystal Park Road. The event will be from 1 to 5 p.m.

Games and refreshments will feature the picnic, according to Kenneth Olson, Goodwill executive director.

The picnic each year is made possible by the contributions of Colorado Springs business firms. About 100 persons are expected to attend.

Over 30,000 Water Meters In Service Here

For the first time in history, the water division of the Colorado Springs Department of Public Utilities shows more than 30,000 meters in service.

In fact, at last count, the water total was 30,165, which reflects a gain of nearly 800 meters for the first half of this year.

Electric meters, however, gained more than twice that during the same period to bring the electric meter total to 45,838, a gain of 1,652 this year.

Gas meters, meanwhile, increased 697, and now total 41,144. There is usually a drop off on new gas meters during the summer months, then a sharp increase as cooler weather starts.

The Department of Public Utilities serves a much larger area with gas and electricity than it does with water.

NEA Says Ike Has Respect for Nation's Press

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Newspaper Enterprise Association (NEA) said Friday former President Eisenhower has expressed the highest respect for the press as an institution.

NEA said in a copyright dispatch that Eisenhower replied to a letter from NEA President Boyd Lewis asking him to clarify criticism of "sensation seeking columnists and commentators" in his Republican convention speech that set off an anti-press demonstration at the convention.

Eisenhower said in his letter to Lewis that the American press ranks with the school system "in its importance as a defender of our free institutions." He said the press and the schools were "two indispensable factors in a self-governing society."

"On the personal side, the great bulk of the press has treated me considerately, even generously," Eisenhower wrote.

"Consequently I feel that it is only those who have some feeling of guilt who have tried to interpret my words as stricture against the bulk of the press personnel."

Eisenhower said his criticism was directed toward a few individuals among the press who "could not care less about the good of our (Republican) party."

Former Penrose Resident Doctor Named to Post

Dr. Ralph E. Jhonson, a native of Chicago and a graduate of Northwestern University Medical School, has been appointed chief of the radiation branch of the National Cancer Institute at Bethesda Md. Dr. Johnson is a graduate of Lawrence College of Appleton, Wis.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, are residents of Glenview, Ill. Dr. Johnson was a resident-in-training at the Penrose Cancer Hospital of Colorado Springs from July, 1959, until June, 1962. He subsequently became a senior investigator at the National Institutes of Health.

In 1963 he was the subject of national publicity due to his experimental work on the treatment of leukemia by a combination of chemotherapy and radiotherapy. Dr. Johnson's appointment as chief therapeutic radiologist and investigator of the National Cancer Institute became effective on Aug. 1.

Hanes Renamed Head of Park Advisory Board

Wilbur Hanes has been re-elected chairman of the City Park and Recreation Advisory Board, according to Stuart Richter, director of the City Parks and Recreation Department.

Richard Dodge was elected by members to serve as vice chairman for the next year. Jack Roeser is the out-going vice chairman.

In addition to Hanes, Dodge and Roeser, other members of the board are Mrs. Marshall Sprague, Vernon Mitchell, Charley Adams and Charles C. Brown.

The City Council recently reappointed Hanes and Roeser to serve three year terms. Also appointed was Mrs. Sprague, who replaced Mrs. Aiden Mullett on the board.

Election of officers was held Tuesday, Richter said.

Springs Water Tests Satisfactory in July

Colorado Springs water tested satisfactory last month from a bacteriological standpoint, according to technicians in the laboratory at the City-County Health Department.

An analysis was made of 960 portions of water from thruout the city system and all portions met safety standards established by the State Health Department and the U.S. Public Health Service.

The same situation has prevailed in all but two months in the recent history of the city's water department.

Power Mower Good Tool But Can Be Dangerous

By The Colorado Medical Society

Summer scene:

It was a warm, pleasant day, and Mr. X was cutting his well-tended lawn with his rotary power mower. The neighbor boy, Johnny Y, was playing in his yard 50 feet away.

Suddenly, Johnny lurched and fell to the ground. By the time Mr. X reached him, he was dead.

An autopsy at the hospital disclosed that a sliver of steel from the blade of the mower had pierced his heart.

This case history from the Colorado accident record is a tragic illustration of the potential dangers of a tool of modern living now found in increasing numbers wherever lawns are neat and green and home gardening is practiced ritually.

Power lawnmowers are great labor-savers, and they also can be great hazards. For precisely the same reason: the power. The mechanical power makes it easier for a middle-aged gardner to have the spic-and-span lawn of his dreams. It also can hurl a pebble — or, in the case of Johnny Y, a bit of steel — with the impact of a bullet from a gun. The tips of a rotary mower blade spin at speeds of between 100 and 200 miles per hour.

Many doctors have the impression, based on the accidents they must try to mend, that a rotary mower is more dangerous than a reel-type power, principally because of the greater speed of the cutting blade, but no good studies have been made of the comparative hazards. Both machines should be operated with care.

Fortunately, the case of Johnny Y is extreme and exceptional. Most power mower accidents are not fatal. But every mowing season brings its increasing quota of severed or maimed fingers and toes, blinded eyes, and burns from gasoline explosions and fires.

Old Doc Experience advises:

1. Power is two-edged. It can be your helper and servant, or it can be your enemy if used carelessly or improperly.

2. Read the safety instructions most manufacturers attach to their mowers. Follow them.

3. Learn to handle your mower on a stretch of flat, unobstructed lawn where you can "get the feel of it" before you mow slopes or around flower beds and shrubs.

4. Always turn off the mower when it is left unattended, even briefly.

5. Remove all sticks, pebbles and other debris from the lawn before you mow.

6. When you're cutting the grass, ask the children to play somewhere else at a good, safe distance, and keep the pets away. Don't let a young audience run along beside you.

7. Control the speed of the mower. Don't let it pull you around or run away from you. Your own control is not good if the pace is too fast.

8. Fill the gas tank only outdoors and when the engine is cool. Don't add gas while the motor is running. Dont fill the fuel tank so full that there is overflow.

9. Be sure you are balanced, with feet planted firmly, when you pull the rope to start the engine.

10. Stop the motor when you make adjustments or remove materials which may be clogging the blade.

11. If yours is an electric-powered mower, do not use the machine in wet grass. Check the power cord and grounding periodically.

12. Inspect your mower frequently for worn or damaged blades.

Girl Risks Life for Pet Dog

BELDING, Mich. (UPI) — nine-year-old Lorri Jane Campbell, who risked her life by diving under a moving train to save a pet dog, was described in good condition Friday by Belding Memorial Hospital attendants.

Lorri suffered a broken collar bone and numerous cuts and bruises when she pulled one of her two dachshunds to safety from under a Chesapeake and Ohio train this week, but her other dog was crushed under the wheels of a car.

Hospital attendants reported she was a "very good patient, but very quiet."

The girl first was believed to have incurred a serious neck injury, but x-rays revealed otherwise, physicians said.

"She seems to be brooding about the other dog she couldn't save," one visitor at the hospital commented.

Lorri and several other youngsters were playing with their dogs when her two dachshunds ran onto the tracks and she dived recklessly to save one of them.

Penguins Carry Radios In Homing Investigation

By LYNN POOLE
The Johns Hopkins University

A Johns Hopkins University scientist has designed a special radio broadcasting set to attach on flippers of twenty penguins that will be released in the Antarctic. Radio messages from each penguin will be received at a central station, enabling the scientist to track the travel pattern of each penguin.

Dr. Richard L. Penney, of the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health says, "We are interested in determining if these penguins, taken from their home areas, will orient thmselves and follow a homing pattern when they waddle off across the snows of Antarctica. Much can be learned about their ability to find their way home, and the secrets of their navigational ability."

In 1963 Dr. Penney performed an experiment with Adelie penguins, an Antarctic species weighing about fifteen pounds. He found that the penguins consistently started in a direction with a definite relationship to their coastal homes. This study indicated that nature gives the non-flying, waddle-walking penguin an ability to find the sea and his rookery. The penguin has a built-in biological mechanism, used together with the position of the sun that allows him to navigate home again.

If the penguin is lost southeast or southwest of his shoreline rookery, he will walk due north instead of straight for home, and eventually reaches the sea.

Dr. Penney now wants to know how and why the penguin is able to find his way home when he finally reaches the shoreline of the sea. Dr. Penney's first experiment with navigating penguins was in 1939 when he released five penguins at McCurdo Sound, in the Antarctic, 2,400 miles from their home. Three of them arrived in eight months. Since they do not travel at night, the three penguins had walked and swum about eight miles each day.

His present investigation will begin this fall when his team will remove groups of penquins from several colonies, release them thousands of miles from home and follow them by radio during their long treks. Each penguin will have a small radio transmitter slung in a harness under one flipper. From an airplane investigators will follow the penguins by radio reception and map their progress as the birds plod their way across the white wastelands.

Funds for this study, in the amount of $46,000, were made available to Dr. Penney by the Antarctic Research Program of the National Science Foundation. In planning the expedition and penguin tracking Dr. Penney had to negotiate with the Soviet Union because he hopes to use a number of penguins from the Russian base at Mirnyy, in the Antarctic.

When he has completed the on-the-spot navigational study of penguins, he will bring a number back to Baltimore, where in his Johns Hopkins laboratory he will carry on a study of the biological mechanisms used by the penguins in their navigation across the frozen snow, and through near-freezing water.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Holes in the Water?

NEEDED: Pan of water, four identical blocks of wood, wax paper.

DP THIS: Wrap two of the blocks with wax paper (thumb tacks may be used to hold the paper around the blocks). Place the two unwrapped blocks close together on the water, and they will come together. Place the wrapped blocks on the water. They do not come together; they may push farther apart.

HERE'S WHY: Notice that the water wets and clings to the unwrapped blocks as in the diagram, actually pulling itself up along the sides of the blocks. The surface tension of the water between the blocks, acting like a stretched rubber sheet, pulls the blocks together.

The wax paper is not "wetted" by the water; it seems to cause the weight of the blocks actually to make holes in the water. The lower diagram shows how this looks on close observation. these science tricks. Look for it in bookstores under the name "Science Circus No. 2." Fleet of New York is the publisher.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

GLARE PREVENTION WITH DARK LENSES

Sunglasses screen the eyes from the brightness of the sun. Not everyone needs them and some persons enjoy sunshine too much to wear them. At the other extreme are those who use them for medical reasons. Protection from glare is appreciated by persons with blue, gray, hazel, or green eyes who have less pigment than the brown-eyed.

Sunglasses should be chosen with a particular purpose in mind. When sunbathing at the beach, skiing, or working in a field, the best lenses are those dark enough to screen out most of the light. They ought to have a 10 to 20 per cent transmission, which means that only 10 to 20 per cent of the light reaches the eyes or, conversely, that 90 to 80 per cent of the light is screened out.

Lenses with 20 to 30 per cent transmission are acceptable for driving a car; a lesser density would shut out too much light for safe driving. Sunglasses that let in more than 30 per cent of the light are suitable only for decoration and to keep out dust.

The color of the lens is related more to style than to function. Exceptions are red, red-orange, yellow, or blue that might interfere with the recognition of street signal lights. The glasses should be free of defects such as scratches, bubbles, and other flaws.

They should be large enough to give complete protection from glare. The curved lenses help prevent distortion as the eyes rotate. They should fit properly and not block side vision.

Many buyers are more interested in the frames than the lenses. But make sure the frames do not block side vision and are comfortable at the nose, temples, and ears. Prescription lenses are advised for persons with astigmatism or other eye defects of this kind.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

G. M. H. writes: I am 65 and have diabetes, which is controled by pills. Could this disease contribute to the night cramps that bother me?

Reply

Yes, but many nondiabetics your age have the same problem. Night cramps usually are associated with poor circulation, overstretching of a muscle, or neuritis. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on leg cramps.

Infection From Pigeons

M. T. writes: I had a chest X-ray while I was in the hospital after an accident. The doctor says I have something caused by pigeon disease. What can this be?

Reply

Several fungal and viral diseases of the lung are transmitted to man by inhaling dust contaminated by infected birds, including pigeons. Histoplasmosis and psittacosis are the most common examples.

Flexible Blood Vessels

J. R. writes: I work seated in an armchair with my elbows resting on the sidearms. Is the circulation of the blood to the heart affected when the elbows are so raised?

Reply

No. The blood vessels are elastic and help the heart force blood upward when necessary. Circulation to the brain would be impaired all the time if your conjecture were correct.

Lisping Teen-Ager

Goldwater Will Campaign in Prairie States

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater has promised Senate and House Republicans he will go along with the party platform farm plank in campaigning in the prairie states.

He has agreed to set up an advisory group to coach him on local sentiment when he speaks in those states.

Goldwater has called in the past for a "gradual withdrawal of subsidies from agriculture" over a period of from three to five years.

The platform adopted in San Francisco proposed "development of truly voluntary commodity programs for commercial agriculture, price supports free of political manipulation, and adequate credit facilities."

In Redding, Calif., May 25, Goldwater said that "most of our farm ills have been the product of price-fixing..."

On Jan. 22 at Gillsboro, N.H., he said: "this has cost us billions and billions of dollars and it is destroying 30 per cent of American agriculture. I'd like to see us stop this foolishness of federally supporting agriculture."

And he said in Portland, Ore., Feb. 12 that the federal government's only involvement with farmers should be a guarantee loan program similar to federal housing.

Goldwater agreed after a meeting with Senate and House members Friday to consult with a group of senators who are familiar with farm problems as the campaign takes shape. He said he will follow the platform in his speeches.

India Premier Urges End to Hunger Strike

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri has appealed to his opponents to call off their planned hunger strikes, work stoppages and other potentially explosive protests against India's critical food shortage.

He warned that such demonstrations could plunge India into a new wave of unrest. The leaders promised to consider Shastri's plea, but it was doubted that they would forego the opportunity of making political capital out of the shortages.

Member Named For 1-Shot Hunt In Wyoming

CHEYENNE (UPI) — Gov. Clifford Hansen has named State Game and Fish Department Commissioner Jim White a member of the one-shot antelope hunt at Lander.

The 21st annual one-shot will be held on the plains of Fremont County Sept. 3-5.

The four-man Wyoming team will vie with squads from Louisiana, Colorado and Georgia. Each hunter in the contest is given a rifle and one bullet with which he must try to bring down an antelope, capable of speeds up to 60 miles an hour.

"I am appointing Jim White as a member of this year's one-shot antelope team." Hansen said, "to pay tribute to a great organization — the Wyoming Game and Fish Department—and its dedicated employes."

Sponsors of the hunt, the Lander One-Shot Club, have named two businessmen and a U.S. senator to the memorial team for the hunt.

The memorial team is named by former shooters in the hunt. Those nominated were Sen Bourke Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, Ralph Moore of Kansas City, Mo., and Charles Vorm of Scottsdale, Ariz.

New Silver Dollars to Resemble Peace Dollar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those new silver dollars to be turned out late this year or early in 1965 will look like the peace dollar minted in the 1920s and 30s.

Eva Adams, director of the new Silver Mint, said all the coins will carry the same date, either 1964 or 1965. Legislation pending in the House would permit the Mint to use the 1964 date after the 1964 calendar year ends.

The bill, which has passed the Senate, is designed to discourage collectors and speculators.

Miss Adams said the Mint probably would start turning out the silver dollars in October or November. If the dating bill fails to pass, the first production will be held up until next year so that the 1965 dates may be used for the entire run.

The cartwheels presumably would be withheld from circulation until the Treasury has a fairly large supply built up.

do next. But we are ready for any provocation.

"By Communists, I do not mean Hanoi. It is Communist China that is running this. I don't know what the Chinese will do, but we do know the Chinese have sent MIG fighters to North Viet Nam."

Col. Leroy P. Collins Jr., of Hampton, Va., senior American adviser to the South Vietnamese 1st Division, said he believes the crisis has not passed.

"The situation is just as tense right now as it was on Wednesday, when the U.S. retaliatory raids on North Vietnamese torpedo boat bases took place," Collins said, "they could come in strength at any time, from any direction. But we're ready for them."

Khanh, who on Friday declared a state of national emergency, went to the front with Vietnamese officials and newsmen, traveling in 10 helicopters, escorted by fighter planes and armed helicopters.

The visitors saw bulldozers shoving earth into fortifications around 155mm howitzers.

Other preparations for trouble were in full swing along the flat, fertile valley that is hedged by mountains on the west. But otherwise the atmosphere was quiet. Little U. S. Air Force activity was detected.

Khanh's emergency decree had stipulated tough punishment for saboteurs, provided for partial mobilization of manpower and equipment, banned demonstrations, and invoked an 11 p.m. curfew ofr Saigon.

Monsoon rains buffeting the area prevented planned air strikes against Viet Cong guerrillas who have thwarted attempts to reach the wreck of a U.S. Air Force B57 jet bomber, p.m. curfew for Saigon.

Aerial bombardment was to be used to soften-up the Communist forces there before ground units pushed toward the wreckage where two U.S. pilots are believed dead.

reply to aggression at sea, but . . .to resist and repel aggression in the area as a whole."

He praised the "strength and courage of our own people" during the crisis period and especially lauded Congress for its near-unanimous support of a resolution endorsing the counterattacks.

Commenting on the week's events, Johnson noted, "Only a week ago, we saw a steady, stable straightforward national course yield an important national success in the mission of Ranger 7.

"Only a few days later we saw that same kind of steadiness and stability and straightforwardness permit us to make America's peaceful purpose unmistakably clear when we were challenged by an act of agression in the Tonkin Gulf."

As a result, said the President, "Today both adversaries and allies have the basis for new respect of America's resoluteness. In the unity of nonpartisanship and common sense which Americans rallied together for, we have the basis for new confidence in the continuing strength of our own society."

Johnson said the Viet Nam attack was in answer to "unprovoked aggression against our naval forces in the high seas."

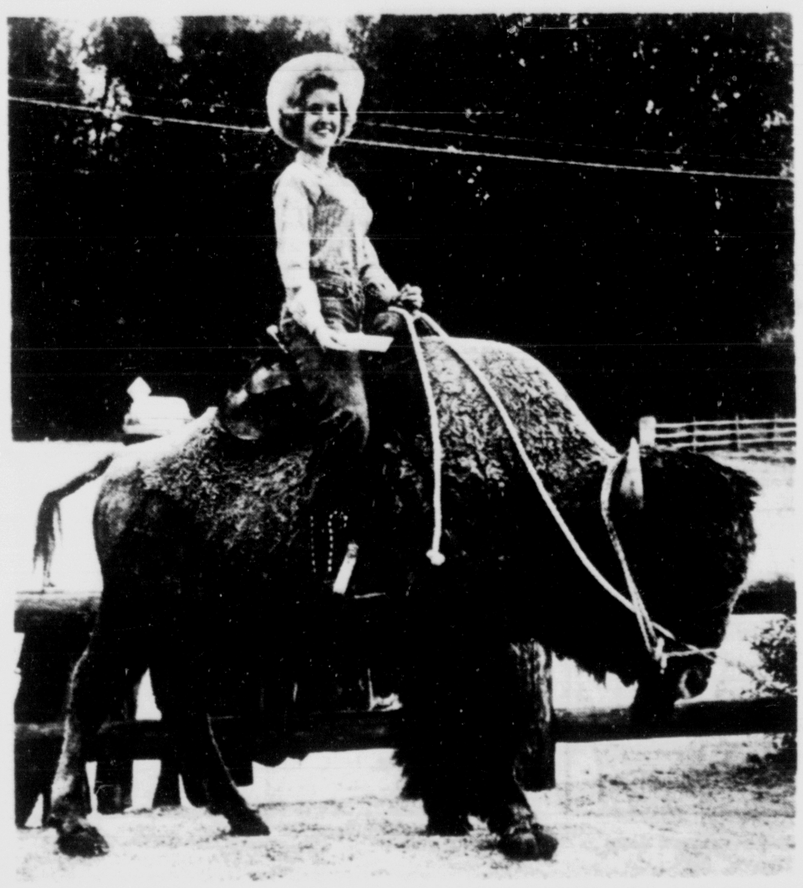

Youth Escapes Despite Red Machine Guns

BERLIN (UPI) — A 17-year-old East Berlin youth escaped to West Berlin Saturday under a hail of Communist machine gun fire, West Berlin police reported.

Annual Buffalo Barbecue Sponsored By Manitou Chamber of Commerce

Tourists will have a taste of the Old West next weekend in Manitou Springs when they chomp down on real buffaloburgers.

The annual Buffalo Barbecue Days celebration, sponsored by the Manitou Springs Chamber of Commerce, will begin Friday and end Sunday with a feast of barbecued buffalo meat. Chef Mike Edwards will also serve buffaloburgers all three days.

A buffaloburger is a patty of ground buffalo meat served on a bun.

As they have been doing for thousands of years, Indians will follow the buffalo. Two tribes will be represented at the celebration in Soda Springs Park in west Manitou. Their distant cousins, the Ute Indians, believed that the nearby mineral springs was the home of the Great Spirit Manitou.

Participants in the celebration are asked by the C of C to add to the festive atmosphere by wearing Western dress, "growing a beard" or wearing once-fashionable sunbonnets.

Edwards will begin marinating the meat hours before the feast. He'll slowly cook the meat over glowing coals of long-burning oak, constantly basting with his own special sauce. Other food will be served to compliment the main course.

Entertainment has been organized by Jim Moore, the villain in the melodrama in the Cliff House Hotel.

Afternoon and evening entertainment during the three days will include: Flying W. Wranglers; Colorado Gunslingers Association with their machine to measure fast draws; Woodland Park Lions Club Quartet and Colorado Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce. A "Miss Buffalo Day" queen will be selected. Norman Chichester will call and his band will play for square dancers.

Last year over 42 states were represented in the celebration, including Hawaii. Over 2,500 persons were fed.

Tickets are available at chamber headquarters, 354 Manitou Ave., and from local motels and businesses.

Non-Potable Water Used In Memorial Park Area

The City Parks and Recreation Department has started using non-potable water for irrigation in Memorial Park, it was reported Tuesday by Gene German, parks superintendent.

This non-potable water is coming out of a line that starts at the sewage disposal plant and terminates at the so - called Knob Hill Reservoir north of Uintah Street.

German said signs will be installed in Memorial Park to let people know the irrigation water is non-potable and should not be used for drinking purposes. These signs will be red with yellow lettering.

Since it is non-potable water, there will be no restriction as to when watering can be done now in Memorial Park. In most other cases, where water comes out of the city mains, the City Parks and Recreation Department has been watering on a Monday, Wednesday and Friday basis, which is less than for residential users.

The 12-inch transite pipeline was installed by Douglas Jardine under a $154,230 contract. Once installed, it was discovered the pipe had been damaged somehow, probably in transit to Colorado Springs. As a result, the pipe manufacturing firm paid for repairs and replacement, and the pipe is guaranteed for 15 years.

Use of the non-potable water for irrigation will be beneficial to the city as a whole since up to now potable water has been used for irrigation in Memorial Park.

In the not too distant future, non-potable water will be purchased by the Union Printers Home and the International Typographical Union for irrigation purposes, according to Jim Phillips, superintendent of the sewer division of the Public Utilities. Up to 3,000,000 gallons of non - potable water can be pumped from the disposal plant for irrigation.

The non-potable water line goes north from the sewage disposal plant to Hancock Avenue and Fountain Street, then east to a southerly extension of Union Boulevard, then north to Pikes Peak Avenue.

The line then goes east on Pikes Peak Avenue to Iowa Street, north to Boulder Street, then east on Boulder to the intersection of the alley east of Iowa Street, and then north to the reservoir.

If other facilities do not materialize, Phillips said, it may be possible sometime in the future to run a line down to Patty Jewett Golf Course for irrigation there too.

The first non-potable water line was installed about three years ago and runs north along the north-south freeway and permits sale of this iknd of water for irrigation to Colorado College, the Kissing Camels Golf Club, etc.

The non-potable water cuts down on usage of potable water and provides the fullest utilization possible of Blue River water.

This non-potable water is so treated that it is considered safe, but drinking it is not advised.

Millionaire's Son Held for Harlem Riot Incitement

NEW YORK (UPI) The son of a Texas oil millionaire posted bail Friday to free Communist William Epton Jr., accused of advocating the violent overthrow of New York state government during Harlem rioting last month.

Albert Lasater Maher, 22, Houston, a former Harvard student who defied the State Department by traveling to Cuba, put up the securities which permitted Epton to be released pending his trial.

Epton, 32, was quoted by the grand jury which indicted him as having advocated the killing of a Texas oil millionaire posted a bail Friday to free Communist William Epton Jr., accused of advocating the violent overthrow of New York state of "a lot of" policemen and judges in a speech delivered during the five days of rioting here.

Epton,, who was expelled by the American Communist party associates himself with the Chinese Communists in their quarrel with the Soviet Union.

Epton and Maher both went to Cuba last year despite a ban on Americans traveling there. They became close friends in Cuba.

Anti-Poverty Bill Given Approval In House Vote

so said: "I congratulate the members of both parties in Congress who have supported this historic measure.

"The struggle in this century between freedom and tyranny has been a struggle among men in many lands to find a system which would relieve them from the oppression of poverty."

Johnson, who played a leading role in lining up votes, had made it clear he regards the bill as the most important legislation he has sent to Congress since he became president. All other major bills enacted this year were products of the Kennedy administration.

The bill, which now goes back to the Senate, seeks to mobilize federal, state and local resources into an attack on the causes of poverty, in which an estimated nine million American families are mired.

The Senate has passed an almost identical measure, but two changes made by the House may prove troublesome in getting the Senate to accept the House version without further delaying its final passage.

One would give governors the right to reject federal grants to all community groups seeking to mount a local campaign gainst poverty. The Senate had restricted the governors' veto power to grants to private agencies.

Both bills let the governors veto the establishment of conservation-type camps for idle youths in their states.

The other change would require a loyalty oath for all those participating in the many programs authorized by the bill. It was proposed by Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Mi s., and put in by a nonrecord vote of 144-112.

North Viet Nam Charges U. S. Plane Intrusion

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist North Viet Nam charged Saturday night that U.S. jet aircraft intruded into North Vietnamese air space three times Friday and Saturday, the Communist New China News Agency (NCNA) said.

North Viet Nam had charged earlier that American military aircraft intruded into its air space Friday morning but were beaten back by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft fire.

The U.S. Defense Department denied that any "additional attack" had taken place against North Viet Nam following Wednesday's retaliatory raid on North Vietnamese torpedo boat bases.

Vacation of and preliminary and final replat of land located on both sides of Shalimar Drive about 580 feet north of Constitution Avenue.

Request by Paul Conover for a continuous curb cut 51 feet in width off Eagleview Drive to accommodate tenants of a quadruplex to be constructed at 2215 Lelaray St.

Request by J. Francis and Frances K. Scott for permission to remodel an existing building at 532 N. Tejon St. and change the present use of the building to a theatre, which would have insufficient off-street parking.

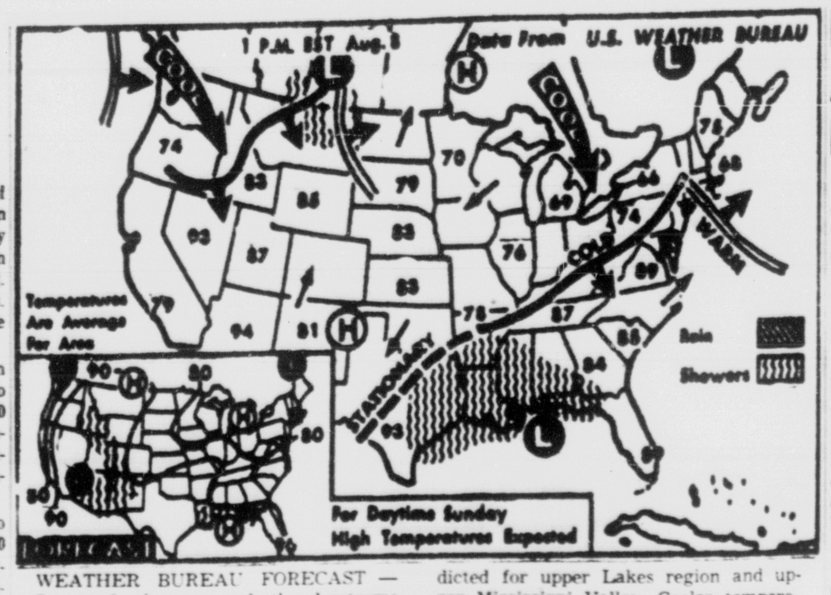

Old Coin Press To Be Used for Silver Dollars

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)— The Nevada State Museum will ship its 86-year-old coin press to Denver to help mint silver dollars.

Curator Clark Guild said the demand for new coins "is so great that Mint Director Eva Adams requested the loan" on condition the press was in working order.

The press last was used in the San Francisco Mint in 1955. It was then shipped here to its original home to be put on display.

The six-ton press was manufactured here und used from 1878 until the mint was closed in 1893. It was shipped to Philadelphia where it was used until 1945 when it was sent to San Francisco.

The communique said: "Between 4 and 7 p.m. about 30 Turkish jet fighters raided Cyprus, firing rockets and machine-gunning inhabited places and noncombatants.

"The Turkish planes carried out sorties in waves."

The Turkish government in Ankara announced 30 jets took part in the attack. In Iskenderun, Turkey, 100 miles from Cyprus, thousands of troops were under orders to stand by for any possible orders to move.

Witnesses reported the arrival of new infantry, armored, artillery, engineer, signal corps, antiaircraft and commando units in the staging area.

The bulk of Turkey's navy ships stationed at Iskenderun were away as the new troops arrived. A flotilla of 28 ships left Iskenderun for a nearby area five days ago on what was described officially as maneuvers.

The United Nations reported a British U.N. helicopter came under mortar fire when it evacuated a Swedish patrol which had been caught in a crossfire on a mountain ridge.

Phil Hatcher Named Pikes Peak Rodeo Champion

Cruces, N.M. Bud looped his two calves in 30.2 seconds and took home $515 along with the champion's spurs. In second place was Hatcher, followed by Don McLaughlin of Ft. Collins, and Olin Young of Albuquerque, N. M., both of whom had times of 31.7.

An up and coming RCA bareback rider, Jim Mahelik of Denver stayed aboard his swift bronc for 69 points Saturday to boost his total to 119 points and the championship in this event. Mahelik is currently fourth in the nation. Second best score with the bronc was made by Jack Buschbom of Mobridge, S.D., with 114.

Third place money went to Willie Burback of Ft. Collins who piled up 113 points in 3 rides. John Hawkins of Twain Harte had 106 points for fourth place in bareback riding.

Saddle bronc champion was Jim Tescher of Madora, N.D., who racked up 167 points for $300 in prize money. Second place went to Bill Feddersen of El Reno, Okla., with 163.

Scoring 162 points in this event was Mac Griffith of Pendleton, Ore., for the third spot.

Following Hatcher for second place in the steer wrestling event was Demar Thurman of Fallon, Neb., with a time of 14.7. Jay Young of Gateway, Colo., downed his two steers in 15.1 seconds for third best time, and fourth place money went to Ross Canton of Hugo, Colo., for his 16.3 second total.

The biggest money winner for any single event was Ronnie Rossen who set the high score in bull riding on opening night. Ronnie is from Broadus, Mont., and took home the championship and $866.

Second best score in bull riding was earned by Johnny Mahaney of Rifle, Colo., who tallied 63 points. Mac Griffith came in third with a 61-point ride.

Total attendance for the five performances reached the 44,000 point Saturday night as some 9,000 people turned out for the championship finals at Penrose Stadium.

Laos Factions Reported Ready For New Talks

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The three feuding political factions in Laos appeared Saturday to have accepted Paris as the site for a tripartite conference aimed at settling their differences.

Neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma, who also claims to represent the right-wing faction said he has no objection to the Paris meeting "if it can lead to concord."

Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the Pathet Lao Communists, made it known that he also agreed to the Paris talks. But, in a message to Souvanna broadcast by the Pathet Lao Friday night, Souphanouvong said there is an "urgent" need for a 14-nation conference on Laos among the signers of the 1954 Geneva agreements.

Terms for the Paris talks remained unsettled. Souvanna has repeatedly said he will not attend a 14-nation conference unless the Pathet Lao agrees to a cease-fire and withdraw to positions held prior to mid-May when they launched an offensive on the Plaine des Jarres.

Combined forces of the neutralists and the right-wing have been fighting Pathet Lao troops for several weeks on the Plaine and along the highway linking Vientiane to the royal capital, Luang Prabang. The government has claimed successes over the Pathet Lao in recent days.

Destroyer Patrol In Tonkin Gulf Will Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. destroyer patrol in Tonkin Gulf, which was involved in the clash with North Viet Nam, "will end in the next few days" but resume later, Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance said today.

Such patrols have been operating in the gulf, which lies between Viet Nam and Red China, for more than a year and a half, at deliberately irregular intervals.

The period for each patrol is fixed in advance.

Vance disclosed the planned temporary withdrawal of the patrol in an iterview for the United States Information Agency (USIA), which was taped for beaming throughout the world.

Vance was asked why patrols were operated in the Konkin Gulf, waters bounded by Red territory.

He replied, as defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara had said before, that the U.S. patrols in many places in the world because this is necessary for operations and intelligence.

Rescuers Give Up on Five Buried Miners

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (UPI) — Rescue operations aimed at finding five limestone miners buried under Mont Rivel in a cave-in were abandoned Saturday.

Champagnole Mayor Andre Socie invited the relatives of the five doomed miners Saturday to tell them that the rescue operation had been given up. He ordered a period of official mourning.

Authorities said there had been no firm indication at any time that any of the men — four miners and a truck driver — had survived the cave - in. Faint noises were detected by ultra - sensitive sound devices but officials said there could have been caused by dripping water in the underground caverns.

Several drilling probes were conducted but none was productive.

The mountain was severely fissured by the cave-in and authorities said any further operations would endanger the lives of rescue workers.

Scott Vows He Will Support Goldwater Drive

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott said flatly Friday he would support the Republican national ticket in the fall election.

"I will support Barry Goldwater and Bill Miller," he told a meeting of state Republican leaders and candidates summoned here to weld a unified party for the campaign.

It was the first time he had pledged support to Goldwater and Miller by name.

Scott, who was floor manager for Gov. William W. Scranton's unsuccessful presidential drive at the Republican National Convention, had been noncommittal between the convention and Thursday night. At that time he said he would back Republicans at all levels but declined to deliver outright support for the two national candidates.

The veteran legislator and former Republican National Chairman, who is seeking his second term in the Senate in November, is a close ally of Scranton.

Broomfield Youth Admits Killing Father, Mother

LEADVILLE, Colo. (UPI) — A Denver newspaper said Saturday a 16-year-old Broomfield, Colo., youth had confessed the brutal slaying of his parents at a vacation campsite north of Dillon, Colo.

The Denver Post said it had learned through an authoritative source that Jim Bresnahan admitted to Dist. Atty. Harold Grant and sheriff officers that he knifed and bludgeoned his mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. William J. Bresnahan, both 39, to death while the family was camping Monday night in the Willow Creek area.

Grant said Saturday he would have no statement before Monday in the case. He has said charges would be filed against the youth, but has not said what the charges would be or when they would be filed.

The district attorney also said the teenager had made a statement about the slayings but Grant would not say whether the statement included a confession.

Another Denver newspaper (The Rocky Mountain News) and an Englewood, Colo., radio station (KGMC) had reported the alleged confession earlier.

Bresnahan has been held as a material witness in the murders since Wednesday.

Funeral services for the slain couple were held at Calvary Evangelical Free Church in Broomfield at 11 a.m. Saturday. Graveside services and interment followed five hours later at Beth El Cemetery in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Jim Bresnahan was permitted to attend the funeral.

The couple's three other children, Susan 9, Penny 2, and Robert, 5 months, were at the campsite when their mother and father were killed. They were unharmed.

Jim Bresnahan told authorities at the time a man killed his father and mother and had attacked him. The youth was hospitalized overnight in Denver for what a doctor said was a "superficial wound" in the side of his stomach.

Mrs. Bresnahan's father, Herbert Engleman of Cheyenne, said the three younger Bresnahan children would be adopted by sisters of their mother.

Medics Study Measles Shot With Eskimos

CHICAGO — Measles vaccines administered to Eskimos in Alaska where the disease is a serious problem produced a response similar to that found in other populations, a study showed today.

The field trial was reported by Drs. Jacob A. Brody, Robert McAlister, Irvin Emanuel and E. Russell Alexander, Anchorage, in the current (Aug. 3) Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Our studies indicate that response to measles vaccine among Eskimos was similar to responses encountered in other populations, in spite of the fact that clinical measles is apparently more dangerous for these people," they said.

The severity of measles varies considerably in different areas of the world, according to the report. Early Arctic explorers reported devastating measles epidemics among Eskimos and Northern Indians. Today, measles remains a serious problem in native villages.

To determine whether reactions to measles vaccination were unusual among Alaskan Eskimos, Indians, and Aleuts, a series of studies was begun in early 1963 by the Arctic Health Research Center and the department of preventive medicine, University of Washington School of Medicine, Seattle.

The Eskimo villages of Chevak and Hooper Bay, located about 20 miles apart on the coast of the Bering Sea, were selected for the trials. The villages had escaped measles epidemics in the region in 1961 and 1962.

With a few exceptions, all children from six months to six years of age participated. In Chevak, live vaccine plus gamma globulin were given by injections. In Hooper Bay, one double-dose injection of killed vaccine was followed in six weeks by an injection of live vaccine.

Every other child received an inactive injection for comparison purposes. Examining physicians did not know which product a child had received.

In Chevak, 9 of 49 vaccinated children or 18 per cent, developed a temperature of 103 degrees Fahrenheit or greater. In Hooper Bay, a temeprature over 103 F occurred in 1 of 46, or 2 per cent.

"It is difficult at this time to draw conclusions concerning the methods and combinations of vaccination most appropriate for remote areas such as those encountered in Alaska," the physician commented.

Gamma globulin and live vaccine can be given in one visit, they said, but there is a risk of fever in 15 to 20 per cent a week to two weeks later. It is unlikely that trained personnel could remain in villages for the length of time necessary for the reaction phase to develop, they pointed out.

Hopefully, they added, a safe and effective single dose vaccine will be available in the near future.

"At present, however, the relative freedom from reactions after a single dose of killed vaccine followed in several months by live vaccine merits serious consideration for use in isolated and inaccessible areas," the authors concluded.

State Hospital Seeks Reaccreditation

CHICAGO (AP) — The joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals considered today a request by the Colorado State Hospital for re-accreditation.

The Pueblo, Colo., institution reported that faults cited by the commission have since been remedied.

The commission's order removing accreditation was handed down in March. Such official recognition of institutions normally is withheld for about a year.

A decision on the Colorado hospital's application is expected to be made public in about 10 days.

City to Open Bids to Finish Play Apparatus

The city will open bids at 2 p.m. Aug. 21 for the application of gunite on play apparatus to go into Dorchester Park. The bids will be opened at the City Purchasing Office, 404 W. Fontanero St.

A minimum of three inches of gunite is to be applied to the play piece, plus the application of a thin brown coat to be troweled smooth, according to Gene German, parks superintendent for the City Parks and Recreation Department.

The gunite will go on silo or barn that is about nine feet high, the central piece of play apparatus to go into the park that will create the illusion that children are playing in a farm or ranch yard.

There will also be a merry-go-round and swing, with chickens, turkeys and other fowl being used as seats.

Money given by an anonymous donor has been used to buy material for the play apparatus, which has been made by department workers.

It is hoped to have the play apparatus in operation in Dorchester Park in about a month.

ARADCOM Shooters Enter Championships

The Army Air Defense Command's Advanced Marksmanship Unit, now competing in the National Rifle and Pistol Matches, at Camp Perry, Ohio, went into the matches with a good record at the 9th Annual Pre-Perry Pistol Championships held at South Bend, Ind.

The three day pistol matchs each year, concluded with the ARADCOM pistol shooters competing against the top handgunners of all services, accumulating 61 individual awards in the top three classes and placing first in five consecutive team contests in the Expert Class.

In the Expert Class, ARADCOM's "Hercules" team, coached by Spec. 5 Jesse Ball, ARADCOM AMU; and Staff Sgt. Charles Hallahan, Battery B, 3d Battalion, 43d Artillery, Philadelphia Defense, continued a winning streak that has included first place in every match in which they have competed together. In spite of somewhat lower than usual scores, CWO Donald Alex, 2nd Region ARADCOM, with headquarters at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base, Mo.; PFC Kriene Schneiderman, Pfc. Fausto Villela, and Pfc. John McGhee, all of 1st Region ARADCOM, Ft. Totten, N.Y., posted wins over four other Expert Service and Reserve teams in .22 caliber, .38 caliber and .45 caliber. That automatically gave them top spot in the Aggregate Match and another handsome award. Following this, the Hercules team then ended the day by edging out the Ft. Leonard Wood Experts in the .45 caliber Service Pistol match to gain their 12th consecutive winning trophy.

In the individual matches, the missilemen competed in the top three classes and in the elite distinguished Master Class.

Staff Sgt. Bernard Sousa, ARADCOM AMU, gained five awards including one in the .45 caliber aggregate with a score of 876X46 out of a possible 900X90. At the same championship level Spec. 5 Cyril Damon, 5th Region, ARADCOM, Ft. Sheridan, Ill., placed three times and edged Sousa in the .45 caliber aggregate with an 878X29.

Sgt. 1.C. Santino DeNale, ARADCOM AMU, showed the way in the Master Class, winning one award with a grand aggregate score of 2591 out of a possible 2700 and four additional prizes in the center fire and .45 caliber competitions. Close behind in total score but ahead in total awards was Sgt. Donald Koslowsky, ARADCOM AMU, who placed in one .38 caliber match and the center fire aggregate plus three .45 caliber contests and thus gained an award in the .45 caliber aggregate with a score of 867X28.

Pvt. Kitchel Ludy, 6th Region, ARADCOM, Ft. Baker, Calif., who progressed from marksman shooter to master in less than six months as a pistol shooter, proved that he felt at home in the upper echelons of the handgun firing world by taking five prizes as a master including a second sport in the .45 caliber National Match Course with a 294X13 out of 300X30.

Tops among all entries in the Expert Class was CWO Donald Alex, 2d Region, ARADCOM, who outshot his opposition to the tune of 2578 out of a possible 2700 points to take first in the Grand Aggregate after winning 14 awards and trophies. Alex, who is one of the top guns for the ARADCOM Hercules team also topped all comers in the .45 caliber Service Pistol Slow Fire contest with a 181 score out of 200 at 50 yards.

Army Air Defense Command's name was kept in the Expert awards list by both Pfc. Schneiderman and Pfc. McGhee, 1st Region, ARADCOM, who gained almost every remaining place in their category. Schneiderman who outpointed Alex in four of the matches came up with five trophies including two firsts while McGhee gained a first in the .45 caliber Slow Fire Match, second in the .45 caliber Aggregate as well as two additional places in the .45 and .22 calibers.

The national matches at Camp Perry, where gather the nation's top pistol and riflemen, will run through the entire month of August.

'New' Elephant Joke Fad Ancient, Professor Says

BOULDER — The next time someone wants to tell you the "latest" elephant joke, don't believe him. According to a University of Colorado visiting professor, the 1964 fad in humor dates back several centuries.

Dr. Vivian Mercier of the City University of New York, a visiting lecturer in the CU Department of English, says, "A folklorist might be able to produce an ancient elephant joke from a primitive society almost identical to those we hear today.

"The elements of pure nonsense and anti-climax found in elephant jokes has been present in humor for centuries. The nonsense song is included in all folklore. Some Gaellic poems, for example were made as preposterous as possible."

The native Irishman with the French sounding name is a nationally recognized expert on Irish humor. His major work, "The Irish Comic Tradition," was published by the Oxford University Press in 1962 and has been termed the most complete survey of Irish humor ever written.

He also has edited, coauthored or contributed to 10 other books, mostly on Irish literature, and he is an occasional contributor to the New York Times and the New York Herald Tribune.

Mercier believes that humor, or the comic, may be a more primitive impulse than tragedy and that it had earlier beginnings. He has traced Irish humor from a beginning in fantasy and nonsense to the macabre or grotesque to wit to satire and finally to parody.

He said he believes the evolution in humor in most cultures was completed long ago and now is moving in cycles, borrowing heavily from the past.

When someone calls a joke old, he may be much more correct than he thought. "For example," Mercier says, "you would be surprised at how many of the off-color jokes you heard when you were young were first told in the middle ages."

He said the currently popular "sick humor" can be traced to pre-Christian times. It often crops up in Gaellic literature, he noted.

"It is hard to tell if the primitives thought that some of the more gruesome passages in Gaellic literature were funny, but one gets the feeling that they laughed."

One example of this would be a youthful warrior playing a form of hockey with his decapitated enemy's head.

Even the jokes most obviously rooted in the mid-20th century can frequently be traced back several hundred years. "Elements of the humor of over-production, such as advertisements aimed at 'the man who has everything,' could be traced to earlier, less affluent societies. The same is true of jokes on automation."

Mercier added that jokes and humor are the only form of folklore to survive in the 20th century in an undiminished state.

The coming academic year will find Mercier on leave from the New York school to write a book on the "new French novel." His work will be supported by the American Council of Learned Societies and he hopes to do much of it in Boulder this fall.

"I am going to do another book on the comic — a more complete survey — but feel that I am getting stale on the subject after spending more than 10 years on it," he said. So he plans to complete his book on French novels before returning to one of history's favorite subjects.

Joan Crawford Kept From Work By Physicians

By DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I love this business and I'd work tomorrow," says Joan Crawford from her bed in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where she is under treatment for pneumonia.

"But the doctors tell me that I can't work for a month after I get out of here. And I don't know when I'll be released."

But she has not been replaced. A studio spokesman said that delays will entail a $500,000 loss for the $3-million picture, "Hush . . . Hush, Sweet Charlotte," in which she co-stars with Bette Davis. The losses are insured.

The actress was sent back to the hospital last Friday, for the third time. Three specialists have not yet given an opinion on her physical condition.

"I read where Loretta Young might replace me; I think she would be wonderful in the part," Joan said Thursday.

A spokesman for producer Robert Aldrich announced that no replacement will be considered until doctors say how long Miss Crawford will have to convalesce.

"The reason I'm here," said Miss Crawford, "is that I worked too hard when I got out the last time. You can't have two bouts of pneumonia and get up at a quarter to five in the morning to work in a movie.

"I never held up production on a movie in my whole career until this came up," she said. "I don't see how they can do anything else but replace me with someone else."

A studio spokesman said the part is tailor-made for Joan. Many scenes have been shot with her and Miss Davis. Miss Crawford contracted pneumonia while on location at Baton Rouge, La., some weeks ago.

Her first trip to the hospital came June 13, for a 12-day stay. Released over the weekend, she was back in the hospital the following Monday, with a relapse. She remained there until July 18.

Then, on July 22, she got up at 4:45 a.m. and went to the studio for her first acting stint in a month.

She spent only three hours before the cameras, but she had to remain at the studio for almost 18 hours.

"The rest of the time she spent in her bungalow," said a studio spokesman. "It was air-conditioned and she felt more comfortable. Her breathing apparatus was there — kind of an inhaltor f o r a n t i - biotics — which she used three times a day for 15 minutes. It took the place of shots."

Even so, it was clear the actress was too weak to continue a full schedule.

"The producer saw she wasn't gathering enough momentum on such a short schedule, so he told her to take time out to get a good rest and come back in a few days," said the studio spokesman. "But when the studio called last Friday she was back in the hospital."

"As far as the producer is concerned, he wants to make the film with Joan Crawford, not with a replacement," the spokesman said.

The film needs Miss Croawford for another 20 days.

"If we have to shoot with another actress, it will mean another 30 days," said the spokesman, who pointed out that the studio had shot around her as much as possible and that Joseph Cotten and Cecil Kellaway have other commitments.

Production, begun last June 30, was to have been completed July 20.

Grocers Enter Plea of Guilty

DENVER (AP) — Three officials of Associated Grocers of Colorado, Inc., pleaded guilty in U. S. District Court here Friday to charges of food adulteration.

The firm was charged with six counts of permitting food adulteration in its warehouse by exposing rice, marshmellows and flour to bird and mice droppings.

Fred S. Fishburn, executive vice president and general manager, p l e a d e d guilty to three counts while he and Jack Kennedy, a s s i s t a n t general manager, and plant superintendent Menno R. Duden pleaded guilty each to one count and innocent to five others.

The alleged adulteration took place between May 28 and Aug. 19, 1963, according to the information filed by James McGruder, assistant U.S. attorney.

Foreign Service Veteran Heads Support Group

Col. Carlton S. Johnson, new commander of Support Command, has experience in international affairs to complement the Combat Infantryman's Badge he won in Korea. Prior to attending the Army War College he served in the office of the special assistant for arms control affairs to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Previously, he served a four year tour as chief of the military sales section, MAAG Germany.

During the Korean War he was Regimental S3 for the 35th Infantry and commander of the 2d Bn 35th Infantry in the 26th Division.

While assigned to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Colonel Johnson worked on the formulation and negotiation of the current United States program for complete and general disarmament.

As the primary military member of the U.S. delegation to the 17-Nation Disarmament Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, he worked on the negotiation of the partial test ban treaty outlawing all but underground nuclear testing.

He was the representative of the Joint Chiefs and the Department of Defense during these meetings.

Since the Korean War he has served as chief of the assignment section, officers management division. As chief of the military sales section, MAAG Germany, he negotiated contracts supplying the West German Army with military equipment.

His assignment to the Joint Chiefs was preceded by service as chief of the group implementing the Draper Committee's proposed changes to the military assistance program.

X-Ray Studies Can Nab Killer Ere He Strikes

A killer, often difficult to diagnose, can be caught before it has a chance to claim a victim, according to a trio of radiologists.

Through x-ray studies, radiologists can visualize the affected portion of the thracic aorta--the vessel which supplies blood to the upper parts of the body--and forsee and impending rupture of the vessel.

Then, according to a paper published today in the June issue of the American Journal of Roentgenology, Radium Therapy and Nuclear Medicine, physicians can perform surgery on the diseased vessel and provide survival for the near-death patient.

Dr. Israel Steinberg of the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center's Department of Radiology, along with Drs. Charles T. Dotter and Nelson R. Niles, both associated with the University of Oregon Medical School's Department of Radiology in Portland, studied four cases with threatened aortic rupture.

Their paper noted that the aorta, surrounded by air containing tissues, is visible by x-ray studies. Also, that calcium deposits within the aortic wall enhances visibility when hardening of the arteries is present.

"However," their report states, "when dilatation (stretcing) tortuosity, unfolding, and kinking occur, it may be difficult, if not impossible by conventional x-ray studies to distinguish the impending rupture from the surrounding structures."

But, they add::

"Contrast visualization of the thoracic aorta either via the intravenous route (contrast material injected into the vein) or by percutaneous retrograde femoral aortography (the contast media injected directly into the aorta through a tube inserted through the skin of the thigh and then into the aorta) has provided safe and practical methods of visualizing the thoracic aorta."

In their four case studies, they add, thoracic aorta rupture was fatal in three of the patients. They noted that fatal rupture is often preceded by transmural (through the wall) seepage of blood and progressive dilatation (stretching) of the aorta at the site of impending rupture.

Further, they noted that symptoms of the disease may precede catastrophic rupture by several weeks or only a few hours, but may provide ample opportunity to establish the diagnosis in time to prevent death."

Clinical findings of importance, their report adds, include those of unexplained spitting of blood, a rapidly expanding mass in the wall of the thoracic aorta, the sudden appearance and rapid accumulation of blood in the lining of the walls of the thoracic cavity, known disease, or predisposition to disease of the aorta, and the occurrance severe chest pain unexplained by electrocardiograms.

In conclusion, the radiologists said:

"The most common error is failure to recognize the presence or significance of interval changes in the aortic margin. Once suspected, the diagnosis of impending aortic rupture can be confirmed decisively by contrast visualization, the risk of which is negligible by comparison to that of the missed diagnosis."

ROTC Program At University More Flexible

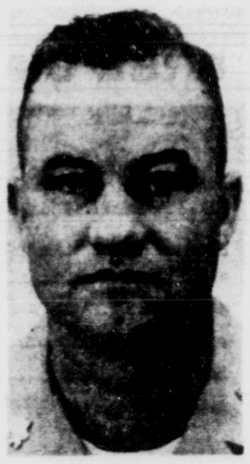

BOULDER — Starting this September, the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program at the University of Colorado will provide more flexibility and choice for its cadets who win Army commissions.

Col. Arthur M. Milberg, ROTC professor of military science at CU, has announced that starting with the fall semester all students taking ROTC training will be in the general military science program, rather than the branch material program.

Under the branch material program, most cadets who received Army commissions as second lieutenants went into the Corps of Engineers. Only those designated as distinguished military graduates could apply for service in other branches of the Army. Under the general military science program, newly commissioned officers will be eligible to apply for any branch for which they are physically qualified.

Col. Milberg said the change to the general military science program puts the ROTC instruction more in line with the pattern of cadets' academic majors. The branch material program put more emphasis on scientific and technical fields and was especially suited for CU when many of the ROTC cadets were from the College of Engineering. In recent years, however, cadet enrollment from engineering has decreased.

Col. Milberg said the major advantage from the point of the cadets is the increased flexibility and choice now available in reference to active duty. He noted that a poll of CU cadets last year showed they strongly favored the general military science program over the branch material program. Also, the general military science program is favored by the Department of the Army.

ASSIGNED HERE — Maj. Jack L. Briggs has been assigned to the Inspector General Section at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs. His previous duty was at headquarters of the 1st Battalion, 43rd Artillery, an ARADCOM Nike guided missile unit at Spokane, Wash. Maj. Briggs was an enlisted man in the Marines during World War II, serving in the Pacific Theater of Operations. He saw combat, also, in the Korean War, with the 78th Antiaircraft Artillery Gun Battalion. He, his wife, and an infant son are living at 425 E. Williamette Ave.

Composition Meet Slated

BOULDER — A regional meeting of directors of college and university composition programs will be held Aug. 19-21 at the University of Colorado. Directing the meeting will be Associate Professor Harold Kelling and Prof. J.D.A. Ogilvie of the CU Department of English.

Among the problems to be discussed are methods of training new instructors, uniformity in theme grading, pay scale, policy for handling exceptional students, type and quantity of literature to be used and changes in current class requirements.

Representatives from Iowa State College, Iowa State University, Idaho State University, the University of Idaho, Air Force Academy, the University of Missouri, Colorado State University and Denver University are expected to attend.

A REAL MAD CATCHER

'64 Broadmoor Ice Revue Opens Here Wednesday

A glittering "Show of Shows" presenting a gala variety of exciting fables, settings, countries and scenes, will unfold on Broadmoor World Arena ice when the 26th annual production of the Broadmoor Ice Revue is staged Wednesday through Sunday.

The costumes, traditionally elaborate, are more lavish than ever, six Olympic skaters head the cast, several top comedy acts are scheduled and the whole show is set to music provided by a 14 piece orchestra under the direction of Allen Uhles.

Lively music from "Hello Dolly," especially orchestrated for the Overture by Uhles, ushers in a fast paced show highlighted by six dazzling production numbers and liberally sprinkled with skillful solo performances by champion skaters.

Amid dancing spotlights, imaginative stage props and flashing blades, the brilliant "Black Swan Ballet" opens the show with 24 ballerinas in black and silver costumes gliding gracefully across the ice to the music of Chopin and Tchaikovsky. Besides the sparkling cops de ballet, the number features prima ballerina Ardith Paul and special soloist Meredith Hall, as well as a solo interpretation by Loren "Butch" Carlson.

Indian teepees, tom toms, and symbolic totem poles lend authentic atmosphere to the colorful "Happy Hunting Grounds" number in which the elaborately beaded costumes of the Indian maidens will vie for attention with those of the fully feathered eagles. Dorothy Thompson will do a saucy "Indian Dance" solo, and swift, agile Lee Lamprecht will also be in the solo spotlight.

Gondolas will glide on the ice for the opulent "Carnival of Venice" production number starring Sandra Brugnera, current Italian Ladies Champion. An enchanting series of Mother Goose fables will unfold in the delightful Children's Number. The ever graceful "Dance on Ice" with couples swirling in perfect unison and the always exciting Precision chorus line are other show highlights.

One of the top stars of the show is Broadmoor's own Christine Haigler who has been a favorite of Ice Show audiences since she began skating here when she was seven years old. The attractive 16-year-old brunet is an honor student at Cheyenne High School. Her career can be traced from appearances in the children's number in her younger years to the starring solos of today, and from sectional skating titles to National recognition and a place on the United States Olympic and world figure skating teams.

This year, her second time in world competition, she placed fifth, competing with 30 top skaters from 15 countries. Following the competitions she was invited to join other world and Olympic skaters in an exhibition tour of Europe. In the Ice Revue, she will do an interpretive solo punctuated with jumps and spins for which she is famous and skated to the music of "Young, Warm and Wonderful."

Other stars of the big show are Scott Ethan Allen, America's Olympic Bronze Medal winner and current United States Senior Men's Champion; Jerry & Judianne Fotheringill, U.S. Senior Pair Champions and World and Olympic Team members; Sandra Brugnera, Italian Ladies Champion and Olympic Team skater; Sepp Schonmetzler, Olympic and World Team member from West Germany; Gayle Newberry, National Novice Champion; and Eric Waite, the "Clown Prince" of the ice who starred with the Ice Capades for 20 years.

Academy Staffer Originated New Personnel Idea

A newly assigned Air Force Academy staff member is the originator of a personnel requisitioning and processing system adopted by all branches of the Department of Defense.

T. Sgt. Edward L. Barefoot, assigned to the Deputy Chief of staff personnel, received the Air Force Commendation Medal NCOIC Procurement Branch, personnel technician, and statistical accountant for the 1007th Air Intelligence Service Group, Bolling AFB, D. C., prior to his assignment to the Academy.

Charged with the responsibility of developing methods and procedures to be used in procurement of Air Force personnel detailed to a joint service activity, he reorganized the work flow and created a system so valuable it has now become the standard system for all DOD units.

Under his leadership a high degree of efficiency and concrete savings in operating costs were quickly realized.

As a result of his outstanding achievement, Sgt. Braefoot was instrumental in assuring the success of contingent operations of major significance to the government.

$18 Millions Saved by Army Unit Last Year

Savings of more than $18 million were made by the Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM) during the fiscal year which ended June 30, according to Col. James A. Laing, ARADCOM's cost reduction coordinator.

Colonel Laing, who is the G-4 (Logistics) officer of ARADCOM, said the command - wide savings were achieved as part of the Army's contribution to the Department of Defense Cost Reduction Program.

ARADCOM provides Nike Hercules and HAWK missile units to the North American Air Defense Command to help defend critical target centers in the United States and at Thule, Greenland, against air attack.

Savings made by ARADCOM during the year were generated, in part, by replacement of some electronic fire distribution systems with less expensive facilities, eliminatio nof some radar stations, realignment of communications systems, and a reduction in the stocks of high-cost spare parts at missile sites.

The most significant cost reduction action reported by ARADCOM in recent years was the use of target simulators instead of target drones for he Short - Notice Annual Practice (SNAP) missile firings conducted by Army air defense units at McGregor Range in New Mexico. In addition to providing better training for missile batteries, the use of simulated targets provides a recurring annual savings of approximately $5 million a year.

The $18 million in savings initiated by ARADCOM in the last year was re-programmed for use under other approved activities.

ARADCOM is supporting the cost reduction program by eliminating all requirements for spending except those that will provide a significant increase in operational capabilities, or which are essential to the health, welfare, or safety of the command, according to Col. Laing.

"We in ARADCOM," he said, "are fully aware of our responsibilities for reducing costs. We realize that each command and each individual in the Army shares this responsibility, and without their support we will not be able to continue to meet the Army's goals."

He said ARADCOM is "well pleased" with command cost reductions during the last year but that "we certainly do not intend to rest on our laurels."

"We expect to do even better during the next year," he added.

AFA Librarian Writes Article On Railroading

"Down the Colorado in 1889" deals with the planning of the Denver, Colorado, Canon and Pacific Railroad. The article is based primarily on the diary of a Denver mining engineer, Frank C . Kendrick , who was hired in 1889 to make a survey of the route along the upper part of the Colorado River.

Mrs. Stiles analyzed and transcribed the Kendrick notebook. It appears as part of the article.

The magazine is published by the State Histroical Society of Colorado.

A member of the Colorado Mountain Club for more than 13 years, Miss Stiles developed an avid interest in Western history. She is also a former editor of the Mountain Club's Trail and Timberline publication.

She lives at 1222 Buena Ventura in Colorado Springs.

Slemon to Retire From RCAF Friday Morning

That morning at 9:30 a.m. Royal Canadian Air Force Air Marshal C. Roy Slemon will retire from the organization with which he has been associated for the last four decades.

The RCAF, although not old in the measurement of time, but already steeped in the tradition of countless battlefield heroes, will that day lose the last of its original members.

When the famed 25 - piece RCAF Rockcliffe Pipe Band, resplendent in their RCAF tartan kilts, troop the line it will be a memorable day for NORAD and Colorado Springs.

The community will be losing a military friend but gaining a civilian supporter and full-time outstanding citizen. The air marshal plans to remain in Colorado Springs.

The retirement of this famed RCAF officer — in a departure from the military routine — will take place not in his own land but where he has served his country on a final tour of duty.

It is seven years, less two weeks, when on Labor Day Roy Slemon arrived here at the foothills of the Rocky Mountains to assist in the organization and direction of a noble peacetime experiment for both Canada and the United States.

Fittingly, this retirement ceremony, which will include both Canadian and United States characteristics, will take place just a few hundred yards from the spot where he alighted from his aircraft to be greeted by the then NORAD Commander - in-Chief Gen. Earle E. Partridge.

His long tenure of duty as Canada's representative, added to the success of the North American Air Defense Command two-nation all U.S. service concept, only serves to emphasize the success of his efforts.

How well he served his adopted community is indicated by the fact that Colorado Springs made him an honorary citizen in July of 1963.

Present for the impressive two country military retirement ceremony that morning will be all three NORAD commanders-in-chief whom Air Marshal Slemon served as deputy.

Standing beside him and acting as the reviewing officer will be NORAD Commander-in-Chief Gen. John K. Gerhart with whom he has worked for the past two years.

In the reviewing stand will be both — now retired — Gens. Earl E. Partridge and Laurence Kuter who completed their respective military careers in the NORAD top position working closely with their Canadian friend and fellow officer.

U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis E. LeMay will be present representing the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Representing Canada and its Armed Forces for the occasion will be Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller who now heads the recently integrated all - military-service Canadian Defense Staff.

Many of the community fathers with whom the air marshal has worked as a citizen and community leader here for the last seven years will also pay tribute to the veteran RCAF air marshal.

The NORAD band will assist the RCAF pipers at the ceremony, and troops of Ft. Carson will join the NORAD marchers in a tribute to the retired air marshal.

Colorado Springs citizenry are invited and the ceremony itself will take place southeast of the Peterson Field Commercial Terminal directly in front of the military hangars. Directional signs, as well as U.S. Air Force Police, will be available to direct visitors to the designated parking areas.

HOMESTAKE AS BUILT BY NATURE—This is probably the first view J. P. Elliott had of the 10,265-foot high lake nestled between towering peaks of the Continental Divide. Water from Eagle river tributaries will be diverted to this reservoir where a 225-foot dam is now under construction. The water will then be diverted by tunnel to the Eastern Slope storage systems. (Public Utilities Photo)

FISHERMAN'S PARADISE — Missouri Creek, one of the Eagle River tributaries to be diverted into Homestake Lake, tumbles icy water through the wild splendor of the White River National Forest. The water from this stream plus water from the Fancy, Sopris and French creeks will be diverted through the 7,000-foot Missouri mountain tunnel into Homestake Lake. This picture was taken July 15 of this year and shows that runoff water continues to flow in these streams even at this time of the year. (Public Utilities Photo)

Florence Woman Delegate to Demo Convention

Mrs. Joseph Rivera, long active in Florence civic, religious, and political affairs, will be one of 49 Colorado delegates to the National Democratic Convention to be held at Atlantic City, N.J., Aug. 24-29.

At first named as alternate to the convention following an unlucky flip of a coin at the Third Congressional Assembly held recently in Pueblo, Mrs. Rivera made the coveted delegation list when the delegate, Vito Boncelli of Walsenburg found it impossible to make the cross-country junket.

Mrs. Rivera will be one of nine delegates representing Colorado's Third Congressional District at the conclave. Each of the three districts in the state will send nine delegates and 22 delegates at large will represent the Denver metropolitan area.

Colorado will have four delegate votes at the convention.

Leaving Denver Sunday, Aug 23 at 9:45 a.m. by jet liner, Mrs. Rivera and her fellow delegates will be housed at the Hotel Barbizion Motor Inn in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Rivera, following the convention, will remain on the East Coast for two weeks to visit friends before returning home.

She is employed by the Rev. Kevin Carr, O.S.B. at St. Benedict's parish in Florence as housekeeper and domestic assistant for the past eight years. She has also found time to serve as second vice president of the Fremont County Jane Jefferson Club, is an active member of the Altar and Rosary Society, and works actively with the American Red Cross chapter.

A native of Berwind, Colo., Mrs. Rivera lived in Trinidad for many years before moving to Florence in 1944.

She is the mother of five sons and a daughter.

Story of Homestake Water Project One of Drama, Struggle, Frustration

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of three articles covering the Homestake Water Development Project from its historical beginning, the struggle to bring it into existence, to finally its stage of completion today.

By DICK MOORE
Gazette Telegraph Business Editor

The Homestake Water Development Program splashes across the annals of Colorado Springs history in a cascade of complex components. The Continental Divide echoes to the roar of brute machines ripping out dam sites, enlarging reservoir areas, digging tunnels and constructing diversion dams. Engineers sweat over drawing boards while workmen match human muscle with earthy brawn in an $80-million struggle to bring water to Colorado Springs and Aurora.

Though the local cost, $50 million, is financed by the sale of revenue bonds on a pay-as-you-go basis, there are some who question the feasibility of such an expense. After all, isn't water just a common mineral that falls from the skies in abundance when conditions are right — something that helps kids mix mud pies to smear on freshly cleaned clothes — a liquid used by alcoholics after the bars close? Why spend so much money for something that always gurgles out of water faucets when the taps are opened?

But will it always gurgle? Ask the agriculturist who watches his crops wither because of its lack. Watch a thirsty man on the desert clutch at moisture-laden mirages.

Communities, like men, can grow thirsty also. Could there come a time in Colorado Springs when an opened water tap would produce only a sucking noise?

This was a question asked in the 1940's by local men of foresight. Men who had studied historical records of the region. Indian and pioneer alike, that clearly indicated 25 - year drought periods had occurred and could occur again in the semi-arid Pikes Peak Region. Men who looked to the mountains for water and realized it would not come to them, they must go to it.

At this point the Homestake water tale begins; a tale of drama, struggle and frustration but ultimately triumph for those who expanded, and are now expending, vital energy, in planning the acquirement of an adequate supply of water for our local, thirst-ridden region.

The Homestake water story begins with J. P. Elliott, Denver engineer, who loved to shoulder a pack on his brawny shoulders and hike into primeval areas of the Rockies. During his years of wilderness-trekking he learned locations of Continental Divide headwaters, land contours and natural water reservoir sites.

One day in the early 1950's he climbed the Gold Park trail on the Western Slope of Tennessee Pass. Here a dirt road, almost in the shadow of the Mount of the Holy Cross, wound through the once bustling Homestake Gold Camp, then almost perpendicularly over steep ridges and log-strewn paths of the pine forest.

Though enjoying the rushing sound of nearby Homestake Creek pouncing over age-bleached boulders, the splash of trout in lily-covered ponds, and the smell of wild geraniums and columbines underfoot, Elliott still viewed the terrain with an engineer's eye. Suddenly, high in the forest, Ponderosa pines pulled back trailing green skirts revealing the virgin splendor of Homestake Lake against the background of snow-capped peaks.

Eying the sparkling lake waters, the engineer instantly orientated the lake as a possible storage reservoir for nearby mountain streams. He realized that a tunnel through the Great Divide connecting the lake with the Eastern Slope would surely bring a bountiful water supply to parched portions of the state where the largest population areas received the smallest percentage of annual rainfall and water runoff.

In 1956, after several years of surveying work, Elliott decided to place his findings before Eastern Slope city officials. Everywhere he met with disinterest, and finally, in a discouraged frame of mind, he came to Colorado Springs. Here he found a willing audience and in a few minutes was deep in discussion with Ted Hohl, then manager of the public utilities, Raymond Nixon, then chief engineer, J. S. Nichols, water superintendent and Fred Wiley, electrical engineer.

These men knew the water problem confronting the city as based on an eight per cent compounded estimate of local area population increase per year. They were also aware that this growth planning chart had been upset in 1954 with the announcement that the Air Force Academy was to be located in Colorado Springs. This announcement had made it imperative to complete the pipeline to Montgomery Dam, a storage area for Blue River water, by 1955.

According to Elliott, and subsequent findings by an engineer employed by Colorado Springs, the Homestake program was feasible and could supply an additional 75,000 acre feet of water to the Eastern Slope each year.

The planners also knew that such a project, because of Colorado Springs' top credit rating, could be financed through the sale of revenue bonds and not create an additional burden on the taxpayers.

Elliott, financed by Boettcher and Company of Denver, became a partner and remained so until Colorado Springs and Aurora bought out his interests and decided to be sole financiers of the venture.

A tunnel on the Eastern Slope side of the Great Divide was started in 1956 and water-right filings were made in the Eagle District Court, for the area encompassing the Eagle River tributaries from which the water was to be diverted.

Holding water hearings in a district court located in the area from which water would be taken is like bearding a lion in his den. In spite of continued efforts of City Attorney Frederick Henry, City Manager John Biery, Assistant City Attorney Louis Johnson and other city officials, defeat of the project seemed certain.

District Judge William Luby of Eagle County presided over the hearing and Attorney John Bernard, Grandby attorney for the Colorado River Conservancy District, represented Western Slope interests.

Bernard contended that an oil and shale enterprise, the Red Cliff Project, would require all water from the Eagle River and its tributaries. Eagle water needs were also supported by Eagle County agriculturists.

Eastern Slope men presented their water needs to the court, basing the needs on the population growth projection of their areas. This projection was contested by Professor Aspinall of Colorado University who attempted to discredit the Eastern area growth figures.

The bitterly-fought contest dragged over a two-year period before the judge handed down his decision, namely: "That Colorado Springs had presented insufficient evidence of the need of surplus water. That the project at that particular time was conditional, speculative and not definite." The fact that $62,500 had been spent on tunnel excavations in an effort to show due diligence, had no apparent influence on the court.

No one was particularly surprised by the Luby verdict, but Eastern Slopers, however, were far from through. Chins stuck out a little firmer as Henry and the men who stood behind him, filed a brief with the State Supreme Court, petitioning a reversal of the Eagle court decision.

Before, and subsequent to the Supreme Court brief-filing, other brief preparations, oral arguments to be delivered before the court, counter claims and supplements appendaged to the brief by the cities of Denver and Pueblo, delayed Supreme Court action until October 1961.

By this time, with the end of the struggle in sight, suspense ran high. Tension lined the faces of Eastern Slope officials and attorneys who had patiently fought the long fight. In every mind were questions. Was the project to be defeated after all the expenditure of effort, time and money? Was the Eastern Slope doomed to continue a parched existence in the face of a rapidly increasing population problem?

Then tightened mouths relaxed into smiles. The Supreme Court, denouncing as unconstitutional the Eagle court verdict, decreed: "Nothing in the constitution even intimates that waters should be retained for use in the watershed where originating."

The court battles were now ended but the water war was far from won. The warriors now turned their eyes to cloud-shrouded mountain peaks where upcoming campaigns must be waged against the forces of nature for possession of the precious liquid.

(Next the story of Homestake Tunnel, a five-and-a-half - mile hole in a mountain.)

Two-Way Radio Expected To Improve GT Coverage

The Gazette Telegraph has taken another step in upgrading its news service and circulation facilities by the installation of a two-way radio system between the office and its field cars.

The system was installed Tuesday and operates under FCC license with an approximate range of 30 miles. Three circulation cars, and one vehicle used by news photographers carry the equipment.

* * *

Preston Trower, circulation department manager, said that radio-controlled cars spotted over the city will assure the paper's 33,000 customers prompt and fast delivery of the paper at all times.

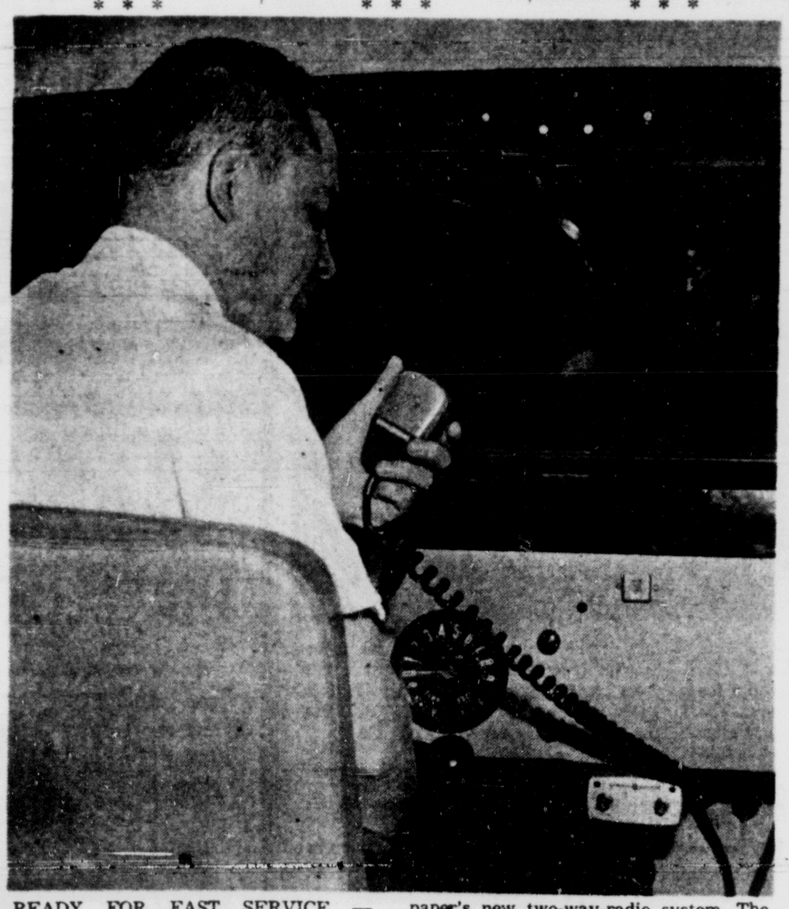

A carrier, short several papers on his route, now has only to call the office. A circulation vehicle in his area will be notified by radio and the carrier will have the papers he is short in just a few moments time, Trower said.

* * *

Trower said that at the present time customers have been calling the paper between the hours of 5:30 and 8 p.m. on weekdays to be assured delivery. With the new radio phones, calling hours will remain the same but delivery will be much faster.

Maurice Whitney, managing editor, said the new equipment will upgrade news coverage. A standby radio car ready to cover fast-breaking news close to deadline provides a great advantage in obtaining the latest news for GT readers.

"This installation is a part of the steady expansion of our plant and is one more step in our efforts to give our customers the finest news coverage possible," Whitney said.

READY FOR FAST SERVICE — Harold Haver, assistant circulation manager for the Gazette Telegraph, demonstrates how easy it is to communicate with the home office with the paper's new two-way-radio system. The equipment has been installed in four vehicles in an effort to provide faster paper delivery and news coverage to the paper's 33,000 customers. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Roy A. Davis Receives Top Eagle Award

A long-time resident of Colorado Springs, Roy A. Davis, 1422 N. Tejon St., was one of nine eminent Americans to be honored by the highest of awards at the 66th Grand Aerie Convention, Fraternal Order of Eagles, which closed a four-day session in Denver Saturday.

The award was in recognition of Davis' national record as a member of the Colorado Welfare Board for 26 consecutive years, 17 years as chairman; as a leader, with his late brother Ray, in establishing of one of the first pension and welfare programs in the nation, and for the service he has rendered his community, state and nation in numerous humanitarian programs.

The Colorado Springs resident was also the subject of the lead article, "His Brother's Keeper" in the Eagle, the fraternity's national magazine, August issue.

Mobilization Orders Given Naval Reserve

The Naval Reserve training Center located at Lake and Logan Streets on Prospect Lake has just received mobilization orders for a number of Colorado Springs reservists who may be activated in the event if a general mobilization.

The Naval Reserve Manpower Center (NRMC) Bainbridge, Md. was given mobilization assignment and order writing responsibility for inactive duty enlisted reserve and retired personnel throughout the Navy. The new type orders were developed by NRMC in close cooperation with the Personnel Accounting Machine Installation, Continental U.S. (PAMICONUS) also located at Bainbridge.

By using high speed computers the orders are machine printed at more than 100 per hour. After printing by PAMICONUS they are double checked by NRMC for accuracy, then mailed to Naval Reserve Training Activities and subsequently issued to drilling Selected Reserve personnel in order to facilitate rapid expansion of the Navy in the event of mobilization. Approximately 80,000 orders have been mailed as a result of the Manower Center's first enlisted assignments.

Local Woman Treated For Shock by Firemen

Fire Department resuscitator crew from Station 1 at 9:35 a.m. Saturday went to the home of Margaret Ortiz, 23, 335 E. Boulder St., when she suffered shock at receiving word that her brother, who was in an accident Thursday, had died. The firemen used an inhalator for 10 minutes, restoring her to consciousness.

WINDOW DISPLAY WINNER — This Fashion Bar window, designed by Mrs. Chris Nivens, display manager, won first place in the Rodeo Window Display contest in Colorado Springs. Shown are approximately $2,000 worth of Indian artifacts furnished by the Flying W Ranch. The center of interest is the two Navajo Indian ladies, Cora Martin and her daughter Julie who worked in the window actually weaving one of the famous Navajo rugs as well as spinning their own wool. These ladies were in the window each day during rodeo week and can be seen each night at the Flying W Ranch chuckwagon suppers. They have lived at the ranch for the past two years. For Mrs. Nivens, this is the second straight year she has won first prize in the contest.

Rocky Will Try To Urge Barry 'Moderation'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is going to make another attempt to steer Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater toward a more "moderate" policy line, sources close to Rockefeller say.

The governor is withholding any commitment to campaign personally for the Goldwater-Miller ticket, either within or outside New York State.

Rockefeller's public position, a spokesman said Friday, is that he is standing by his oft-repeated pledge to support the party's national ticket.

The word "support" cannot, however, be translated into campaign speaking appearances in behalf of Goldwater, said Rockefeller's press secretary, Robert L. McManus. He said Rockefeller had no such plans at this time.

Sources close to the governor said Rockefeller would await the outcome of next Wednesday's GOP "unity conference" at Hershey, Pa., before deciding what role to take in the presidential campaign.

The sources said Rockefeller was withholding a statement on his personal plans in order to use it as a bargaining device at Hershey. His object will be to persuade Goldwater to take a more moderate approach during the campaign, it was said.

Goldwater invited Republican governors and gubernatorial candidates to the meeting to promote party unity behind his candidacy.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Your Healthy Teeth Ache? Cause May Be in Jaw Joint

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, DD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Since my teeth were pulled out," Mrs. M complains, "I feel pressure in my jaw and the side of my head hurts. I don't know if this has anything to do with it, but my tongue burns, too."

Mrs. M's trouble brings us once again to that vital bit of anatomy called the temporomandibular joint, or the hinge on which the jaw moves.

The way our upper and lower teeth fit together can affect this hinge. When it is thrown out of line, by the removal of teeth, or even by a poorly fitting bridge, the T.M. joint may act up.

Such a condition can produce a variety of ills; snapping, clicking, aching of still healthy teeth, neuralgic pains and the discomforts mentioned by Mrs. M. For this joint to remain healthy, teeth should be kept in proper balance. Dentists do this by "checking the bite" and adjusting the biting surfaces of the teeth.

In a study of 90 patients with complete sets of false teeth, only two had joint problems, and these were probably due to arthritis. According to the researcher, lack of teeth takes pressure off the joint and thus eliminates joint troubles. One can only exert a bit of around 50 pounds pressure per square inch with false teeth, compared with 250 pounds with natural teeth.

Mrs. M. should have her missing teeth replaced by bridges. These will have to be removable since there are no molars present on which to attach a fixed bridge. But fixed bridges are preferred when possible. They strengthen adjoining teeth and are more natural. Only a dentist can decide what's best for each situation.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Lawyer Protests New Amendment Writers Say

DENVER (UPI)—Denver attorney George Creamer, who successfully carried Colorado's legislative reapportionment to the U.S. Supreme Court and got it thrown out, has protested a proposed reapportionment amendment.

Creamer wrote to President Johnson, opposing the proposal in Congress, under which states could apportion one house of their legislatures on a basis other than population.

"The 14th Amendment cannot be delayed in effect by order of the Congress," Creamer wrote. The 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution guarantees equal protection under the law.

Booklet Cites Similarity of City Charters

BOULDER — A suggestion that the similarity among Colorado council-manager charters is contrary to the home rule principle is offered by Asst. Prof. John C. Buechner of the University of Colorado in a pamphlet on the state's council-manager cities.

Bueschner wrote the pamphlet in his capacity as assistant director for research of the CU Bureau of Governmental Research and Service. The publication is entitled "City Managers and Councils: Charter Provisions in Colorado Home Rule Cities."

In the pamphlet, Buechner says, "It may be argued that it is precisely the need for diversity in charter provisions which enables the home rule principle to retain some meaning."

He notes that council - manager charters "generally conform to accepted practices." There are 24 cities in Colorado with council-manager charters ranging in population from Wray with 2,125 persons to Pueblo with 96,400.

Buechner writes "If local government charter conventions could not prescribe duties and functions as they saw fit, then the home rule principle would have little importance."

The pamphlet is the result of a factual study of home rule charter provisions in Colorado council-manager cities from hiring - firing practices to pay scales. It is available for $1 at the bureau office in 205 Hellems Building on the CU campus.

Medical Units To Reorganize Under ADC

The Air Defense Command has been given the responsibility of training, supervising and inspecting 20 reorganized Medical Reserve Units located at 17 ADC bases throughout the United States. Four units are already activated, two go into operation Saturday and it is anticipated that the remaining 14 will be established by the end of the 1965 Fiscal Year.

Prior to the reorganization their were five reserve hospitals throughout the country containing 1,000 beds each. It was difficult to train reserve medical personnel as a unit because of the complications in getting large numbers of personnel to attend training sessions at the same time. Under the reorganization, units will vary in strength from approximately 25 to possibly as many as 165 men. Ideally they will reside within a 50-mile radius of their traning base. This will permit a larger percentage of personnel to meet and train as a unit.

The Continental Air Command, the command to which the Medical Reserve units actually belong, is still responsible for their administration. In case of mobilization, however, the Reserve units would merge into their respective ADC training organizations.

General military training of these reserves is accomplished through formal classroom instruction and practical application. Technical training is received through on-the-job training in the same manner as regular active duty personnel are trained.

Those units already activated include the 19th and 402d Medical Service Squadrons at Otis AFB, Calif. The 407th Medical Service Flight at Perrin AFB, Texas, and the 416th Medical Service Flight at Hamilton.

Those being activated Saturday (Aug. 8) are the 31st Medical Service Flight at Niagara Falls Air Force Missile Station, N.Y., and the 432d Medical Service Flight at Tyndall AFB, Fla.

Flood Damage in Manitou Not Covered by Insurance

The hail and flood in the Manitou Springs area Tuesday produced property damage of a type covered by the usual property, insurance policy, while at the same time, producing another type of damage specifically excluded by insurance policies.

Colorado Insurance Commissioner, J. Richard Barnes, C. L. U., pointed out today that damage caused by "rising water" is not covered by the usual insuring agreement.

"Flood insurance is not generally available as ordinarily the only persons that would buy this type of coverage live in relatively small areas that are subjected to a threat of rising waters. One of the basic principles of insurance is that the risk be spread over a broad base and this cannot be done with flood insurance. Certainly, a man living on a hilltop would not want to buy flood insurance and this makes it impossible to adequately spread the risk," Barnes stated.

Turning to the covered types of damage caused by Tuesday's hail storm, Commissioner Barnes pointed out that damage to buildings caused by hail storms is customarily covered under the standard Home owner's Policy and under the extended coverage provision of the standard Fire Insurance Policy, while damage caused to automobiles is covered by the comprehensive portion of the Automobile Insurance Policy.

In commenting on hail damage, Commissioner Barnes noted that this same area was struck by a hail storm in 1961. At that time, many residents were paid for hail damage to roofs and it has been reported to the commissioner that some property owners received checks from their insurance company but did not have the repairs made.

"It is not fair to expect insurance companies to pay for the same damage twice," he said. "It is fair that they pay for the damage caused by Tuesday's storm, but they should not be asked to pay again for the damage caused by the 1961 hail storm when repairs were not made. I urge all property owners to be scrupulously fair in presenting their claims to the insurance companies. By doing this, they will help to expedite the adjustment of these losses. Every effort will be made by the adjusters to separate damage which might have been previously paid from current damage. It is well to note that the rates charged for insurance are based upon claim costs. If claims are inflated, then this will tend to push up insurance rates."

The commissioner further pointed out "that when losses are paid the insurance companies have the right to expect that the repairs for which the loss is paid will be completed and replaced so that the property will then be placed in the relative condition it was before the storm.

"The General Adjustment Bureau has established a storm office at 6 Canon Ave. in Manitou Springs to expedite the handling of the claims. The phone number is 985-5481. They have called in additional adjusters in order to accomplish this and it is hoped that all claims can be adjusted and settled within the month. Emergency cases will receive immediate attention and it is suggested that those with less severe damage report their claims but have some understanding of any short delay which might be necessary in final adjustment. It is estimated that damage was sustained by between 1,000 and 1,400 buildings in the Manitou Springs area."

Ent Preschool Dependents Due Physicals Friday

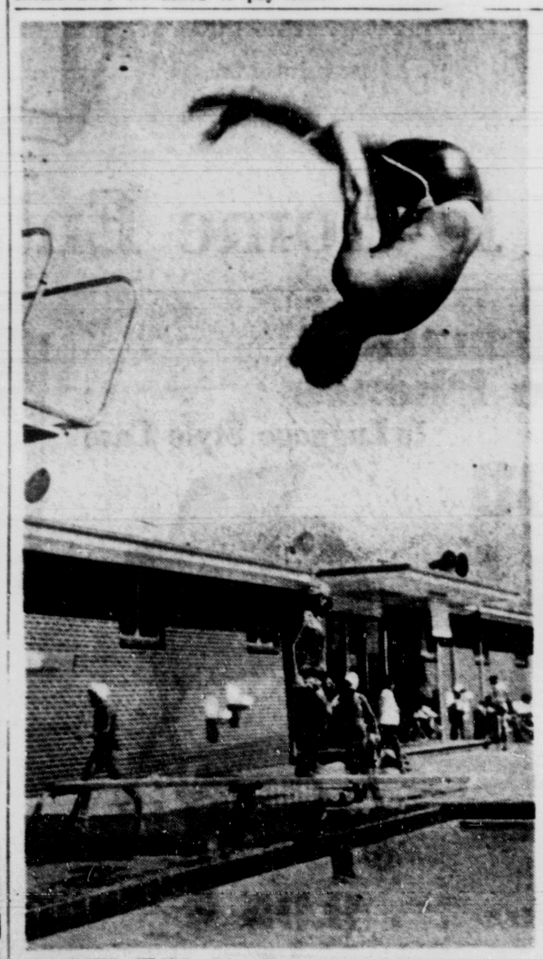

Preschool physical examinations for dependents of Ent Air Force Base military personnel are to be given at the Base Dispensary Friday, for children who will attend Colorado Springs public schools in September.

The physical examinations will be given in the Base Theatre at 8 a.m. that morning for children entering kindergarten, 1st and 4th grades and new students through grade 6.

At 1 p.m. school physicals will be given in the Base Theatre to students entering 7th and 10th grades, those requiring sports physicals and new students entering grades 7 through 12.

Parents having children in both the first and second groups may select either time period for the examination of all students in the family.

A personal immunization record should accompany each child scheduled to receive a physical examination. Medical conditions unrelated to the preschool physical program will not be considered at this time, according to Ent Dispensary officals.

Cadet Riflemen Draw a Bead On NRA Honors

The nine returned early from summer leave to begin practice sessions on Fort Carson ranges this week. Headed by team coach T. Sgt. Orval Landers the shooters will sharpen their eyes and techniques until the 15th, then fly to the National Rifle Matches held each year at Camp Perry, Ohio.

From Aug. 16 to Aug. 30 cadets will compete individually for National Rifle Championships and, as an intercollegiate team, shoot against the Military, Naval, and Coast Guard academies and ROTC units for many colleges and universities.

The national match course will be fired by cadets both as individual entries and team members. This course consists of 10 rounds slow fire standing and 10 round rapid fire sitting at 200 yards; 10 rounds rapid fire prone position at 300 yards; and 20 rounds prone slow fire at 600 yards.

All courses will be fired with match grade M-1 service rifles.

According to Coach Landers, the nine shooters represent top talent on a 16-man squad. Cadet Second Class George A. Suro, for instance, has won 15 place awards in his last three matches. Cadet First Class Douglas A. McGrath earned expert classification in the first competition match he fired.

As a team the Academy shooters have entered five matches since the first of the year and won six awards. Fifteen team members have won a total of 75 awards, including five state championships.

COLOR TRICKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — If your house is too close to the street, paint it a light color. Light colors reflect more light and make objects seem farther away, advise building experts at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division.

ATTACKS STATEMENT

BOULDER (UPI)—State Sen. Roy McVicker, D-Wheat Ridge, was criticized Friday for accusing U.S. Rep. Don Brotzman, R-Colo., of voting against the Vocational Education Act of 1963. Boulder County Republican Chairman Gerald Caplan said Brotzman voted in favor of the act, not against it. McVicker will oppose Brotzman this fall for the congressional post.

New Equipment Will Modernize 5th Infantry

ion and modernization of the 5th Infantry Division (mechanized) at Ft. Carson is getting underway with the expected arrival of new equipment and weapons announced today by Col. A. H. Smith Jr., chief of staff.

Among the items expected to arrive soon are M110 self-propelled 8-inch howitzers, M106 mortar carriers, M114A1 command and reconnaisance vehicles (when production resumes) M14E2 rifles and eventually the Field Artillery Digital Computer.

In addition to these items the division expects to receive 15 more OH-13S helicopters this month for the 5th Aviation Battalin. Seventeen of the Sioux have already replaced the OH-23 Ravens.

Also, for the next few months Ft. Carson will receive 24 five-ton trucks per month. They are coming from Ft. Riley, Kan. for use by all Infantry, Artillery and Armor units. The 101 trucks will supplement the original authorization of 88 five ton trucks.

PROCEEDINGS STARTED

DENVER (UPI)— More than 20,000 acres of Rio Grande National Forest have been opened to public access and recreation in south central Colorado due to land condemnation proceedings. The U.S. Forest Service which took the action said the land is in the head waters of the Chama River in Archuleta County, Colo., and Rio Arribal County, N.M.

Benet Academy Installs New Material Center

In preparation for increased enrollment this fall, the Benet Hill Academy library has been converted into a modern instructional materials center. Enrichment and expansion mark this transition.

To provide more study and shelving space, the library has been extended to include the former chapel. The area used during the past year is retained as a professional library.

Current acquisitions include two thousand books, numerous magazines, recordings, and film strips on art, history, and science. Many of the books and magazines are donations acquired in the drive being sponsored by the Mothers' Guild.

A special library staff have been working since June. Besides processing the books, they have developed an audio-visual center, set up a professional library for teachers, established a five-year magazine file, and organized a vertical file.

Fall purchases will supplement the book collection and will establish a core of fifty current periodicals.

The development of the new instructional materials center is under the direction of Sister Mary Dennis, librarian of Bishop Amat High School, La Puenta, Calif. Nine other Benedictine Sisters, all of Benet Hill Priory, are assisting her.

Gas utilities throughout the United States will serve about 36.5 million customers in 1964, an increase of about 900,000 over 1963, according to the American Gas Association.

If You See Fancy Deer, Hear Bells, Call Roger

FORT COLLINS — If you hear the tinkle of little bells while you're up one of the canyons in the Cache la Poudre River flowage, don't just shake your head and mutter something about seeing your doctor.

Or if you see deer wearing white or yellow ropes around their necks to which are attaced small copper bells and colored tags, make a mental note of the area. Then, as soon as possible, will you please notify Roger J. Siglin.

Roger is a Colorado State University graduate student in the College of Forestry and Range Management, majoring in game management with the Colorado Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit. His research thesis concerns the migratory knowledge of the seasonal movements of deer will help in more efficient management of the deer herd.

Siglin's trouble is he cannot cover the approximately 1,200 square miles in his research territory by himself. "I need help and wonder whether people would be willing to let me know when and where they see or hear the tagged deer."

Siglin began his research in January '63. He adopted a snare-type device that is completely harmless to deer and has been used successfully in a Michigan deer study. It is fashioned with wire, polyethylene rope, and an automatic release-catch. Attached to the rope is the small (about two inches long and 1 ½ inches in diameter bell and a red, white, blue or yellow tag with two- - inch numerals.

Fashioned into a large loop, it is placed at head height on a tree where it projects over the deer run. If Siglin is lucky the deer inadvertantly puts its head through the loop and takes it along with him as he continues on his way. An ingenious catch fastens the ends of the rope together as it releases the wire — and Siglin has a tagged deer which he hopes someone will see or hear during the summer.

Last winter he had 830 of these loops spread out over the Poudre herd's winter range. To date, he has had five reports on bells but none on collar color. The bells were heard at Chambers Lake, Bennett Creek, Beaver Creek, Stormy Peak in the Rocky Mountain National Park and Seven-Mile.

"Because we have no idea how many deer retained their loops and need to build up our data, we're calling on the public for help," Siglin explained.

So if you hear a bell tinkling somewhere on the Poudre River flowage or see deer wearing a yellow or white "necklace" with a bell and colored tag, would you please drop Roger Siglin a postcard. His address: 16 E. Aggie Village, Fort Collins. He will contact you for further information. For those living in or close to Fort Collins, please call the unit's secretary, Mrs. Donna Koontz, at 491-6665, rather than Roger because he will be up in the mountains looking and listening for his tagged deer.

EMPLOYMENT ROSE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Non-agricultural wage and salary employment in the 13 western states rose to 9.4 million in mid-June, the Labor Department said Friday. However, it noted that a gain of 134,000 jobs over mid-May was less than usual for this time of year. The mountain states had an above-average showing.

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

C. S. DUDLEY

The razing of some of the old buildings on the south side of Colorado Avenue between 25th and 26th Streets, to clear the ground for a new structure, leaves an empty place where part of the saloon - gambling empire of the late Byron Hames used to be. It was probably the most widely known spot in old Colorado City, which is now a part of Colorado Springs, known as the West Side.

Of all the fabulous, fantastic tales of Old Town the story of Byron Hames caps the climax. At the southeast corner of Colorado Avenue and 25th Street was the Hoffman Hotel, next to it was the Hoffman Restaurant, then came a bowling alley owned by Hames and next to it, near the middle of the block, was the Hoffman House Bar, a saloon known far and wide. All of the other businesses on the south side of that block, except the Taylor Department Store, and perhaps a small drugstore, were saloons, and Hames is said to have been the real owner of most of them; as well as the Hoffman House Bar. He also had saloon property between 26th and 27th Streets on Colorado Avenue. And above his saloons were gambling rooms.

Colorado City was a wide open town in those days, and most of the business of that kind carried on there revolved around Hames, who wore the only swallow tail coat in town and was as free with his money as he was successful in getting it. But in the end he went broke and in later years cut the lawn at C. D. Taylor's home and, going to Denver, did janitor work at a bookstore and was reported to have been a dish-washer in a restaurant there at the time of his death.

In his heyday it was his custom to send a check for $1,000 to any church that was raising funds. The story is told that when an employe of one of the ore reduction mills in Colorado City lost his whole check in Hames' gambling rooms, Hames as he departed handed it back to him and told him to take it home and give it to his wife, accompanying his remarks with the sage advice not to come back to gamble any more, as he, Hames, had some of the most expert poker, black jack and other gamblers then going and that the worker could not expect to win from them.

At the time there were several reduction mills in Colorado City going full blast and the Colorado Midland shops there employed many more men. Business was humming and the name of Byron Hames was on almost everybody's tongue.

The elder Taylor, C. D. Sr., at one time had two stores in Colorado City and one in Colorado Springs. His sons, C. D. Taylor Jr., and C. W. Taylor now reside at 1019 N. Wahsatch Ave., in Colorado Springs.

I never knew Hames, and cannot remember having ever seen him. The elder Taylor died in 1924. C. D. Taylor Jr. in 1957 told me much about Hames and other Colorado City characters of those days, and I wrote a piece for the Gazette Telegraph of that interview. I find a clipping in the office files and here requote three paragraphs from what Taylor told me at the time.

"Colorado City became a boom town," he said. "The Philadelphia and Golden Cycle reduction works were going full blast, and gold ore poured in from Cripple Creek. The Colorado Midland Railroad employed many men in its shops there. There was a glass factory in operation.

"My father, when payday came, on a Saturday, would give a two-day note at the bank for as much as $25,000, with which to cash pay checks. Goodness knows how much money Hames and other saloon keepers paid out in cashing checks.

"Hames," Taylor said, "was a medium sized man and smooth shaven. He always wore a swallow tail coat. He was the only man in Colorado City who did. He had his shoes custom made. He was known throughout Colorado City. There was a benevolent side to him. He helped out many persons. If a church was to be started he would send his check for $1,000 without being asked for a contribution. He was as liberal with money as he was gainful in his liquor and gambling activities."

Roving Editor To Deliver CU Heritage Talk

BOULDER, — A man who has spent more than 30 years in journalistic examination of the United States will discuss "America's Unfinished Business" at the University of Colorado Monday.

He is Paul Friggens, roving editor for The Reader's Digest, who will give the third lecture in CU's 1964 free public American Heritage Lecture Series. He will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the ballroom of the University Memorial Center.

Anative of South Dakota, Friggens has been a jounalist since his student days at the University of South Dakota in the early 1930's. He made his first national journalistic impact shortly after graduation, when he scooped the nation on the suicide of the then public enemy No. 1, Verne Sankey, after having obtained the only interview Sankey ever gave.

As a result of those stories Friggens was hired by the United Press news service. From there he went to NEA Service, Inc., the Scripps-Howard feature service, where he was a feature writer, Sunday magazine editor and book critic. From NEA he joined the Associated Press as an executive in New York where he also was a lecturer at the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism.

He joined the staff of Farm Journal magazine in 1946, returning to the West as its western editor. During his 10 years with the magazine he won frequent recognition for outstanding agricultural reporting.

In 1956 he left the Farm Journal to help found Together, a monthly magazine published by the Methodist Church. He was the magazine's executive editor for 18 months before resigning to devote full time to freelance magazine article writing.

In 1960 he moved back to Boulder, where he has been a visiting lecturer on the faculty of the CU School of Journalism.

Basic Cadets' Field Day Wild and Woolly

Take several hundred well-conditioned men, toss in a wild and wonderful variety of athleic events ranging from wall climbs to push ball, and you have the Air Force Academy's basic cadet field day.

Although official aim of the big day, scheduled this year for Tuesday, Aug. 18, is to give the public a chance to observe the results of the basic cadet physical raining, it also provides a full morning of fun.

Events are held on the athletic fields immediately north of the Cadet Gymnasium beginning at 8 a.m. Spectaor seating will be available and there will be plenty of parking space.

All final events and finishes of races, except for the pentathlon and obstacle course, will be directly in front of the stands.

Points won by the eight basic cadet squadrons in the competition play an important part in award of the 81st Fighter Wing Memorial Trophy for the best basic unit.

Events to be seen on the 18th include: distance run, pentathlon, wall climb, sprint relay, obstacle course, push ball, log relay, and tug-of-war.

The program will end with a short exhibition by the Drum and Bugle Corps and presentation of awards by the Commandant of Cadets, Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong, Jr.

AFA Airmen Sweep Honors At Prep School

A Data Systems Specialist, Tweed received the honor graduate and airmanship and military bearing awards and was named class speaker. His grade average of 98.91 was the highest ever recorded under the grading system now in use at the school.

Only one other student in the five - year history of the Prep School has received all three honors.

For his exceptional performance, Tweed received the personal congratulations of Academy Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren.

HEADS BRANCH — Lt. Col. Ernest G. Montgomery has become chief of the maintenance management branch of the logistics section at Army Air Defense Command headquarters. A combat veteran, Col. Montgomery, his wife, and their two children live at 2107 Tesla Dr. He only recently graduated from the Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

PRESCRIPTION RECORD

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's pharmacists filled a record 741,401,000 (m) prescriptions last year, up 5.6 per cent from 1962. The total bill was $2.4 billion, up six per cent from 1962.

Infantry Urged To Maintain High Standards

Members of the 5th Infantry Division (Mech) were urged by their new commander at a Ft. Carson review, Wednesday, to "maintain the high standards, professional know-how, and the espirit which have been attained by those who preceded us."

In brief remarks at his welcoming review, Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun also reminded his soldiers of the division's fine past accomplishments and solicited their support in the division's future undertakings.

Gen. Maroun said "with the continued cooperation of the gracious and congenial people of this wonderful Pikes Peak Region, will enable the Red Devils to remain as the Army's finest."

The review was staged for the general by 12,000 soldiers from the Red Diamond Division and Ft. Carson. Under the Command of Brig. Gen. Charles B. Smith, assistant division commander, the Carson soldiers combined marching precision, and a fly-over by aircraft from the division's 5th Aviation Battalion to demonstrate their potential to their new commander.

As an added feature to the parade jet aircraft from the 832d Air Division at Cannon Air Force Base, N.M. flew over in a diamond formation (for the Red Diamond division). Air support from the 832d is not a new thing to the division as the division is traditionally the unit which has provided Tactical air support in several instances in the past.

Following the review General Maroun attended a reception in the Ft. Carson Officer's Club to meet the senior commanders and civilians from the Pikes Peak Region.

Meningitis Epidemic Seen at Army Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 280 cases of meningitis, with over a score of deaths, have occurred at military bases this year, Defense Department records show.

The largest number of cases and deaths were at Army posts. From Jan. 1 through July 24 there were 216 cases with 19 deaths.

Ten of the deaths were at Ft. Ord, Calif., the big West Coast training center.

Hamil Says State Planning Third

DENVER (UPI) — David Hamil, Colorado State Institutions director, said last week the state hoped to build a third facility for the mentally retarded at Colorado State Hospital in Pueblo.

"This is still in the planning stage," Hamil said. "It has not been fully approved by Gov. Love. He is aware of it and was one of the first to suggest it."

Hamil said the new facility would be possible because of a population drop at the hospital—from 6,100 five years ago to 3,500 today. It is expected to drop to 2,200 in the next four years.

Hamil said the decline in population was because of the present program of sending elderly persons to nursing homes and the new Fort Logan Mental Health Center in Denver.

CANADIAN TROPICS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Add unlikely business sites: an orange juice plant in Hamilton, Ontario.

It's a Canadian first, according to Chemetron's Votator division, which supplied the processing and container - filling equipment. Both customs duties and shipping costs are reduced by importing the juice in bulk a a partially processed frozen concentrate, then reprocessing it for retail sale.

He and his wife, Mary and three school-age sons live at 1522 Baylor Drive. He is an Air Force veteran. Gideon was born in Rocky Ford and attended Colorado Springs schools and Denver University. He has over 17 years experience as a mechanic with local firms as well as Ford Motors and Post Ordance at Fort Carson. During World War II he saw service in 4 Pacific campaigns with the Army Combat Engineers. He is a member of the Englewood I.O.O.F. and, with his wife Beverley resides at 1522 Querida Drive. They have a married daughter. Dunaway originally from Texas, was previously employed by A. J. Foyt, famous Indianapolis race champion, who with his father operates their well known garage in Houston. He was a Tech Sergeant in the Air Force and with his wife Ethel and two school age sons live at 1726 South Nevada. adv.

ADC Strong Contender For Air Force Awards

The Air Defense Command will again rate strong consideration in the annual U.S. Air Force awards program for the Operation and Maintenance of Electrical Power and Heat Generating Plants. Since the program began three years ago, ADC has captured six out of a possible 14 first place awards. No other command in the Air Force can boast this number of top awards.

More than 200 ADC power production and heating utility teams enter the competition by submitting brochures outlining their administrative and technical activities to their respective division headquarters. The divisions select their most outstanding two electrical entries and three heating entries and send them to ADC headquarters for the final phase of the Command contest which was completed by Aug. 3.

Command engineers review the brochures received from the divisions and select 15 teams for consideration. Each of these 15 teams is then personally inspected and five are chosen to represent ADC at Air Force level competition. USAF competition begins Sept. 30.

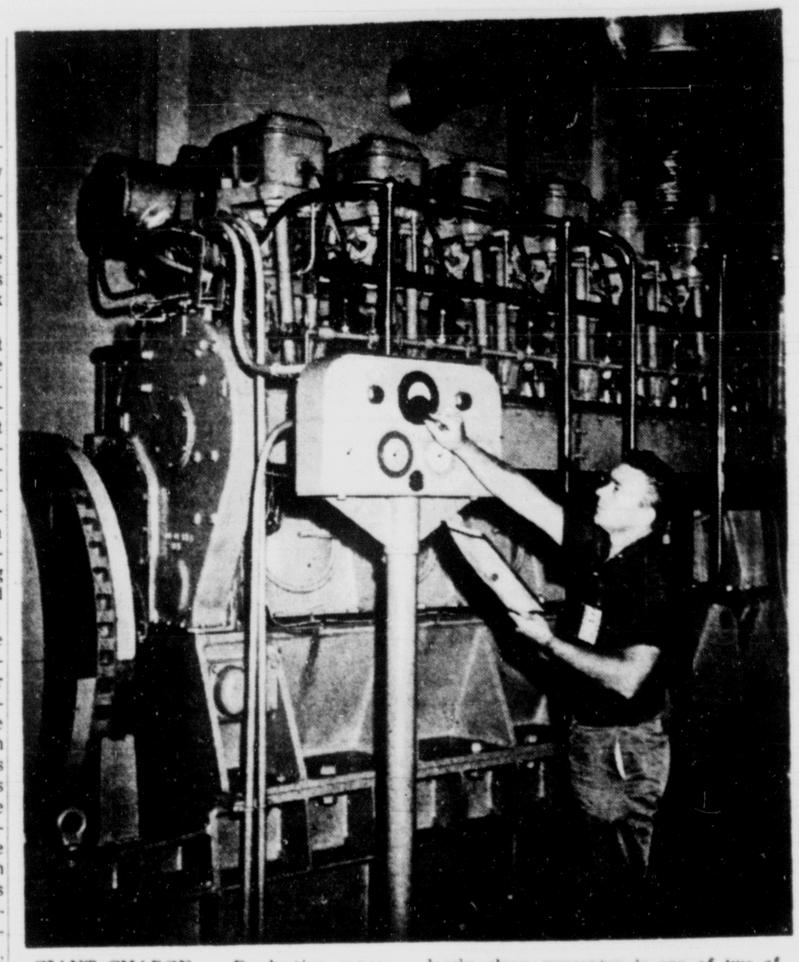

Power and heat production is of vital importance to the aerospace defense of this nation. Semi-Automatic Ground Environment (SAGE) sites, the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System (BMEWS) sites and the numerous remote radar sites all rely upon self-generated heat and electricity.

Depending upon the size and type of unit being served, power and heating plant teams vary in the number of assigned personnel. A typical team may be composed of an officer, a senior NCO and a working force of airmen and civilian employes sufficient to accomplish the task at their particular location.

The responsibilities inherent of these operations demand the highest calibre of training programs. On-the-job training programs are constantly in effect and a number of personnel enroll in off-duty courses relating to their jobs. These training programs are reflected proportionately in the competition scoring system and in some instances may be the deciding factor between first or second place.

In an effort to increase the reliability of our nation's aerospace defense force, the Air Defense Command demands operational and administrative practices exceeding those upon which the USAF competition is based. Past competitive results reflect the effectiveness of these high requirements. Since the beginning of the U.S. Air Force Awards Program, the Makah AFS, Wash. heating plant has won two first place awards. Other ADC units claiming top honors include Klamath AFS, Calif., Texas Tower No. 2, which has since been dismantled, Montgomery ADS, Ala., and Kalispell AFS, Mont.

Army Colonel Served With Gen. Marshall

Col. John R. Watson, new commander of the 3rd Brigade, had a ringside seat when two of the nation's greatest military figures were engaged in missions of statesmanship.

Col. Watson was on duty in the G2 staff in the Pentagon in 1946 when, with but a few hours notice, he found himself enroute to Nanking to serve on the staff of Gen. George C. Marshall, ambassador extraordinary during the negotiations between Nationalist and Communist China.

When Gen. Marshall was called home to become secretary of State, Col. Watson was transfered to Tokyo to be a Department of the Army liaison officer to the Far East Command. There, his duties brought him into personal contact with Gen. Douglas MacArthur several times a week.

"Working in turn with each of these two powerful, entirely different personalities was a wonderful experience," Col. Watson recalls.

More recently, just prior to his attendance this past year at the Army War College, he served as chief armor instructor and also as special assistant to the superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy. The superintendent was then Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, now commander of American Forces in Viet Nam.

Col. Watson's command experience includes reconnaissance and tank units in both armored and infantry divisions. A company commander in World War II, he served with the 64th Tank Battalion of the 3rd Infantry Division in the early years of the Korean War. Subsequently, he commanded a reconnaissance battalion of the 14th Armored Cavalry on the East - West border for nearly two years.

In the 5th Division at Carson he believes he is the first armor officer to command a brigade. The post is his first military tour in Colorado, but Colorado is not new to him.

As a teenager growing up in Springfield, Ill., he spent several summers at a cousin's ranch near Fairplay, Colo., sleeping in the bunkhouse and living like a cowpuncher.

Over 24 Items To Be Heard By City Council

More than two dozen items will be considered by the Colorado Springs City Council when it meets at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall. Old business will consist of the following:

Public hearing to be held on a liquor violation at Harry's Liquor Store, 401 E. Pikes Peak Ave., to show cause why the license should not be revoked for violation of the liquor code, including the sale of liquor to a minor on or about July 8.

Request by John C. Cooper to change both sides of the 1200 thru the 1800 blocks of North Tejon Street from the R-3 to the R-2 zone (second reading).

Request by Coltor Ltd. to change both sides of North Chestnut Street between a point about 140 feet south of Hoorne Avenue and a point about 650 feet north of Holland Park Boulevard from the R-2 to the R-5 zone (second reading).

Request by Orville D. Potts and H. C. Leggett to annex 120 acres northwest of the intersection of Academy Boulevard and Airport Road and 1.5 acres at about 3310 E. Bijou St. (second reading).

An amending ordinance relating to gas (second reading).

Report by the director of public works on further investigations in connection with drainage facilities in the Chautaugua Association Subdivision and a recommendation that council action of July 28 in connection with building permits and water tape be rescinded.

An amending ordinance prohibiting the operation of certain vehicles upon roads in the city park system and providing penalties for violations thereof (second reading).

Coming under the head of new business will be the following:

Recommendation by the director of Public Utilities for the sale of property to the State Highway Department for construction of the Ute Pass freeway.

Request by the Utilities Department to authorize the execution of quit claim deed to Scandilliato Building Company for easement between lots 8 and 9, block 3, Austin Estates Subdivision No. 6.

Request by Arthur J. Hoops for water service to the northeast corner of Taylor and Concord Streets.

Request by Henry Banks for water service to 2418 E. St. Vrain St.

Request by Robert W. Johnson, in behalf of Arthur C. Carlson and Thomas E. Winter, for water service to two unimproved tracts lying east of Palmer Park and about 600 feet west of Academy Boulevard.

Request by Fred Reinfried for vacation of a 20-foot alley running east from the 900 block of South Nevada Avenue immediately sough of the D & RGW Railroad right-of-way.

Request by L. M. Larson that an ordinance annexing Smartt's Addition No. 5 to the city be amended by changing part of the east half of Section 2-14-66 from low density residential (minimum lot size 1.5 acres) to R-2 zone.

Request by the Mountain States Telephone Co. for a special permit on a 200 by 200 foot unsubdivided tract at the northwest corner of Galley and Babcock Roads in order to construct a 2,000 square foot building to house an electronics switching office.

Preliminary and final plat of Fontmore Subdivision, which involves 14 acres lying about 500 feet northeast of Fontanero and 30th Streets.

Recommendation by the director of public works that standard specifications, as prepared by his office, for the installation of paving, sewers, water mains and other facilities in subdivisions be approved by council resolution.

Offer by the First Church of the Nazarene to buy 14 acres of city-owned land, known as the Mesa gravel pit, for the appraised price of $10,500. The pit is located near the intersection of Uintah Street and Mesa Road.

Request by Econo-Car Rental System for telephone space and wall space at the terminal building at Peterson Field to facilitate car Rentals. The firm is owned by William N. Campbell.

Renewal of lease with the U.S. Weather Bureau for space in the terminal building at Peterson Field. This lease has been renewed from year to year. The city has been receiving $730 rent per year.

Request of Adolph Zega, doing business as the Sierra Liquor Store, to transfer his retail liquor store license from 216 S. Cascade Ave. to the Circle Fair Shopping Center on the northeast corner of Airport Road and South Circle Drive.

Request by Jane D. Sutherland, doing business as Ace Liquors, to transfer the retail liquor store license from 502 W. Colorado Ave. to 2216 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

Application by Suki-En Inc. for a beer, wine and liquor license at 1812 E. Monument St.

A resolution designating the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Columbia Loan and Savings Association, Security Savings and Loan Association and Western Federal Savings as additional depositories for funds and securities.

MODERN

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — "Modernization," the Ohio highway patrol officer said with a sigh.

The patrol's Delaware Post had picked up a juvenile Thursday night for siphoning gasoline from cars parked at the Delaware County fairgrounds. The youth was using a battery-operated pump.

Custer County Public Land Due for Sale

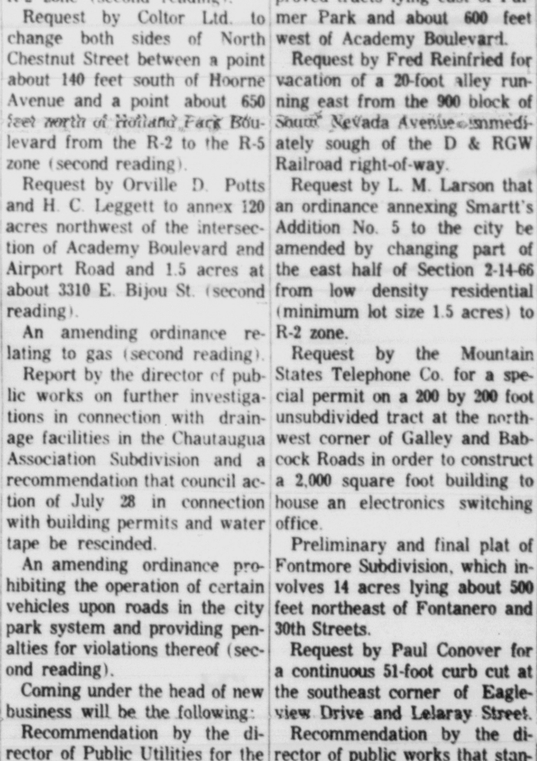

Sixty tracts of public land located in the DeWeese Reservoir area about 3¾ miles north of Westcliffe, Custer County, are now open for purchase, Lowell M. Puckett, director, Bureau of Land Management, announced Saturday.

The lands will be offered at public action at 10:30 a.m., Friday, Aug. 21, and will be sold to the highest bidder at that time. Applicants may submit sealed bids for he tracts, or attend the auction for the lands.

Each tract is from 1.23 acres to 2.13 acres in size and the appraised value of the land is from $460 to $690 per tract. All minerals are reserved to the United States.

These lots, located immediately south of the DeWeese Reservoir offer a view of the Sangre De Cristo Mountain Range, and some of them overlook the reservoir proper. Access is via the county road north from Westcliffe and electricity is available near the area.

In Idaho, noted for its big game hunting, bears weighing 600 pounds have been shot. The normal elk population is 20,000, and wolf, lynx, moose, antelope, cougar and deer abound.

Democrats in Tennessee Name Liberal Candidate

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee's Rep. Ross Bass carries the Democratic endorsement and a liberal tag with him this fall into a campaign for the old seat of the late Sen. Estes Kefauver, himself a liberal of wide repute.

Bass, a five-term congressman, earned the party's endorsement in Thursday's primary in a clear majority decision over two relatively conservative opponents, Gov. Frank G. Clement and businessman M. M. Bullard.

He earned the liberal tag by his public record, including a recent vote in the House for the controversial civil rights bill. Both opponents chided him for the civil rights vote.

Bass gained the public support of several labor and Negro groups during the primary campaign.

His congressional record shows wide support of major legislation in the Kennedy and Johnson national administrations.

Although Bass supported the civil rights measure, he declined to be drawn into debate about his action. He said he did not regard the new law as an issue.

His Republican opponent in November will be Howard Baker Jr., son of the late 2nd District congressman, who campaigned on a pledge to support less government spending and sound fiscal policies.

Baker, 38, a Knoxville lawyer, gained wide backing from supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the party's presidential nominee. The nominee easily trounced Charles Moffett and Hubert D. Patty.

Although Tennessee's electoral votes have gone to the Republican candidate in each of the past three presidential elections, the state never has chosen a GOP senator at the polls.

Non-Ag Employment Goes Up in June

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Labor Department said nonagricultural wage and salary employment in the 13 Western States rose to 9.4 million in mid-June.

The gain of 134,000 jobs over mid-May was less than usual for this time of year, the department said.

The Mountain states had a better-than- usual showing, the report said, but the Pacific states were below par.

STRONG SEASON

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) —Michigan State, which had exceeded the 100 - point mark only once before in its basketball history, broke over the century mark 10 times during the 1963-64 season.

Fire Hydrant Must Be Red, She Finds Out

BINGHAMTON (AP) — Roses are red, fire hydrants too, and in the city of Birmingham, no other hue will do.

Mrs. Bachovchin likes orchid. Her porch furniture and petunias are that color.

But city officials informed her she had violated a water department regulation. The penalty could be a $25 fine, 25 days in jail, or both.

They indicated they would drop any plans for prosecution — if she would drop the paint brush.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

Washington - Deserving of more attention than it has so far received is the mysterious part played by White House adviser McGeorge Bundy in the political episode that ended with the blacklisting of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy as LBJ's running mate.

It was Bundy, it will be recalled, who at President Johnson's request telephoned Kennedy last Wednesday and urged him to issue a withdrawal statement. This political hack job failed, just as did Lyndon's own try of the same kind a few hours before. So within 24 hours the President had to act on his own.

Bundy, it has since been revealed, suggested to Kennedy that if a withdrawal statement was obnoxious to him, then perhaps he would be party to an Administration leak that such was his intention. The Attorney General was having no part of that either.

What is intriguing about Bundy's participation in the hatchet job is that he was chosen,, out of all other White House aids, to put the heat on Bobby. And equally mysterious is why Bundy, of all people, agreed to do so.

Yet there was Bundy, the Harvard intellectual who was brought to the White House in the first place by John F. Kennedy, doing his persuasive damnedest over the telephone to have the late President's brother put the skids under himself.

Could it be that LBJ knew that such loyal White House Kennedy holdovers as Larry O' Brien or Kenny O'Donnell could not be expected to demean themselves by accepting such an obnoxious chore?

So why not Bundy, that brilliant former Harvard dean, rescued from a cloistered career by John F. Kennedy and since 1961 top White House foreign affairs adviser.

His Name Is Now McGeorge Mud

The net result today is that Bundy's name is anathema to the entire Kennedy clan, plus all those politicians who had been pushing the Attorney General for the Vice Presidential spot. He is considered to have pulled a political Brutus stunt, and there is little argument that his circle of friends has dwindled.

On the other hand there is a question as to why Bundy's political loyalties, even to the Kennedys, should ever have been considered of much depth. In the 1948 Presidential campaign he was a foreign policy adviser to Gov. Dewey. In 1952 he was all-out for Dwight D Eisenhower and strongly against Democrat Adlai Stevenson.

Despite this political switching record, his acumen in the foreign policy field could be useful to any President, regardless of party. At least, the Kennedys now consider him capable of any sort of loyalty switch to whoever the White House incumbent is–Barry Goldwater, for that matter.

The mystery of why Bundy acted as he did is not the only puzzle remaining in the Democratic Vice Presidential maneuvering by President Johnson.

While Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota appears now to be the most logical choice, there are undercurrents that perplex the politicians. The President is reported by those who generally know what is going on in the White House to have a "personal inclination" for Sen. Eugene McCarthy, also of Minnesota.

Was LBJ Really McCarthy's No. 1?

Such a personal leaning would be natural. In 1960 McCarthy was for Johnson for the Democratic Presidential nomination, as between Lyndon and Kennedy. His rousing and brilliant nominating speech for Adlai Stevenson at Los Angeles was, it is now said, aimed more at deadlocking the convention, so that the delegates would turn to Johnson, rather than pick Adlai.

This we don't entirely believe, but that is the lowdown now being passed around. Added to this is the planted report that the President needs Humphrey to help run the Senate more than he needs Hubert on the national ticket.

Along this same line is the suggestion that McCarthy, being a Catholic would be more pleasing to the Kennedy wing of the party than Humphrey. This too is malarkey.

Sure Humphrey fought Kennedy for the 1960 nomination in the primaries. But when JFK was nominated, Humphrey campaigned energetically for him, and his efforts have always been appreciated by Bobby Kennedy and others.

The idea is also being tossed arbund that McCarthy would be more acceptable to the South than Humphrey. The latter is supposed to be the one Vice Presidential nominee, after Robert F. Kennedy, who would hurt Johnson most in Dixie because he led the civil rights fight in the Senate.

This, too, is an exaggeration. Southern Senators have consistently praised Humphrey as a fair and honest fighter who abstained from any demagogic swings during the often sulphuric debate.

City Museum Attendance Tops 12,000

Attendance at the city's Pioneers Museum, 25 W. Kiowa St., has been 12,238 for the first seven months of this year.

This is just slightly ahead of the 12,067 attendance for the same period in 1963, according to Dorothy Smith, curator.

There were less visitors to the museum in July of this year than during July last year, the tally being 2,484 to 2,327 in favor of 1963.

Average daily attendance last month was 90 per day as compared with 99 per day during July, 1963.

In spite of the drop in attendance during last month, there is still a good chance to break last year's all-time attendance mark of 18,500, she believes.

Prior to 1962, visitors to the museum always numbered somewhere between 10,000 and 12,000 annually.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. It is closed Monday. A free attraction, the museum is located just across West Kiowa Street from St. Mary's Church.

Lawyer Enters Jail For Tax Sentence

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — John J. Gibbons, Denver criminal lawyer, began serving Friday a 40-day jail sentence for income tax evasion.

Gibbons, 50, was convicted June 23 by a U.S. District Court jury of perjury and evading payment of $8,879 in federal income taxes over a three-year period.

A fine of $6,000 also was imposed on Gibbons, who was taken to the Jefferson County Jail in Golden by federal marshals.

Fremont Jane Jefferson Club Hears Candidate

Frank Evans, Democratic candidate for the Third congressional district seat in the House of Representatives, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Fremont County Jane Jefferson club held at the courthouse in Canon City.

Mrs. G. D. Lanham, president of the club from Florence, conducted the routine business meeting and announced that T. Everett Cook, who will be running against Harold McCormick for the state house of representatives, will be guest speaker at a dinner meeting Aug. 24 at the South Canon Hall.

During the meeting at Canon City, several prominent county Democrats gave short addresses including Gerald Benson, county chairman; T. E. Cook, Democratic candidate for state representative; Sheriff Tom Coleman, Attorney J. Stump Witcher, Alvin Pixler, central committee treasurer; and Mrs. Josephine Rivera, delegate to the National convention from Florence.

Airman of Year To Attend AF Group Meeting

Air Defense Command's Airman of the Year for 1964, CM. Sgt. Sam T. Webster, heads a list of 22 airmen chosen by the Air Force to represent their respective commands at the Air Force Association convention. The AFA meeting will be held in Washington Sept. 9-12.

Sgt. Webster competed at the ADC level with six other NCOs including SM. Sgt. John A. Carlin, a ground radar superintendent assigned to Command Headquarters at Ent.

According to Air Force News Service the NCOs were chosen on the basis of outstanding citizenship, contributions to community life and military accomplishments during the past year.

In addition to attending functions of the AFA convention, the airmen and their wives will be guests at a dinner in their honor, and will meet the Air Force Chief of Staff General Curtis E. LeMay, and other military dignitaries.

Each of the major air commands and separate operating agencies annually selects an individual, who, in the opinion of a special selection board, best exemplifies the qualities required in an outstanding airman. The AFA then extends an invitation to the selectees and their wives to attend its annual convention.

Playground News

By PENNY HOTCHKISS

The past week was the last full week of playground activities supervised by the Colorado Springs Park and Recreation Department. The theme of the week, in accordance with the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo, was "Wheel Rodeo Week." The craft for the week was colages, which were made mostly from odds and ends.

At Audubon playground, the highlight of the week was a bike rodeo, held on Wednesday. In the competition for the best decorated bike, first place winner was Betsy Bates, with Gail Bottini taking second place and Bill Bottini in third. In the barrel race, Don Mathews was first, Bill Bottini was second, and Steve McInnis was third. In the shoe race, Don Mathews was first, David Bates second and Gail Bottini third. For regular racing, Don Mathews was first again, and Bill Bottini and Steve McInnis were second and third.

On Thursday, Audubon went to the rodeo parade, and on Friday, they had an Indian powwow and roasted marshmallows.

Besides a trip to Ghost Town and to the rodeo parade this week, Bott Park also held a wheel rodeo. The first place winner in the coasting race was Tim Timmerman, and the first prize in the obstacle race went to Tim Timmerman, also. Reuben Boyd took first honors in the barrel race.

The week at Bonnyville Park began with a Scavenger hunt to gather materials for colage making. Tuesday, along with their crafts, they had two softball games. The morning game with Will Rogers and the afternoon game with Boulder were both won by Bonnyville

On Wednesday, Bonny hiked to Monument Park for swimming and games in the park.

The Bristol Bombers defeated Boulder Park Wednesday by a score of 16-6. The rest of the week was spent running from the rain.

The highlight of the week at Howbert was a bike rodeo, held on Thursday. In the competition for best decorated bike, Michelle Griswold won first, Sandra Matthews won second, and Marsha Matthews won third. The queen of the rodeo was Joni Brown. The horse consisted of Becky Brown and Mary Croff. The judge was Elizabeth Whisenant; the timer was Pat Whisenant, and the drummer was Robin Griswold. In the barrel race, Marsha Matthews was first, Richard Kinsey was second, and David Kinsey was third.

A coloring contest was also held at Howbert this week. The winner was Sandra Matthews.

Jefferson playground also held a bike rodeo this week. Contest selections were made by Louis Fertado and Steve Knite. The rodeo began with a bike soccer game. The winning team consisted of Sharon Sprague, Wayne Lindt, and Ted Walker.

The next event was the obstacle course. Winners were, first place, Wayne Lindt, second place, Jack Lindt, third place, Gary Howey, and fourth place, Charles Spear. In the senior race division, Wayne Lindt won first, Gary Howey was second, and Jack Lindt third. The junior race division brought Ted Walker a first, Mike Nichols a second, and Sharon Sprague a third. In the primary race division, Tim Nichols was first, Charles Spear was second, and Jean Potter was third. The last event was the field trip. In the primary division, winners were Jean Potter, first, Tim Nichols, second, and Charles Spear, third. In the pre-junior division, Mike Nichols was first, David Gardner was second, and Christine Cataldi was third. In the junior division, first was Ricky Nichols, second was Michelle, and third was Ted Walker. In the senior division, Wayne Lindt first, Jack Lindt took second, and Jodi Duncan took third. The rodeo was completed by bike stunts with all entrants participating.

Longfellow playground held an art exhibit on Tuesday of this week. The winners were, first place Erin Lannon, second place, Kevin Liddle, and third place, Kristy Walker.

On Thursday a rodeo was held at Longfellow. David Bruce, and Steven Teeter gave a demonstration on horsemanship, to which the other children paraded on decorated bikes.

Friday found a pet show at Longfellow. The first place winner in this event was a white poodle belonging to Debbie and Karen Bartlett. Second place went to "Cookie", the hamster belonging to Maureen and Diane Kieley. Third place went to Karen Bartlett's parakeet.

Queen Palmer, like all the other afternoon playgrounds, spent a good deal of last week running from the rain. However, during the sunny intervals, the children enjoyed some new games, and Doris Colzani, the roving supervisor, provided them with some interesting crafts on one day.

Steele playground began the week with a trip to Putt-Putt for a morning of miniature golf. All the children had a good time, and many won free passes.

Friday the children at Steele had a bubble-gum blowing contest and a wheel rodeo. In the bubble blowing contest, the winner with one piece of gum was Cindy Norburg. The biggest bubble with two pieces belonged to Mary Carol Benton, and the winner with three pieces was Timothy Beaton. The biggest pop was made by Sandee Schlaepfer.

In the wheel rodeo, several contests were held. In the bike race, first place went to Jane Washington and second to Robert Ray. In the flag race, Cindy Nance was first and Randy Broughton was second. In the coasting race, Randy Broughton was first and Stan Gandy was second. In the skid race, Stan Gandy was first and Cindy Nance was second.

This was contest week at Will Rogers. In the chess tournament, Dave Samples was first and Dave Hagen was second. In checkers, Cathy Cline was first and Steve Logan was second. In box hockey, Dave Samples was first and Dave Dennison was second.

On Tuesday, the Will Rogers softball team was defeated by Bonny Park 12-9, but on Friday, they defeated Thorndale 6-0.

Wednesday, Will Rogers and Thorndale combined and went on a picnic in North Cheyenne Canon. Following a delicious lunch, they dammed up the creek and went swimming.

Next wedk is the final week of playground supervision and will be highlighted by a gathering of all the city's playgrounds at Thorndale Park on Thursday. The theme of the week is "Moon Rendezvous Week" and each playground will come under the name of a planet or space vehicle for a day of games and fun.

KNOW HOW

BROWNFIELD, Tex. (UPI)—Jane Weiss entered the Miss South Plains beauty contest a bit concerned about her talent routine. She was sure to score high in the bathing suit competition with a 126 pound, five-foot seven-inch figure that measured 36-24-37.

The 17-year-old brunette decided to sing a medley of southern airs topped off with "Dixie." The choice was perfect. Jane won in a breeze and goes on to the Miss Texas contest.

Film Producer To Chair 15th Blind Campaign

Walt Disney, noted artist and film producer, will be national chairman of the 15th annual "Sight-Saving Month" campaign of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc. during September.

Theme of the 1964 educational campaign is "Your Eyes are Windows on the World," and throughout September the National Society will seek to alert Americans to the threat of diseases, accidents and neglect that will claim the sight of more than 31,800 persons during the next year.

Special emphasis during the 1964 drive, will be placed on early detection of glaucoma and the use of safety galsses by all person wearing eyeglasses, particularly youngsters.

Glaucoma, the second greatest cause of blindness in the country, can destroy vision without pain or warning. The National Society estimates that more than 1,300,000 adults in the U.S. have glaucoma, and only half know it. Early detection and treatment are vital, for vision once lost to this disease can never be restored.

To prevent needless eye injuries, particularly vision damage from broken spectacle lenses, the NSPB recommends that all persons wear shatter-resistant safety glasses. Society records show that nearly 30,000 industrial workers have avoided damaged or destroyed vision with safety glasses during the past 17 years. The health agency hopes to persuade the public to avail itself of this means for saving sight.

Disney, the winner of nearly three dozen motion picture and television awards, also served as national chairman of last year's "Sight-Saving Month" campaign.

Organized 56 years ago, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness is the only national voluntary health agency devoted exclusively to prevention of blindness through programs of research, community preventive services, and public and professional education. Working nationally and through state affiliates, it has headquarters at 16 E. 40th St., New York, N.Y.

Miss White Wins Broadmoor Title

THINGS GOT BETTER — Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La. doesn't look too happy with this effort during her morning round with Barbara McIntire in the Broadmoor Women's Invitational Saturday. However, the brilliant Louisiana amateur fought back from a five hole deficit and eventually claimed the championship of the 22nd annual tournament with a clutch three-foot putt on the final hole.

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The seemingly "unsinkable" Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La. surfaced after a near-disastrous 15 holes Saturday to capture the championship of the 22nd Broadmoor Women's Invitational with a 1 up victory over Barbara McIntire of Colorado Springs in one of the greatest matches ever seen on the magnificent mountainside course.

Miss White, who had left a trail of crushed opposition strewn in her path during the week long tournament, had never trailed before facing the beautifully - controlled game of Miss McIntire Saturday. In contrast, during the finals match she saw an early advantage disintegrate and did not have the lead for some 33 holes before rolling in a clutch three-foot putt on the 36th green that awarded her the championship.

Miss McIntire, who entered the final round as a slight underdog, appeared to be constructing a rout during the morning 18 as she carefully knitted a five-hole lead with a combination of magnificent shots plus failures on the fairway by her opponent. During that first round, Miss McIntire matched men's par of 72 and was five under the regulation 77 for women. Miss White, who carded a one-under 76 in the morning, matched the McIntire 72 in the P.M. and both golfers completed their day-long duties six under par.

The pressure-packed victory was the sixth amateur tournament triumph for Miss White in 1964. She has also been low amateur in a pair of professional tourneys and her overall performance on the simon - pure circuit is almost certain to land her a spot on this year's Curtis Cup team. Her Saturday victory at the Broadmoor should go a long way toward solidifying that choice.

Barbara McIntire, who seems to be flirting with the peak of her game, should also be in serious contention for her third Curtis Cup berth. Dimpled Barbara, who once again proved that her poise is virtually unshakeable, should have gained a mighty boost off her remarkable performance Saturday.

The finals struggle was a classic of match-play competition from the very first hole. Miss McIntire, whose deliberate stroke can slice up an opponent with agonizing effectiveness, cracked a picture second shot to within eight feet of the pin and lost the hole. Barbara White, who was in an impossible position 35 feet below the flag, curled in her putt and Miss McIntire lost to go one down.

That striking turn of events posed a very important problem for the Colorado Springs star. It was on these early holes that Miss White had destroyed her opposition all week and Miss McIntire could not afford to chance a repeat of that sequence. The answer came at three after both two-putted for pars at the second. Miss McIntire glided a 35 foot putt into the cup for a birdie that tied the match.

Barbara Fay, who was having noticeable difficulty with her fairway shots, began to falter seriously after that. Miss McIntire was easily inside her on three straight holes starting with the fifth and won all with birdies. On those greens, her longest putt was three feet.

White got one back at eight when Barbara three-putted and then coaxed in a twisting 12-foot birdie at the ninth to pull within a single hole. As quickly as that comeback had been launched, Miss McIntire effected her own reversal. A four - foot birdie putt at the 10th provided a starter and Barbara then hit the 11th in two and birdied with a two-footer that lipped the cup before dropping. It was a bitter setback for Miss White who had hung a difficult 20 footer on the rim.

From that point, the match appeared to be steering toward a rout .Miss McIntire chipped out of the rough to within four feet and sank the putt for a win at 13 and two-putted from 40 feet to capture 15. Just when the fizzure appeared to be nearly unstoppable, Miss White retaliated with a brilliant tee shot and six foot birdie putt at the par-three 16th and an easy birdie at 18 after Miss McIntire's downhill attempt from eight feet had stopped a turn short of the hole.

That left a margin of three holes going into the afternoon and it took Miss White just eight shots to slice that to one. She parred the first two while Miss McIntire three-putted the first and hit over the second.

Barbara finally got one back at the 24th with a fine scrambling four but hit into deep rough at the 25th and eventually lost the hole. At the 26th Miss McIntire dropped her tee shot eight feet from the pin and again ended up losing as the stern Miss White chipped a 25 footer into the cup and Barbara eventually two-putted.

Miss McIntire regained the lead at 28 with another short birdie putt but lost it at the 29th when a downhill lie in the rough cost her a clean shot at the green. A six foot birdie at the 31st put her in the lead for the final time but back again came Miss White with a fine shot out of deep rough at 32 and a 10 foot par putt that somehow gripped the left side of the cup and settled.

It took a magnificent blast out of the left sand trap for Miss White to halve 33 and after the two battled on even terms through the next two holes, the climax came, fittingly, at the 36th. There Miss White swatted her second across the green and into the tall grass that dips away from the back of the putting surface.

Miss McIntire then hit short and followed with a third shot that bounded 12 feet past the pin. In a great clutch effort, reminiscent of Charlie Coe's gallant attempt in the 1959 U.S. Amateur on the same hole, Barbara Fay stopped the ball on the fast downhill run just three feet from the pin. After Miss McIntire missed to the side, the Louisiana slugger guided the clincher into the hole.

SATURDAY'S RESULTS
CHAMPIONSHIP FINALS
Barbara Fay White, Shreveport, La. defeated Barbara McIntire, Colorado Springs, 1 up.
CHAMPIONSHIP CONSOLATION
Mrs. Robert Allen, Chanute, Kan. defeated Julie Hull, Anderson, Ind., 3 and 2.

FIRST FLIGHT CONSOLATION
Mrs. Lael Emerick, Colorado Springs defeated Betty Safford, Boulder, Colo., 6 and 3.

WHY WON'T IT GO IN?? — Barbara McIntire of Colorado Springs had reason to wonder on some of her putts during the afternoon round of the Broadmoor Women's Invitational Saturday. After a brilliant 72 in the morning, Barbara saw her three-up lead disappear and she eventually dropped a one-up decision to Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La. on the 36th hole.

Rams Smother Cowboys In NFL Exhibition, 17-6

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8(AP)— The Los Angeles Rams gave up an early touchdown and then smotherd the Dallas Cowboys' offense to score a 17-6 victory tonight in a National Football League exhibition game.

Big Roman Gabriel, a 6-foot-4 quarterback, set up both Ram touchdowns with timely completions in the first half.

The Ram touchdowns came on a one - yard sprint by Art Perkins in the first quarter and a 17-yard burst over guard by Dick Bass in the second period.

The first score wiped out an early Cowboy six - point lead that came when fullback Don Perkins smashed over the middle from three yards out.

A 31 - yard pass from Gabriel to Marlin McKeever set up the first touchdown and a 22-yard toss from Gabriel to Carroll Dale was instrumental in the second Los Angeles score.

In the game Gabriel completed 16 of 26 passing attempts for 159 yards. His quarterback opponent, Don Meredith, had 12 completions out of 29 attempts for 160 yards.

But Meredith's effectiveness was limited by a mighty Ram rush. Led by Rosey Grier, Merlin Olsen and Lamar Lundy, the defense caught Meredith seven times and hurled him back for a total loss of 59 yards.

The only scoring in the second half was a 45 - yard field goal Ram rookie Bruce Gossett after a long Los Angeles drive bogged down.

The victory enabled the Rams to even their charity game series with the Cowboys at 1-1. Dallas won the game last year 17-14.

AC Nine Eliminated From State Tournament

HUGO —Pitcher Jack Brown struck out 17 men Saturday night as the Denver Mets eliminated Colorado Springs Athletic Club from the Colorado State Semi-Pro tournament, 6-4.

Paul Walker, catcher for the Mets, blasted a two-run home run in the sixth inning to give the winners a definite 5-4 lead.

Mickey McLaughlin, AC's shortstop, foiled Brown's strikeout artistry as he whacked out two doubles and three singles in five trips to the plate.

Yank, Briton Meet In Nassau Finale

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)— Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex. and Mike Sangster of England, the one-two seeded players, gained the final round of the Nassau Bowl invitation grass court tennis tournament Saturday.

McKinley, America's No. 1 ranked player, had unexpected trouble from unseeded Herb FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y., before winning 6-3, 9-7, 4-6, 7-5.

Sangster overcame Gene Scott of St. James, N.Y., the defending champion 3-6, 6-3, 14-12, 6-4.

McKinley and Sangster play for the title Sunday.

McKinley, who has been forced into extra sets in each match this week, was within one point of losing the fourth set before rallying to close out the match against FitzGibbon.

Sangster outlasted Scott in the long third set which lasted more than one hour. Sangster did not lose service in the last three sets.

Denver Ousts Sertoma From Legion 'A' Meet, 10-2

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — The American Die & Box team of Denver, after dropping its first outing Friday night, bounced back Saturday morning to eliminate the bull-pen strong Sertoma baseballers of Colorado Springs, 10-2, in the second round of the Colorado State American Legion "A" tournament here at Runyon Field.

This was the second successive loss for Coach Chris Talbott's charges as the Sertoma nine went under, 2-1, to Grand Junction Friday night in a pitcher's duel.

The Denver team, comprised mostly of South High players, lost to defending champion Greeley, 10-3, in the Legion tourney opener Friday afternoon.

Talbott elected to start Bob Torrie in Saturday morning's game but the usually successful Sertoma pitcher only faced four batters in the opening frame and was replace by fireballer Bob Kochis.

The Denver gunners jumped on Torrie to load the bases and score one run when lead-off hitter Greg Kent singled to start the fireworks. After Kent singled, Stuart Smith reached first base on a miscue by Torrie and the next batter Russell Peterson made it to first on a throwing error by Jim Smith, which resulted in Kent scoring the first run.

Kochis took over the pitching chores with tre bases loaded and three additional runs scored on one error and a couble. The Cenver team scored four runs in that opening stanza and followed with four tallies in the fourth inning and put the game on ice with a two-run rally in the ninth.

Kochis was tabbed for seven runs on 10 hits. The Sertoma chucker gave up one walk and struck out seven during the nine-inning encounter.

For Denver, Bill Hoover picked up the win. Hoover contained the Sertoma bombers to two runs on four hits while striking out 11 and walking five.

Seroma scored its two runs in the eighth when Mike Teague and John Wickham both drew walks to start things off. After Clay Chambers fanned, shortst[0] Smith collected his second hit to score both runs.

The Sertoma team qualified for the state tournament with a best two-out-of-three series over Pueblo in district competition last weekend. The Sertoma team is composed of Wasson players and wrapped up the Colorado Cprings American Letion "A" league with a 11-1 won-loss record, losing the final game to Rotary.

Gun Bow Escapes Mongo by Ten At Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Gun Bow put in another strong bid for thoroughbred racing's handicap division title Saturday when he whipped Mongo by 10 lengths in the 1⅛ miles of the $54,300 Whitney Stakes at Saratoga.

The 4-year-old son of Gun Shot-Ribbons and Bows from the Gedney Farm looked every bit as impressive as he did two weeks ago in winning the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct by 12 lengths. This time, however, he picked up eight pounds in weight and carried the 130 over the distance in 1:49 1-5. The time was one-fifth second off the track record.

OLGA GIVES IT A WHIRL — Olga Connolly begins to unwind (far left) as her discus throwing technique was captured in this sequence at the U.S. Women's track and field Olympic trials at New York's Randall Island. She won the event with a toss of 162-9, short of the qualifying standard of 164-½. Mrs. Connolly, competing for the Los Angeles Mercurettes, is the wife of Hal Connolly, world record holder in the hammer throw. She won the 1956 Gold Medal for Czechoslavakia in the Melbourne Olympics. See story, Page 2C.

BETWEEN THE LINES
by Loy Holman

Baseball's Big Devision

Ford Frick's announcement this week that he will make himself ineligible next year for re-election as commissioner of baseball should have surprised no one. That's been in the wind since even before Frick started thinking about it.

For some, the rumors were like wishful thinking as serious fans of the erstwhile national pastime have longed for a forceful man in that position in the image of the late Judge Kenesaw M. Landis. Frick hardly filled that bill . . . and the sport has shown the effects.

Anyone with a stronger backbone would have long ago exerted any power left in the office to try and cure the many ills that have been eating away at baseball. However, Frick should certainly not be burdened with the full weight of responsibility for the sad state his sport is headed.

Starting with Happy Chandler before him, the club owners have taken such control that the commissioner is little more than a puppet with strings pulled from front offices from New York to Los Angeles.

They have always ignored the warnings that dwindled minor leagues would one day cut completely their supply of talent, and finally and gearly too late they have attempted to bring new life to the business by offering subsidized franchises to farm clubs. The trouble is that this came years too tardy and after the minor leagues had been reduced from 59 in 1947 to the current 16.

The point is that the commissioner, under the threat of losing a little friendship from the club moguls, made no move to stop this decline. Instead he played the role of an ostrich and proclaimed that "things have never been better" while hiding his head in a pile of sand to keep from seeing reality.

With Frick probably headed back to Colorado Springs for retirement, from where he left to make his fortune in the promised land of New York, there has been considerable speculation as to who will be the next "ruler" of baseball.

Most of the attention centers on American League President Joe Cronin, Senator Kenneth Keating of New York and Milwaukee judge Robert Cannon, the latter of whom was in Denver this past week attending the Eagles convention along with many other sports figures.

Cronin, however, has been too close to baseball for the ideal commissioner since it is generally thought that someone more detached would have a better prospective, although this was the route of Frick. And it would undoubtedly come down to a personal decision for Keating and Cannon as to the merits of this position compared to their present situation and the future of the sport.

A somewhat surprising nomination was heard this week, from more than one source. That was none other than Byron (Whizzer) White. The former All-American tailback at Colorado University would have to be talked out of a seat on the bench of the U. S. Supreme Court, but I can think of no other man more qualified in every way to take over for Frick and pull baseball out of the doldrums.

It once was a big position, there is a big job ahead, and it certainly will take a big man to handle it. Let's hope the selection is a wise one.

Changing the subject radically, I was at least somewhat surprised to hear from Broadmoor figure skating professional Carlo Fassi, that shows like the one coming up this week at the World Arena are strictly extra-curricular as far as most of his pupils are concerned.

The reason this is a little startling is that in most sports — and ice skating certainly comes under this classification since it's a very important part of the Winter Olympic Games — the ultimate for athletes is to attain professional stature.

Every kid that ever laces on a pair of baseball spikes dreams of the day he might become a major leaguer, or the boy who throws his first touchdown pass probably visions himself as one day being the quarterback for the pro football champions.

So in figure skating, the counterpart of these professional leagues has to be the ice shows such as the Capades that tour the country. Although these fancy dressed shows can hardly be classed as "sports", they still are a continuation from the competition as in the Olympics or World Championships for amateurs.

CHRISTINE HAIGLER
In Broadmoor Show

Actually, there are no competitions for figure skating pros, unless you might count the struggle they might have with one another for teaching positions or for solo numbers in these shows.

"The skaters feel a show like the one that starts Wednesday night as a time to have fun with what they have been working on," Fassi said this week.

"They would much rather skate in competition for this is what they practice for many hours each week. They have to work very hard on a show like this, too, but this is not their goal.

"Shows are more group efforts while the competition is an individual thing," the Broadmoor's colorful show director said. "To most of them, making the Olympic or World team is the 'big league' and this is what they work toward."

This year's edition of the Broadmoor Ice Review will include several who are making the headlines on the sports pages around the world just last winter when the Olympics were held at Innsbruck, Austria. From the U. S. Olympic squad are the Broadmoor pairs duo of Jerry and Judianne Fotheringill and national Ladies' singles star, Christine Haigler, who placed fifth in the World Championships.

Also on the ice will be Scott Ethan Allen, bronze medal winner in the Olympics, from New York; Sandra Brugnera, Italian champion; Sepp Schonmetzler, former West German champ; and Gayle Newberry, U. S. novice ladies' titleist.

The show this year will be a fine preview, at least of the free skating half, of the World Championships which are scheduled at the Broadmoor Arena next March. Several of those appearing here will be among the top competitors then.

Taylor Named 'Most Valuable' Of All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — Halfback Charley Taylor of Arizona State University was named the most valuable All-Star in Friday night's 28-17 loss to the Chicago Bears.

Taylor provided most of the offensive punch mustered by the All-Stars. His running and pass receiving set up a field goal which gave the All-Stars a 3-0 lead and he threw a touchdown pass which helped the collegians take a 10-7 halftime advantage.

Brown Team Match Scheduled

The manicured fairways and greens of the Broadmoor Golf course will provide the setting for an exciting and colorful week of golf featuring many internationally known golfers late this month. The second annual Francis H. I. Brown International Team Match, with four - man teams from 12 countries represented, will be held Aug. 22 and 23, to be followed by the fifth annual World Senior Golf Championships, Aug. 24 through 29.

A four-man team from the Philippines will be among the participants in the Challenge Matches. Each player on the team has an average of 25 years of golf. The four members are Celso Tuason, captain; Domingo Guevara; Col. Vivencio Santos and Juan Cuadrado.

Tuason., who is 58 years old, resides in Manila. He is president of Squires Bingham Co., the Squire Bingham Manufacturing Company, director of the Security Bank & Trust Company, and president of Top - Flite Travel Service, Inc. One of the original promoters of golf in the Philippines, Tuason is president of the Valley Golf Club, a member of the Wack-Wack Golf & Country Club and the Manila Golf Club.

In 1950 and '51, Tuason won the Philippine Amateur Championship held at the Manila Golf Club. In past years Tuason was president of the Philippine Golf Association and he organized several Philippine Open Championships as well as the Far East Golf Circuit. At present he has a handicap of six on the par 72 Valley Golf Club course.

Guevara is 55 years old and makes his home in Manila. He is president of Domingo Guevara, Inc., local assemblers and distributors in the Philippines for Volkswagen sedans, and Radiowealth Inc., distributors of manufactured radios. Guevara is a member of the Wack-Wack Golf and Country Club and carries an eight handicap on the course. An avid golfer, Guevara contributes his time and effort to the advancement of the sport in his country.

The only left handed golfer on the four-man team from the Philippines is Col. Santos who is 58 years old, resides in Quezon City, and is head of the Dental Department of the Philippine Army. Another enthusiastic golfer in this group, Col. Santos is a member of the McKinley Golf Club where he has an average handicap of eight.

The last member of the team is Cuadrado, a 57-year-old golfer, who is from Antipolo, Rizal, Philippines, where he is manager of the Valley Golf Club. His handicap on this course is nine on a par 72.

The 12 teams will be competing for the four foot tall, solid silver, $15,000 trophy which was donated by Francis H. I. Brown of Hawaii. The Japanese team, who were winners of the 1963 Team Matches, will be here to defend their title. The matches will be closed to the public.

Falcons Topic of Lectures

Two officers assigned to the Air Force Academy will be featured speakers this Tuesday, Aug. 11, at two separate service club meetings in the Pikes Peak Region.

Capt. John Colbrunn, chief of the Business Activities for the AFA Athletic Association, will talk to the West Side Manitou Rotary Club at the Merri Laine Resaurant at 12:15 p.m.., Tuesday.

That evening, Lt. Terry Goewert, chief of ticket sales for the AFA Athletic Association, will speak to the Nob Hill Lions Club at the Nob Hill Community Center at 6:45 p.m.

The 1964 Falcon football team will be the theme of Tuesday's meeting and will include a colorful highlight film of the highly successful 1963 Folcon football season.

All members and guests are invited to attend, and receive an inside preview on the 1964 Air Force team which plays another rugged, intersectional schedule which includes such gridiron powers as Notre Dame, Michigan,, Washington, Missouri, Colorado and UCLA.

The Notre Dame encounter scheduled for Falcon Stadium on Oct. 10, will be the first Rocky Mountain appearance by the Fighting Irish. Other home games are: Oct. 3 — Colorado State; Oct. 17 —Missouri; Oct. 31 —Arizona; and Nov. 14 — Wyoming .

The Rosenberg twins, former Waltham, Mass., high school track stars, will be running against each other when Northeastern and Brandeis compete in the future. Steve is at Northeastern and Art at Brandeis.

Sandy Whiffs 200th Man As LA Edges Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ron Fairly's triple with the bases loaded sparked a four-run fifth inning uprising and carried Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday.

En route to his victory Koufax set a National League record—striking out 200 or more batters for the fourth straight season. He fanned nine all told, running his season total to an even 200.

Tony Cloninger was the losing pitcher. He carried a 2-1 lead into the fifth, then ran into a volley of four hits which sent him to his shower and netted the Dodgers four runs.

Koufax himself began the barrage with a single. Maury Wills also singled and a walk to Willie Davis filled the bases. Fairly, who had knocked in a run earlier with a triple lined another triple off first baseman Gene Oliver's glove into the right field corner.

Tommy Davis completed the rally with a single, which extended his hitting streak to 20 games and tied the major league season high shared by Willie Mays of San Francisco and Ed Bressoud of Boston.

Denny Menke trimmed the Dodgers' lead to one run in the eighth with a two-run homer.

Chisox Hit Hard to Win Over Red Sox 'Cousins'

CHICAGO (AP)—The normally light-hitting Chicago White Sox erupted for five runs in the second inning and three more in the third, and rookie Fred Talbot coasted home for a 9-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

The victory was the 11th in 13 games for Chicago over Boston this season.

Talbot didn't allow a baserunner until he had an eight-run lead, nor a run until Tony Horon hit a homer with one out in the tenth and Dick Williams hit back-to-back home runs with one out in the ninth.

Talbot drove in the first run of the game with a wind-blown double in the second inning. Floyd Robinson singled in two more runs, and Don Buford and Moose Skowron each drove in one in the big second.

Talbot reached first on an error with two out in the third, advanced on Tom McCraw's double. Both scored when Buford singled, and then Pete Ward drove Buford across.

A single, walk, error and wild pitch added up to the final White Sox run in the eighth.

Hydro Mark Expected to Fall

SEATTLE (AP) — The world's competitive record of 109.459 miles per hour is expected to tumble Sunday-with or without the help of laughing gas-when 15 unlimited hydroplanes churn Lake Washington in the Seafair Trophy race.

A purse of $25,000 was posted for the event.

Driver Ron Musson of the Gold Cup winning Miss Bardahl said Saturday he believed his boat could "live with 110" for the 45 miles of racing.

But the man to beat is Bill Brown, who drove Miss Exide to victory last week in the Diamond Cup race on Lake Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, and then revealed he tickled the engine to triumph with laughing gas.

A special device enabled Brown to add an occasionl spurt of the nitrous oxide to the fuel mixture for added acceleration.

Included in pre-race favorites are Notre Dame, driven by the former pilot of the famous, Miss Thriftway, Bill Muncey, and the Miss Budweiser, which was the Maverick.

Dempsey to Be Feted as State's Greatest Athlete

Jack Dempsey, although forced to remain in New York City because of a mild heart attack, will be honored tonight at the Dublin House in northeast Colorado Springs as "Colorado's Greatest All-Time Athlete."

The International Footprint Assn., Dad Bruce Chapter, has named Dempsey as the recipient of this award and the former World Heavyweight boxing champion was planning to attend tonight's banquet until his illness.

Now scheduled to accept the award on behalf of Dempsey is his friend and world renown boxing authority Eddie Eagan of New York City. Eagan, a Rhodes scholar, also has a brilliant record as an amateur boxer including an Olympic championship.

Also scheduled to be on hand this evening is Everett Marshall, former World's Heavyweight wrestling champion who now runs a ranch for boys near La Junta.

Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, congressman from southern Colorado, will make the presentation.

Orioles Plunge Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) —Rookie outfielder Sam Bowens' 10th inning home run powered the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-5 triumph and their second straight victory over the New York Yankees before the American League's largest crowd of the season Saturday.

The victory widened the Orioles lead to two games over the Yankees, who fell into third place one-half game behind the Chicago White Sox, who defeated Boston 9-2.

The homer, No. 13 of the season for Bowens, was his third hit of the game. Previously he doubled and singled, scoring in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Dick Brown, and again in the seventh on a home run by Earl Robinson.

The Orioles, trailing 2-1, had gone ahead in the seventh, scoring four runs to knock out Roland Sheldon and take a 5-2 lead.

The Yankees drew even, scoring a run in their half of the seventh on Joe Pepitone's 16th home run and two more in the eighth when with two out, Stu Miller hit Phil Linz with a pitch and Bobby Richardson followed with his fourth homer of the campaign.

Whitey Ford, the Yankees' ailing southpaw, and Milt Pappas, Baltimore's star righthander, were the starters but but neither was involved in the decision.

Ford, after hurling two shutout innings, was forced to retire when he aggravated an old hip injury.

Pappas permitted three hits in six innings before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

The victory went to Dick Hall, who retired six straight batters in the ninth and 10th innings.

Bold Lad Sets New Track Mark At Monmouth

OCEANPORT, N. J. (AP)—Bold Lad, a swift son of Bold Ruler, ran the fastest six furlongs ever turned in by a 2-year-old at Monmouth Park and won the $102,575 Sapling Stakes Saturday for his fourth straight victory.

The chestnut flyer, from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable and trained by W.C. Winfrey, ran the three-quarters of a mile in 1:09 2-5 under 122 pounds. The time clipped one-fifth of a second off the track record for 2-year-olds set only a week ago by Bold Lad and Bold Experience, another Bold Ruler offspring.

The clocking also was a full second off the stake record established by Hail to Reason in taking the 1960 Sapling.

Braulio Baeza held the Wheatley colt off the early pace set by Tibidabo, took him to the front at the top of the home stretch and won by one-half length. Native Charger, a son of Native Dancer, was second three lengths in front of the North Forty Stable's Sadair. Tibidabo was a weary fourth.

Bears Show More Offense, Less Defense In 'Star Tilt

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears switched tactics in gaining a 28-17 victory over the College All-Stars before a crowd of 65,000 in Soldier Field Friday night.

They experienced more difficulty in defensing the All-Stars than they did most of their National Football League foes, but they also indicated they will have more punch when they open defense of their league championship.

Trailing 10-7 at the half, the Bears unloaded a strong passing game in the second half and overcame the collegians, who played even beyond the expectations of Coach Otto Graham.

The Bears rolled up 371 yards with 287 coming on passing. Three of their touchdowns were direct strikes through the air and their fourth was set up on a 39-yard pass, after which quarterback Bill Wade stepped over from the one-yard line for the score.

While the Bears were concentrating on offense, their tremendous defense which carried them to last year's title sagged a bit under the efforts of Chuck Taylor, a brilliant halfback from Arizona State who will play with the Washington Redskins, and quarterback George Mira, the scrambler from Miami of Florida, who is headed for the San Francisco 49ers.

Taylor not only utilized his speed but was a standout in every respect. He took a 29-yard pass from Pete Beathard of Southern California in the second quarter and two plays later ripped off a nine-yard gain that helped set up a 14-yard field goal by Dick Van Raaphorst of Ohio State. That gave the All-Stars a 3-0 lead.

After the Bears had taken a 7-3 lead, the touchdown coming on a Wade to Mike Ditka 13-yard pass, Taylor took a pitchout from Mira and heaved a 14-yard touchdown pass to Ted Davis of Georgia Tech, leading the All-Stars to a 10-7 halftime edge.

The All-Stars then yielded to the Bear attack which pulled the Chicagoans into a 28-10 lead before Mira flipped a five-yard touchdown pass in the final minute of the game.

"Our mistakes beat us," said Graham. "Their last two touchdowns came after a fumble and an interception. The Bears didn't beat us. We beat ourselves."

Tribe Turns Savage, Trounces Twins, 16-8

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fred Whitfield drove in five runs on a home run and two singles and reliever Gary Bell checked a six-run uprising as the Cleveland Indians trounced the Minnesota Twins 16-8 Saturday.

The Tribe batted around twice in the slugfest, sending 10 men to the plate in a five-run second and again in the six-run sixth innings. It was the Indians' fourth victory in a row and ninth in the last 11 games. They blasted Minnesota pitchers in a 16-hit attack. Cleveland's run total was its highest in seven years.

Bell replaced starter Dick Donovan in the fifth with one out and none on after the Twins had scored five runs on homers by rookie Tony Oliva and Jimmie Hall. The Cleveland righthander yielded a solo homer to Bob Allison, then ended the threat.

Bell was in command until the eighth when pinch batter Don Mincher hit his 16th homer after Frank Kostro had doubled.

He contributed to his victory, smacking a two-run single in the fifth.

Whitfield hit his sixth homer of the season off ex-Indian Jim Grant in the first with one on. The Cleveland first baseman whacked a two-run single in the second and knocked in another run in the fifth.

Emerson, Stolle Square Off in Canada Tennis

MONTREAL (AP) — Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle advanced Saturday to the final of the Canadian Open tennis championships.

Emerson whipped his Australian countrymen, Tony Roche, 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Stolle defeated Owen Davidson 7-5, 6-3, 8-6 in another All-Australian semifinal.

Emerson and Stolle play for the title Sunday.

Alice Tym of Peoria, Ill. was beaten in the semifinals of the women's singles by Louise Brown of Toronto 6-4, 3-6, 9-7.

Benita Senn of Tronto defeated Shirley Harit of Montreal 6-4, 6-2 in the other women's semifinals.

German Tennis Reaches Semi's

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) —Manuel Santana and Wilhelm Bungert, top tennis players of Spain and Germany, won quarter-final matches in the German International Tennis Championships Saturday and will meet in the semifinals.

Santana eliminated Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 6-3, 6-3, 6-3 and Bungert defeated Bora Jovanovic of Yugoslavia 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

In another quarter-final, Christian Kuhnke of Germany beat Nicola Pilic of Yugoslavia 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Procedure For Selecting New Commissioner Slated

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball's major leagues are expected to take the first small step toward selecting a successor to retiring Commissioner Ford Frick at their summer meetings Monday and Tuesday.

There is practically no chance that a new commissioner will be named at this time. However, the major league Executive Council probably will lay out the procedure to be followed. It is likely that each league will be asked to name a committee to set up some method of screening candidates.

Frick announced Wednesday he was stepping down at the end of his term. It had been a foregone conclusion that the 69-year-old commissioner would not serve beyond the term expiring Sept. 20, 1965. He said he will step aside if a successor is named.

The same names that have been mentioned for the last year again are in the center of speculation. Joe Cronin, current president of the American League; Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., and Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee, legal counsel to the Players' Association, are listed as possibilities. None is a professed candidate for the job.

When the owners do get around to voting on a successor, he must receive at least eight votes in each 10-team league.

Although speculation about a new commissioner will continue, the main business for the majors is to discuss a Monday night national television plan and a proposed free agent player draft. The two leagues will meet separately Monday afternoon and a joint meeting is scheduled tentatively for Tuesday morning.

The first game will begin at 9 a.m. with Pueblo and Las Animas meeting at 11 and Trinidad playing the winner of the Walsenburg - Colorado Springs game at 1 p.m.

The survivors of the 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. games will play the winner of the Pueblo-Las Animas game for the championship at 4 p.m.

Ralston, Froehling Head Into Finals

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dennis Ralston and Frank Froehling, seeded one-two in the Middle Atlantic grass court tennis championships, scored straight set victories Saturday and moved into the finals.

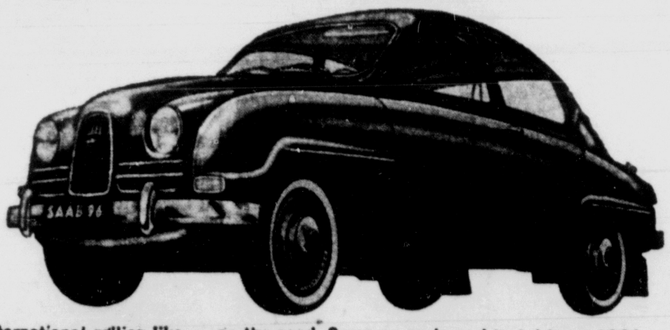

Ralston required just an hour to breeze past Dave Power, a 19-year-old collegian from Fort Collins, Colo., 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Froehling eliminated fourth-seeded Patricio Rodriguez of Chile 6-0, 12-10, 6-3.

Ralston and Froehling also advanced to the finals of the doubles, but on opposite sides.

Ralston teamed with Chuck Rombeau to defeat Bob Siska and Dave Sanderlin 18-16, 6-4, Froehling and Chuck Pasarell of Puerto Rico downed Rodriguez and Patricio Cornejo of Chile 5-7, 9-7, 6-4.

If you don't keep up with international rallies like England's RAC and the Classic Monte Carlo, you may not appreciate how solidly built a car must be to stand up to these tortuous endurance runs. SAAB does, year after year . . . and wins. Because of its unusual 2-stroke engine/front-wheel drive power system*, SAAB consistently beats larger, more powerful cars. SAAB—a 5-passenger family sedan, not a sports car—takes more rally wins than any car in the world.

Needless to say, it performs like nothing else on the road. So come on in and test-drive a 1964 SAAB. You just can't believe people still take the trouble to build a car as great as this one.

Cricket? Sure, But Who's On First?

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON (AP)—He's got an in-swinging yorker and tickled it to short leg.

Anyone like to guess what he's doing?

Cricket has a language all its are on between England and own. We'll try to explain.

There are different kinds of deliveries that can be pitched to him.

Out-swinger. The same — but the ball swings the other way.

Off-break. The ball hits the ground in front of the batsman and spins in from the off-side.

Leg-break. The ball spins in from the leg side.

Googly. This is a tricky one. It's a concealed variation from a leg-break specialist — on occasional ball that spins the wrong way.

Full toss. A ball that comes straight on to the bat, baseball style, without bouncing.

Yorker. The ball lands right at the base of the bat.

Long hop. The ball pitches short and bounces high at the batsman. If he's quick he can hook it (hit it hard to the leg side).

Now the fielding positions. Some of them sound crazy-but they're everyday language for

Point. The equivalent position to square leg, but on the off side.

The slips. They stand to the right of the wicket-keeper (Catcher) behind the batsman, ready to catch one that flies off the edge of the bat.

The gully. He stands between point and slips. It's a hot one for the gully to catch when the batsman slashes one at him, head high.

Deep mid-off. The same, but further away.

Silly mid-off. The same, but closer in.

Mid-on. Roughly shortstop.

Mid-wicket. On the led side — around third base position.

There are 11 men in a cricket team, including the bowler and the wicket-keeper, so you can't man all these positions at once.

The captain places his field according to the type of bowler who's pitching. It's the same as in baseball-the batsman still tries to hit 'em where they ain't.

Teacher Tops U.S. Marathon

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Write

THUNDERSLEY, England (AP) — "If he wasn't a first class teacher he wouldn't be here," said headmaster Albert J. Evans.

He's a gifted teacher, makes full use of visual aids like television and concentrates mostly on history."

Evans, a forthright Welshman, was talking about the only American at his King John School, Thundersley, Essex, England.

The Yank in question is Buddy Edelen, 26 years old, 5 feet 9½ inches and the top United States selection for the marathon at the Tokyo Olympics in October.

The headmaster was making this point —Edelen would not be on his staff if he were simply good on the sports field and useless in class.

Edelen has been teaching at the English school since 1960. It's a co-educational one with boys and girls ranging in age

All of them know Edelen's record on the sports field. He has marathon for the United States since Johnny Hayes did it in 1908.

They know him as the eccentric teacher who races into the school gates about five minutes before the bell goes, wearing h running shorts and shirt.

We watched him teaching his mixed-class of English boys and girls. He was telling them about the British Commonwealth — its leaders, the leaders' interests, ages and hobbies.

The kids knew he would stand no nonsense.

An hour later the King John School had its annual sports day.

And Edelen, who dresses like an American,, speaks with a strange cross between English and American and lives like an Englishman, was out on the field with a stop watch in his hand.

He clocked the girls and boys over the line with the same dedication that he puts into the business of training and suffering in the cause of the marathon.

Giants' Marichal To Leave Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Juan Marichal, San Francisco Giants pitching ace, will be released from a New York hospital Monday but won't return to the team until late in the week, the National League club said Saturday.

Marichal is being treated for strained back muscles.

It was reported that Marichal is coming along fine but needs additional rest.

Schooling Races to Start Wednesday at RMKC

Al Binns, general manager of Colorado Springs' Rocky Mountain Kennel Club, has announced that official schooling races will be run nightly, except Sundays, starting at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 12.

RMKO will open its 16th annual meet on Saturday, Aug. 22, at 8 p.m., and continue nightly through October 31. Sundays excepted. RMKC is located north of downtown Colorado Springs on North Nevada, which is also Highway 85-87 to Denver.

"We have backed 29 of the finest greyhound kennels in the racing business," Binns said in commenting on the coming season, "and we feel that we are presenting to greyhound racing fans of the Pikes Peak Region the best greyhounds that we have ever had."

RMKC is booking kennels independently of any group or other track, which along with the change of racing dates by many of the Florida tracks, is allowing RMKC to book from among the nations finest kennels. Many of the greyhounds that will be racing at RMKC have recently completed a season of racing at Sarasota, Vla.

F. B. Stutz who has raced greyhounds at RMKC for many years and is known as one of the top greyhound racing men in the entire country, has already checked in his kennel with Frank Jones, RMKC's racing secretary. Some of the greyhounds that Stutz will race over the RMKC oval this year are still to arrive the first part of the week as are some 500 other greyhounds that will be making the RMKC meet.

Five new kennels have been added to the RMKC kennel roster this season. They are Frank Whitehead, Carl Tracy, Frank Pierce, Oscar Evers and the Huron Kennels. Among the others that will be making the list of 20 are Don Abernathy, G .A. Alderson, Cen-Tex Kennel, L. B. Hughes, Kenneth Smith and Summitt Kennels.

Only seven of the kennels presently racing at Pueblo will enter the RMKC meet: they are Paul George, Joe Mamino, George Murphy, Shamrock Kennel, Paul Sutherland, Star Club, and Cecil Wilson.

"We expect 1964 to be our greatest greyhound race meet in our entire 16 year history," Binns said, "and there are several new things in greyhound racing at RMKC tihs year. We have installed a new Tote Board that is operated directly from the calculating room that will allow the changing of the odds as many as eight, ten or a dozen times before a race; we're adopting the Twin-Quin for the first time. It will be on the 10th and 11th races and we will have 11 races each night."

In prior seasons RMKC has featured 11 race programs on Friday, Saturday and Monday nights while Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday have seen 10 race cards.

The Twin-Quin is somewhat like the Daily Double except that it is to pick the winning Quiniela combinations of the last two races of the evening while the Daily Double is on the winners of the first and second races of the program. RMKC will continue to have the Daily Double on the first two events each evening as in past seasons.

Admission is free to the schooling races and everyone is welcome regardless of age. However, no minors will be admitted to the track after the official racing season oepns on Saturday, Aug. 22.

Philadelphia Rides Mets To Hold National Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National League-leading Philadelphia Phils continued to feast on the last-place New York Mets Saturday as they rode an eight-run fifth inning to a 12-5 victory.

It boosted the Phils' lead temporarily to three games over San Francisco and 4½ over Cincinnati. The Giants and Reds played a night game at Cincinnati.

Six of the eight Philadelphia runs in the big fifth were unearned, as the Mets contributed two of their four errors during the rally. Twelve Phils batted.

Ruben Amaro drove in three with his third homer and Wes Covington got two hits in the inning, a double and a single.

Winning pitcher Rick Wise left the game when the Mets rallied for three runs in the sixth on Jessie Gonder's homer with two on. Joe Christopher connected in the eighth for his 12th homer, six of which have come against the Phils.

The Phils now have beaten the Mets four straight and are 11-2 against them this season.

Race's Only Filly Captures $114,000 Arlington Classic

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Tosmah, lone filly in the field of 10, scored a 2½ length victory in the $114,000 Arlington Classic for 3-year-olds at Arlington Park Saturday.

The 2-1 favorite Roman Brother finished fourth, failing to find running room most of the one-mile race.

Second was the lightly reckoned Lt. Stevens, and Close By, a 10-1 shot, finished third.

Tosmah, a bay filly owned by Briardale Farms and the 2-year-old filly champion of 1963, returned $17.60, $10.40 and $7.60 to her backers in the crowd of 29,379.

Lt. Stevens, nosing out Close By, paid $11 and $6.80. Close By's show price was $7.40.

Tosmah, ridden by Sammy Boulmetis and carrying 115 pounds, stepped into contention midway around the final turn and led by five lengths entering the stretch.

Mike Souchak Disqualifies Self In Western Open

CHICAGO (AP)—Mike Souchak, four-under-par through 14 holes of the third round of the Western Open Golf Tournament Saturday, disqualified himself on the 15th after hitting a ball from out of bounds.

Souchak, far off the pace at Tam O'Shanter with a 146 after 36 holes, was making a bid in the third round.

But his duck-hooked drive on the 15th landed on an asphalt parking lot. Souchak hit the ball off the surface and onto the fairway without realizing out-of-bound stakes marked the lot.

Sam Snead, the last player to win the Western Open in successive years—1949 and 1950—withdrew with a sore shoulder after shooting a 40 on the first nine. Snead also was 146 at the halfway mark.

Jeannette Named Bullet Coach After Leonard Quit

BALTIMORE (AP) — Harry (Buddy) Jeannette was named coach of the Baltimore Bullets Saturday replacing Bob Leonard, who resigned from the National Basketball Association team after his request for a three-year contract was turned down.

Jeannette, 47, coached the Bullets to a championship in 1947-48 in the Basketball Association of America, forerunner of the NBA. He was fired during the 1951 season but has remained a Baltimore resident since.

Jeannette had signed to coach Wilmington in the Eastern Basketball League for the coming season. He had coached Baltimore teams in the same league three years.

Since retiring from the pro ranks as a player, Jeannette also has coached Georgetown University and the University of Baltimore. He is a native of New Kensington, Pa., and a graduate of Washington and Jefferson.

Leonard, 32, became coach during the 1962-63 season, when the team was based in Chicago and was known as the Zephyers

Leonard asked for a three-year contract, but club officials said they were against long-term agreements and offered Leonard a one-year pact.

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Swift Edith McGuire won the 100 and 200 meter dashes—this country's strongest events—while Janell Smith and Ranae Bair set American records in the wind-up of the three-day U.S. Women's Olympic Track and Field Trials Saturday.

Miss McGuire, a 20-year-old Tennessee State student who won three gold medals in the recent meet with Russia, won the 100 with a desperate lunge that caught Marilyn White at the wire in 11.3. Miss McGuire scored by six yards in the 200 in 23.4.

The 5-foot-8, 128 pounder, who is heir apparent to the retired Wilma Rudolph was aided by the wind on the 100, which she finished in a time she had previously predicted may be good enough to win in Tokyo.

Miss Bair, from San Diego, got off a javelin throw of 176 feet even, erasing her own American mark of 171-8. Miss Smith, an 18-year-old from Fredonia, Kan., broke her own record with a 54.6 in a qualifying heat of the 400-meter run Friday. She then won the event Saturday in 55.6, tiring badly in the final 100 yards after fighting a strong wind on the backstretch.

In all, 19 girls earned spots in 20 positions — with Miss McGuire the only repeater — by their performances compared with the rigid, pre-determined Olympic qualifying standards.

The U. S., as all other nations, is allowed one entrant in each event on the Olympic program. A second or third entrant however, must meet tac qualifying standards.

Winners of final events Saturday, failed to meet those standards in four of the 10 events, indicating this country would have little chance in these events in Tokyo.

These included a 49-1¾ shot put by Earlene Brown, a 240-pounder from Compton, Calif., who won the bronze medal in 1960. The throw was three-quarters of an inch off the standard.

Sandra Knott of Cleveland won the 800 in 2:13.1, well off the 2:08 standard. Olga Connolly, wife of hammer throw record holder Hal Connolly, tossed the discus in 162-9, short of the 164½ standard, and Miss Smith's 400-meter triumph in 55.6 was just off the 55.5 standard.

All are eligible for the Tokyo trip as winners, however. Mrs. Connolly and Miss Smith previously had qualified.

Among the more impressive performances in the meet that drew a sparse gathering of about 200 to Randall's Island were wind-blown broad jumps of 21-4 and 21-3 by Chicago veteran Willye White and Martha Watson, respectively, and a 10.8 victory by Rosie Bonds of Pasadena, Calif., in the 80-meter hurdles.

Yanks Three-Up In Stevens Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The United States took an insurmountable 3-0 lead Saturday in its first defense of the Stevens Cup, a seniors international tennis competition patterned after the Davis Cup.

George MacCall and Allen Martini, both of Los Angeles, defeated James Mehta of Bombay, India, and M. V. Bobbjee of Madras, India, 10-8, 6-2 and 6-2.

MacCall and Martini are the nation's top ranked senior men's doubles pair. Mehta and Bobbjee were defeated in singles competition Friday.

The two Indians will play an as yet unnamed American pair in singles matches Sunday.

Honeymooner Takes Junior Golf Crown

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Jim Day, 17 - year - old newly - wed from Laurel, Miss., who is on his honeymoon, won the 19th Jaycee international junior golf championship Saturday with a two-under-par 70 in the final Jaycee international junior golf championship Saturday with a two-under-par 70 on the final round.

That gave Day 72-hole total of 286, two under par, and put him three strokes ahead of John Bohman of Sequin, Tex. Bohman shot a final-round 69 for a 289 total.

Bohman made a valiant bid to overtake Day with a hole-in-one on the 17th, but his putter failed him in the clutch.

Finishing third was John Richart of Ann Arbor, Mich., with a 74 Saturday for a 290 total. Fourth was Terry Dear of Albuquerque, N.M. with a 72 and a 291 total.

Tied for fifth were Bob Foster of Columbia, S.C. and Jerry Heard of Vasalia, Calif., with 293s. Bob Barbarossa of St. Cloud, Minn. was seventh at 294.

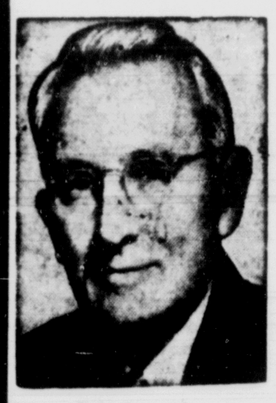

Deadlocked for eighth with 297s were Dick Eller of Nashville, Tenn., Joe Inman of Greensboro, N.C. and Len Thompson of Laurinburg, N.C.

In the "B" consolation tournament, Mark Bruekman of Berin, Md. fired a 149 for 36 holes to win.

STRIDES TO VICTORY—Pat Winslow, San Mateao, Calif., housewife, broke the tape Saturday to win the 200-meter pentathlon event in the U.S. Olympic team trials at New York's Randell Island. Mrs. Winslow was clocked in 24.8. At left is Denise Paschal of Laurel Track Club, who finished second in this heat and was third in the overall 200-meter dash competition. At right is Barbara Brown of New York City P. A. L. Mrs. Winslow finished first in the pentathlon trials with 4,544 points.

HE WON'T MISS THE HIGH ONES—Al Schacht, baseball's clown, climbed a stepladder for a better view of the pitch to Dom DiMaggio during Old Timers' game at New York's Yankee Stadium Saturday. The game matched all-time great Yankees against all-time opponents, in a two-inning affair before the regular game between the modern-day Yankees and the Baltimore Orioles. Catcher is Yogi Berra, New York manager.

Angels Sign for Trip to Anaheim

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels signed a stadium rental contract with the City of Anaheim Saturday and thereby committed themselves to move their American League franchise here in 1966.

The contract obligates the city to construct a stadium expected to cost $20 million and seat about 45,000.

The stadium site is about two miles from Disneyland and 25 miles by freeway from downtown Los Angeles. The city hopes to break ground Aug. 17.

The contract provides:

That the Angels will pay the city 7½ per cent of net receipts from ticket sales.

That the Angels will receive two-thirds of net receipts from concessions and the city one-third.

That parking revenue will be divided equally between the ball club and the city.

Plans call for parking for a minimum of 12,000 cars.

The city will operate the stadium and also will select its name.

Mayor Odra L. Chandler said that the cost of amortizing the stadium bonds will be $1,071,000 per year.

"We hope to take in that amount every year," he said. "We're fairly certain we'll take in $650,000 from the Angels.

"I'm sure that with all the professional football teams in the United States, we'll have one of those. I don't know which one yet."

Asked whether any football teams had been approached, Chandler said:

"No, not yet. But when we break ground we'll do it."

Chandler said the city would also try to get Orange State College and the University of California at Irvine to play their football games in the stadium. Both are located nearby.

"And we hope to have rodeos, meetings like the Billy Graham rallies, fireworks displays and other events," the mayor said.

Chandler said three contractors besides Webb made presentations.

"Webb was the only one who indicated he could do the job within the time limit," the mayor said.

Chandler said he fully expects the stadium will be ready for the Angels' first home game in 1966. But he said some sections of the stands, the stadium club and some other facilities may not be finished.

GOT A PROBLEM? ASK THE PRO

Q "I top the ball one time—sky the next. How can I go from one extreme to another like this?"
—Asks Kathlene McCormick, Detroit, Michigan

A They aren't necessarily extremes. Sure the results are exact opposites, but the cause quite possibly is the same. A chopping downswing causes both a top and a sky . . . direction of sway determines which.

Three Tie for Lead In Waterloo Open Golf

Ruth Jessen, Shirley Englehorn and Kathy Whitworth all had 143s going into Sunday's final round in the $8,500 tournament.

Jo Ann Prentice, who had been tied with Jessen, Englehorn and Creed, after the opening round, was in sixth place with a 146.

Miss Whitworth, runner up here three times but never the champion, strung together ten pars and five birdies for a two-under par 70, the day's best round.

Miss Englehorn had 14 pars, a birdie and the only eagle of the tournament so far in posting a 71.

Miss Jessen, the second leading money winner on the ladies Professional Golf Association tour, also had a 71.

If the tournament ends in a tie Sunday, a sudden-death playoff will be held.

Single by Wood in 13th Yands Detroit Victory

DETROIT (AP)—Jake Wood's pinch-hit single in the 13th inning scored Bill Freehan and gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Saturday.

Freehan led off the inning with a single off Ken Sanders, the fifth Kansas City pitcher, and advanced to second on Dick McAuliffe's sacrifice bunt. After an intentional walk to Norm Cash, Wood batted for reliever Fred Gladding and lined a hit to left field to break up the extra inning duel.

Gladding blanked the Athletics over the last four innings and picked up his fifth victory in six decisions.

The Athletics had tied the score in the ninth when Dick Green singled off Tiger starter Dave Wickersham, took second on a sacrifice bunt and tallied on Wayne Causey's two-out single.

Singles by Jerry Lumpe and Al Kaline, plus an infield out, gave the Tigers a 1-0 lead in the first inning but the A's went ahead 2-1 in the third on four singles, with Rocky Colavito and Jim Gentile driving in the runs.

McAuliffe beat out an infield hit in the fourth and scored the Tigers' second run on a double by George Thomas. Don Demeter homered off KC strater John O'Donoghue in the fifth, giving Detroit a 3-2 margin.

Former Yankees Win, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP) — To the strains of Auld Lang Syne, the New York Yankees' 18th annual Old Timers Day unfolded Saturday, prior to the regular game with the Baltimore Orioles.

This year's attraction matched teams composed of all-time Yankees and all-time opponents. Fans chose the players in a season-long poll.

In the two-inning game, the Yankees drubbed their opponents 3-0, scoring twice in the first inning as Satchel Paige was clipped for four hits after Dizzy Dean had allowed one.

Tommy Henrich then singled and stole second, Paige entered, and singles by Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller, Joe Collins and Jerry Coleman followed.

Against Don Newcombe in the second inning, the Yanks scored the other run when Woodling tripled and Hank Bauer, the current Baltimore manager, doubled.

Palmer Charges Into Tie For First With Rodriguez

CHICAGO (AP) — Arnold Palmer with a third round 67, and Chi Chi Rodriguez, with 68, were tied for the lead after 54 holes in the Western Golf Open Saturday with 201 totals matching the lowest total for this stretch on the PGA tour this year.

Chi Chi, 28-year-old Puerto Rican, wedged an approach three feet from the hole on the 18th and dropped the putt for a birdie three in rounding out a 35-33-68 card. He has rounds of 64-69-68.

Palmer, the defending champion, birdied two of the last four holes for 34-33-67. It gave him rounds of 68-66-67 over the par 36-35—71 Tam O'Shanter course, which measures 6,686 yards.

The 201s equalled the lowest first 54 holes shot in PGA tournaments this year. Doug Sanders, Mike Souchak, Gene Littler and Bill Casper did it in the Memphis Open.

Moving into third place for Sunday's drive for the $11,000 top prize was 27-year-old Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Tex., an outsider whose total circuit earnings this year are $2,012.

Massengale, whose best finish was a tie for seventh in the Tucson Open, posted a 35-34—69 for 205. Billy Casper with 71 fitted in at 206. Jay Hebert with 70 and National Open champion Ken Venturi with 68 had 207 totals.

Jack Nicklaus, heading the money list with $92,917, made his move with the day's best round of 30-35 — 65 for 208. Grouped with him were Skee Riegel with 70 and surprising Tom Veech of Menominee Falls, Wis., with 69.

Nicklaus fired six birdies on the front nine. On the ninth, a trap made him settle for par 5 and cost him a chance to match a course record of 29.

His 65 came despite being in the rough eight times on his drives. He had only 27 putts.

British Open titlist Tony Lema and Jim Ferrier were tied at 209. Locked at 210 were Bruce Devlin, Julius Boros, Bill Garet and Pete Fleming.

The cutoff for the final round was 219 and ties, leaving 63 pros and amateur Steve Spray of Indianola, Iowa, in the field.

If there is a tie with 72 holes, an 18 hole playoff will be held starting at 1 p.m., EST, Monday.

Richey Captures Grass Court Title Over Miss Moffitt

LOCUST VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) — Second-seeded Nancy Richey of Dallas, upset top-seeded Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., 6-3, 1-6, 6-4, in the final of the Piping Rock Women's Invitation Grass Court tennis tournament Saturday.

Miss Richey outlasted her favored foe in a final set of five service breaks, including the last four games, and avenged last week's loss to Miss Moffitt in the Eastern Grass Court championships.

Miss Richey broke Miss Moffitt's service in the fourth game of the opening set. Miss Moffitt took a 5-0 lead in the second set to even the match.

Miss Richey led, 3-0 and 4-2, in the deciding set. They then dueled through four service breaks with Miss Moffitt losing a 40-30 edge, one point from a 5-5 tie, in the final game.

In the doubles final, Miss Moffitt and Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman, former Wimbledon winner from San Antonio, Tex., defeated Miss Richey and Mrs. Carole Caldwell Graebner of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-2, 12-10.

Untouchable Wins Dublin's Prix

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Kathy Kusner, 24-year-old rider from Arlington, Va., guided Untouchable to victory in the International Grand Prix of Ireland at the Dublin horse show Saturday.

In the final jump-off, Miss Kusner and Britain's George Hobbs, on Brandy Soda, both had four faults but the American girl was nearly four seconds faster.

Carol Hoffman of North Branch, N.J., was third on San Pedro.

ATHLETES ON TOUR

NEW YORK (AP)—Athletes and daredevils from 14 countries will take part in a nine-city tour called The Wonderful World of Sport. One of the features will be a gymnastic team representing the AAU.

4-YEAR-Olds COME INTO OWN

CHICAGO (AP) — Four-year-old harness horses, once forgotten in the sport's economy and deprived of rich racing opportunities, have gained equal status in the sport.

As a result of races like the Harness Tracks of America championship series, the American National Maturities and the Realization stakes, 4-year-olds moved onto a virtual level with 3-year-olds in 1963.

Ft. Carson Polo Team Captures Second Place

Second place was captured by the Ft. Carson Polo Team in the Sherman Memorial Trophy Tournament, July 25, at Penrose Stadium.

The three day competition, covered the northwest area of the United States Polo Association.

Although this officially ended the playing season for the Carson team, practice and workouts will continue. They have not been sceduled yet, said a team spokesman, because new players are being sought after—inexperienced as well as experienced. Once new blood joins the team, members will be able to decide the best days on which to practice.

According to the spokesman, anyone interested in learning or playing polo is welcomed to contact Hugh Trabandt, Ext. 3905; Captain Schindler, Ext 3511; or MSgt. Dayton Hare; Ext. 2954. All military personnel, enlisted men and officers, are invited.

FOUR RECORDS BROKEN

Most points a game in one season: 33.9 (474 in 14). The old record was 32.8 by Terry Dischinger, Purdue (459 in 14), in 1962.

Angels Top Senators On Shutout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels got six-hit pitching from Aubrey Gatewood and Bob Lee Saturday night and scored their 19th shutout of the season, defeating the Washington Senators 3-0.

The Angels made only five hits but four of them went for extra bases. Bob Rodgers and Bob Perry contributed doubles to a two-run rally in the fifth inning, Joe Adcock slammed his 298th major league homer in the seventh and Vic Power doubled in the eighth.

Angel pitchers lead the major leagues in shutouts. They have reeled off 10 in the last month.

Gatewood, relieved after yielding a leadoff single to Don Lock in the seventh, picked up his third victory in four decisions. He allowed five hits and let only one Washington runner past second base.

The loser was Buster Narum, 7-9, who gave up four hits in seven innings and was charged with all three runs, one unearned.

Narum had a no-hitter until Rodgers doubled with one away in the fifth. Perry scored Rodgers with a 385-foot drive to right-center. Perry tried to stretch the hit into a triple but would have been out if Don Zimmer hadn't dropped the ball at third. Perry scored when the ball rolled away from Zimmer.

Lee allowed only one hit in the last three innings. He has pitched 27 consecutive scoreless innings.

Owens Hurls Fine Relief in Colt Win

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Reliever Jim Owens snuffed out an eighth inning St. Louis rally with two strikeouts Saturday night and the Houston Colts edged the Cardinals 4-3.

Owens, third Colt pitcher in the inning, came on after the Cardinals had rallied on Ken Boyer's two-run homer and had put the potential tying and go-ahead runs on base. He ended the threat by fanning pinch hitters Dal Maxvill and Mike Shannon, then set the Cards down in the ninth.

Dave Roberts' two-run triple in the second inning off loser Ron Taylor, who was making his first start after 44 appearances in relief, and a two-run seventh gave the Colts a 4-1 lead before the Cardinals struck back against Don Nottebart and Hal Woodeshick in the eighth.

Bill White, who had extended his hitting streak to 16 games with a first inning single, led off with his third hit, a double to right field. Boyer followed with his 16th homer and Woodeshick replaced Nottebart. After Dick Groat flied out, singles by Carl Warwick and Tim McCarver chased Woodeshick and brought Owens to the rescue.

The Cardinals threatened again in the ninth when Curt Flood walked and advanced to third on a sacrifice and wild pitch but Owens got Boyer on a grounder to short to end the game.

Singles by Jerry Grote, Al Spangler and Joe Gaines around a walk to Nellie Fox produced the Colt runs in the seventh. Roberts tripled after singles by Walt Bond and Bob Aspromonte, driving in the first two Houston runs.

Champ Repeats As Boys Titlist In Jaycee Tennis

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Defending champion Alberto Carrero of San Juan, Puerto Rico, repeated as boys titlist and Californians captured the other three singles crowns in the 11th Jaycee international junior tennis tournament Saturday.

Carrero defeated Doug Verdieck of Redlands, Calif. 6-2, 7-5 for his second straight 16-and-under championship.

Dean Penero of Stockton, Calif., defeated top-ranked Jeff Brown of Carmichael, Calif. 9-11, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4 to take the junior men's title. Penero had ousted second-seeded Armistead Neely of Tampa, Fla. 8-6, 6-2 in Friday's semifinals.

Marie Sidone of Pebble Beach, Calif. won the junior woman's championship with a 6-2, 6-4 triumph over Jocil Janas of Detroit.

Royalee Bailey of Dacto, Calif. conquered third-seeded Mari Ann Peiset of El Cajon, Calif. 7-5, 6-1, to take the girls 16-and-under crown.

Carrero and Stanley Pasarell of Puerto Rico also won the boys doubles championship, defeating Steve Turen and Rob Miller of Dacto, Calif. 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

In junior men's doubles, Brown and Penero beat Tom Karp and Roy Barth of Los Angeles 6-1, 7-9, 6-3, 6-3.

Top-seeded Patricia Reyes and Lupita Suarez of Mexico were extended to 6-4, 13-11 in beating Eva Lopez and Sandra Knight of El Paso, Tex. in junior women's doubles.

Miss Bailey and Denise Carter of Dacto, Calif. won the girls' doubles by defeating Miss Peiset and Cathy Apple of San Diego 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

FIREWORKS FIGHT

BRIGHTON (UPI)—It is costing Adams County so much money to store confiscated fireworks that the owners of the explosives will have to pay for storage. That order was handed down Saturday by Dist. Judge Clifford J. Gobble over a disputed 771 cases of fireworks owned by the L. L. Stonebraker Rocky Mountain Fireworks Corp. The county confiscated the fireworks June 30, but has been fighting with the company over whether they should be destroyed or returned.

Perry Tosses Two-Hitter At Reds as Giants Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gaylord Perry blanked Cincinnati on two hits and Willie Mays drove in the only run with a sixth inning triple as the San Francisco Giants nipped the Reds 1-0 Saturday night.

The victory kept the Giants 2½ games behind the National League-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who beat the New York Mets in an afternoon game, and dropped third place Cincinnati 5½ games off the pace.

Perry faced only 30 batters in evening his season record at 8-8. He gave up singles to Vada Pinson, in the fourth inning, and to pinch hitter Mel Queen, leading off in the ninth.

The only other Red to reach base was Johnny Edwards, who got aboard in the second inning when Hal Lanier booted his ground ball. The San Francisco right-hander struck out seven and didn't walk anyone.

Southpaw Joe Nuxhall matched shutout innings with Perry until the sixth when Willie McCovey singled and Mays tripled to centerfield. The Giants collected eight hits off Nuxhall, who dropped his seventh game in 15 decisions.

Wilderness Bill Approval Seen As Certainty

By BENNETT WOLFE

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of consideration and controversy, Congress is about to agree on something called the wilderness bill.

What's it all about?

It is a bill that would provide for preservation of a vast system of wilderness areas in as nearly their natural state as possible. Soothing of men's souls is one of the objectives.

The stated purpose is to keep for present and future generations areas of unspoiled, pristine wilderness, unmarred by roads, buildings, automobiles or motorboats.

Systems of trails would provide access for hikers, mountain climbers, hunters, fishermen and — as Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, once put it in Senate debate — for "all those who find, in high and lonely places, a refreshment of the spirit and life's closest communion with God."

Only minor differences remain to be smoothed out between bills passed by both House and Senate before Congress sends the Wilderness Act of 1964 to the White House for President Johnson's certain approval.

What lands would be included in the system? Initially, more than 9 million acres of National Forest lands, principally in Wyoming, Montana, California, Idaho, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Colorado, Minnesota and Nevada. An additional 5 million acres, including some forest lands in North Carolina and New Hampshire, may be added later.

Since the Forest Service, an agency of the Agriculture Department, now has control of the areas, why is the legislation needed? Because, in the words of Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., "such areas now enjoy only the protection of the secretary of agriculture, who at some future time could, be the stroke of the pen, remove all or part of such areas" from what protection they now enjoy.

What about commercial activities in the wilderness areas? Provision is made for commercial services necessary "for acitvities which are proper for realizing the recreational or other wilderness purposes."

Who opposed the legislation; such groups as livestock graziers, minerals prospectors, miners and loggers. They feared loss of rights to use of federal lands.

What of their rights under the Wilderness Act? Provision is made for such activities under controls designed to keep them compatible with preservation of the wilderness character.

What about the cost? The legislation does not call for any money. It would simply give statutory protection to existing wilderness areas, establishing a national policy to be carried out by existing agencies. Congress would have the power, however, to vote future appropriations for acquisition of privately owned lands within the boundaries of any wilderness area.

Kennedy Clan Grandmother Dies at 98

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. John F. Fitzgerald, grandmother of the late President John F. Kennedy, died today. She was 98.

The widow of a onetime Boston mayor, she watched the inauguration and other major events in the career of President Kennedy on television.

On election day in 1960 she was recovering from illness but followed the results on TV. She said then of the newly-elected President: "I did all I could for him with prayer; he'll be a wonderful president because he is a wonderful man."

President Kennedy visited his grandmother in 1962 when he came to Boston to vote.

In mid-summer of 1963 she happily posed for news photographers amid a family group that included 10 of her 39 great-grandchildren.

On her 97th birthday — Oct. 31, 1962—she attended Mass at the home of her son, Thomas A. Fitzgerald. Her nephew, the Rev. John F. Fitzgerald, celebrated the Mass, and the President's mother, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, visited her.

The former Josephine Mary Hannon, she was born in Acton, Mass. She was married there in 1889 to the man who later was mayor of Boston.

They had six children, including, Rose, the late President's mother.

A tall woman, about 5-8, she was hospitalized in August of 1960 with a mild heart condition.

Her nurse said she listened all day long to the radio newscasts of the Democratic convention. Asked once if she was excited about being grandmother of a president she said:

"I've had many excitements but this does excite me. I think it would excite anyone."

When her grandson became the presidential nominee he visited her. She posed with him for photographers, then tugged at his elbow and kissed him on the cheek.

When she watched the inauguration of President Kennedy on television she was aware that the Bible on which he took the oath of office was her own. As the inauguration progressed she said: "Isn't he wonderful... that's my boy."

Mrs. Fitzgerald had been a widow since 1950 and divided her time between Boston and Hyannis where her son Thomas has a summer cottage.

The late president paid her a surprise visit on election day, Nov. 6, 1962 when he came to Massachusetts to vote.

Three of her six children are still living. Besides Mrs. Kennedy they are John F. Fitzgerald of Milton and Thomas, with whom she made her home. Her husband was known in political circles as "Honey Fitz" a name which President Kennedy gave to the presidential yacht.

I feel I should reply in kind to the pleasant things, that have been said about my column by the other Columnists of the Gazette. I have long been an admirer of the works of Rufus Porter, whose verses spring from the heart. He was born with a talent that few possess. His wife tells that he would rather write in poetry than in prose. One story that he has written, of the Hobo's Christmas Night, I shall long remember. It is found in one of his books, of which he tells me he has only three left. He and Mrs. Porter prefer to live in Cascade, away from the maddening crowd. Although he has other work in the daytime, he does much of his writing in the evenings. I first met him, as a member of the Quill Club, which is no longer in existence. Many of the quotations from Shakespeare, that I was forced to learn in high school, have long passed from my memory, but his stories, like those of Guy Parker, do not sound as if made by machine, as so many modern lines do. He is what one would call a "Born Poet."

Many years ago a "Born Poet" lived in Colorado Springs, William Glendenning, whose poems my Father read with great delight. They were printed also in the Gazette. It seems from his writings, that Mr. Glendenning had had an unfortunate love affair. This beautiful blue-eyed girl, whom he never married, probably left him because of his fondness for the bottle. In his latter days, before he was taken to the Stratton Home, he was more drunk than sober. A very small man, it seemed queer that his little head could carry all the beautiful verses he wrote.

I never joined the Poetry Fellowship, even though Mrs. Miller urged me to at the time of the organization. I knew I could not write poetry and a few times, that I tried it, my father laughed at it and said it sounded as if it had been ground out by a crank. When Mrs. Miller asked me to write a sonnet, I did so, taking for my subject a plow that stood in the corner of father's stable. After reading it, Mrs. Miller decided that I was right when I told her I had no place in the Poetry Fellowship. Mr. Porter's work seems to have been written without effort, although poetry is hard to sell. Nevertheless, poems written as he has written his, suit me very well.

I want to thank also Charles Dudley, whom I have known for many years. In the summer of 1914, when my parents held their 50th Wedding Anniversary, Mr. Dudley came with the intent purpose of taking a picture of mother and father, but my mother would not allow any pictures to be taken of her since it seemed against her scruples to be seen in the newspaper, so Mr. Dudley contented himself that day with making a picture of the house, which even at that time was considered an oldtimer.

Another time, several years later, I have had occasion to thank Mr. Dudley for his consideration in handling a bad progressing and always conmixup I had gotten into at the courthouse. He came every afternoon to see how the trial was sulted me as to what I wanted printed.

The El Paso Pioneer Society has considered him their prize reporter, thinking that no other reporter could write with so much sympathy and tact. I remember well doing as he said, saving out food for him during the afternoon when he came to report any of our meetings. The Half Century Club, being dissatisfied with some of their restaurant food at some of their annual dinners, easily persuaded Mrs. Edna Smith, Mrs. Frances Ricken and my sister, Helen, all Daughters of the Pioneers, to put on the dinner for them. The dinners were held in the Odd Fellows Hall and proved to be very happy occasions. Miss May Howbert and I were given charge of the dining room with the table decorations, place-cards and all the fancy work we deemed necessary for the dinner. I well remember the afternoon when Mr. Dudley took photographs of each member an I was proud of the fact that he called my mother out first, although not being president of the association. Irving Howbert, president of the Half Century Club, took first place in the newspapers.

The pictures were copied, as Mr. Dudley has told you, by the Evening Telegraph, along with some of his stories. I wonder if he heard David Speilman tell of his experience at the ranch near Monument, when some Indians came to raid the home. Mr. Speilman happened to be asleep behind an open door and by lying very quietly was not discovered by the Indians. The conversation among those oldtimers consisted of pleasant recollections and the good times everybody had, when if by chance a neighbor met another neighbor on the road, there would be the called "Whoa," while a half-hour visit with each other was enjoyed. There seemed plenty of time in those days for friends to come to our house and spend a whole day while they recalled the early days.

I fancy that Mr. Dudley, Rufus Porter and I obtained much pleasure in writing those stories. Time was not so fast and people seemed happier. The dollar mark was not the prime motive of each life in those days.

Jury Acquits Youth in Traffic Death of Four

DENVER (UPI)—A superior court jury panel deliberated five hours last week before acquitting a Denver teen-ager accused of involuntary manslaughter in a traffic accident which killed four persons.

Acquitted was Robert E. Lovett, 17, a basketball player at Machebeuf High School. Judge Paul V. Hodges told the jury he was "extremely disappointed" at their verdict.

"The evidence appeared to demonstrate the defendant was driving at a high rate of speed and did violate a red signal light," the judge said. "Such driving should be classified as reckless and wanton, and was the cause of the accident and the resulting deaths."

Lovett was accused of drag racing shortly before the accident occurred last January. He denied he was racing and said he could not remember what happened just before the accident.

The youth was charged with the death of a passenger in his car. Dist. Atty. Bert M. Keating said he would consider filing charges against the youth in connection with the deaths of the three Denver University students who were riding in the other car.

Titan III Motor Meets Objectives

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A huge Titan III C rocket motor ran successfully through all but 10 seconds of a two-minute static test Friday and then the tail end blew off.

An Air Force spokesman said that, despite the unscheduled explosion, "It met all test objectives."

He did not immediately predict whether the etst would put the program back on its original schedule for flights next summer from Cape Kennedy.

Officials of the United Technology Center, which developed the motor, said "pieces of the nozzle were ejected" as the result of failure of the exit cone on the nozzle.

They said it did not look as though there was substantial damage to the test stand, other than some damage from fire. Several grass fires were started but extinguished.

Reporters who had viewed previous static tests at UTC's Coyote test center, originally reported the one-million-pound-thrust engine blew up. The test followed a May 2 explosion of a similar test motor at Edwards Air Force Base.

The solid-fuel propellant engine is designed for booster stage rockets for the Air Force Titan III C space launch vehicle.

UTC said Friday's test, the fourth of the giant engine, "produced at least 300 different types of data in such areas as thrust, temperature, vibration and thrust vector or steering control."

The test rattled windows and shook houses across Santa Clara Valley up to 10 air miles from the test site.

J. C. Penny Reports Record Six-Month Sales

Record July and six-month volume was reported by J. C. Penney Company as sales of so-called soft goods continued strong.

July volume of $147,759,791, was up 16.7 per cent over the $126,642,978 figure for the 1963 month, an increase of $21,116,813.

At the same time, sales for the first half of the 1964 fiscal year which began Feb. 1 were up 14.7 per cent over a year ago. Six-month volume this year reached $854,455,056, compared with $745,289,369 a year ago, an increase of $109,165,687.

The department store chain attributed the July increase to three factors:

—Favorable reception to the traditional July clearance event in which customer response was particularly strong for such seasonal lines as sportswear and vacation apparel.

—"Unusually strong interest" in early fall fashions, such as women's coats, suits and dresses. Continuation of the trade-up trend was especially noticeable in women's apparel.

—Sales gains in boys' and girls' wear were reported by many stores as the back-to-school buying season neared.

A total of 1,672 Penney department stores was in operation on July 31, with the month's activity including the closing of two smaller stores. There were 1,677 stores on the 1963 date.

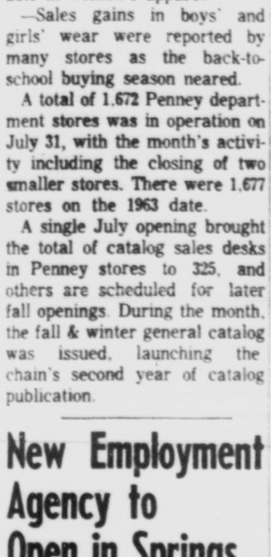

A single July opening brought the total of catalog sales desks in Penney stores to 325, and others are scheduled for later fall openings. During the month, the fall & winter general catalog was issued, launching the chain's second year of catalog publication.

New Employment Agency to Open in Springs

A new employment agency, the A and E Personnel Placement Service, will open Aug. 10 on the second floor of 101 Exchange Place.

Owner Albert L. Goebel has announced that the service will employ four qualified personnel counselors, and will specialize in personalized service to both employer and employe.

He will personally contact employers either at their business or home and invite employers as well as applicants to visit the company offices at the Exchange Street address, Goebel said.

Goebel added that every effort will be made to qualify applicants for a qualified position and attempts will be made to supply prompt, efficient service to obtain qualified personnel with in a 24-hour period for a specific position.

The company plans to use both aptitude and general tests to qualify applicants for the proper position Goebl said.

Goebel is a native of Kansas and a graduate of Kansas City Kans. Junior College. He entered the U.S. Army Air Force Corps graduating with the rank of second lieutenant.

Later he served in the Asiatic War Theater during World War II. After his retirement from the service in 1963 with the rank of lieutenant colonel he came to Colorado Springs where he was employed in the insurance business previous to the establishment of the current palcement service.

Muffler Shop Acquires New Tube Bender

Robert Seivert owner of the Midas Muffler Shop 131 S. Cascade Ave. has announced the purchase of $2300 Huth tube bender the only one of its kind in Colorado Springs.

Seivert said the new equipment will make it possible to make tail pipes on a custom basis for both the newer and older model cars for which parts are hard to get.

The portable machine, which was purchased Aug. 1, can fashion tail pipes for any car and at any angle desired, Seivert said.

Seivert is a native of Colorado Springs. He served with the National Guard during the Berlin Crisis and was later discharged in 1963.

In Colorado Springs he was an employe of the telephone company before buying th muffler shop for Wallis Woodward in 1963.

He is married and the father of one son. He lives with his wife Ann at 624 Placid Rd.

FINNISH LAKES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Finland has 60,000 lakes and an inland waterway system which employs modern steamers and hydrofoils to handle its growing tourist trade, according to reports from the American Society of Travel Agents.

Airline Will Honor American Express Cards

National Airlines will honor American Express credit cards for on-line travel, beginning Aug. 26, it was announced today by J. J. McGuinness, Western Regional Sales Manager.

The agreement is subject to approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board. It will allow more than 1,000,000 American Express credit card holders to charge travel with repayment in installments.

The air traveler will be extended "instant credit' 'for purchase of transportation through travel agents, the National ticket offices, and at more than 400 American Express offices throughout the world and at National's airport ticket counters, McGuinness said.

The card holder can pay for travel throughout the National Airlines system over a period of time not only for himself, but for anyone — relatives, friends or associates.

Card holders can select one of four plans providing for equal payments in three, six, nine or twelve monthly installments. A service charge of one per cent a month on the unpaid balance will be included in the card holder's regular monthly statement.

The traveler will also be able to charge excess baggage on his American Express card.

McGuinness pointed out that the agreement will not only be a convenience to card holders, but will also be a great boon for travel agents. They will, he noted, be able to extend instant credit to travelers without risking any financial loss.

A United States military force led by General John J. Pershing failed in its mission in 1916 to capture Pancho Villa, the Mexican bandit and revolutionist.

Borrower Is Agent Lender In Government Finance

By SAM CAMPBELL

Governments and individuals acquire buying power by the same general methods — by earning, borrowing, gift, or stealing.

Thus there is a general similarity between government finance and personal finance. A reader has asked about the differences between governmental and individual finances.

So far as the federal government is concerned, the differences relate mainly to the manner in which borrowing is done.

Individual borrowing

When an individual borrows, the lender parts with buying power on the assumption that the individual will pay the money back. Of course, a risk is involved, but the lender is able to diminish the risk by taking security and-or by taking into account the character of the borrower.

In short, the lender is not required to lend and does lend only if he deems it prudent to do so.

In the case of government borrowing, however, the situation is not clear-cut. The borrower in this instance is the government which is also the representative of the lenders (that is, the people).

You have, therefore, in this dual role a conflict of interest; namely, the borrower is actually helping himself to the buying power that belongs to the lenders individually.

In some cases of government borrowing, the lender has a choice as to whether he deems it prudent to lend. An example of this kind is when you buy a government bond.

But in other cases the government takes your buying power whether or not you choose to lend. An example of this kind of transaction is when the government obtains notes or credits from banks by trading government "securities" to the banks.

The "securities," it should be mentioned — unlike a mortgage on a house or farm, as in individual borrowing — are simply sheets of paper (bonds) that have no reference to anything of commercial value.

Since bank notes, or more precisely Federal Reserve Bank notes, are used by the population in place of money, the effect of government borrowing in this manner is simply to increase the number of dollars that are in circulation.

Like anything else, when the dollar supply increases, the buying power of each individual dollar is decreased. Then each dollar buys less. This is the process known as inflation. It takes buying power out of the worker's paycheck and out of the widow's pension.

Because the inflation process is very technical, the lenders by and large do not know what has taken place. They feel the economic pinch. Emotions run high. Strikes and demonstrations follow, and ultimately the lenders beseech help from their representative the government that took away their buying power in the first place.

In spite of the bad effects of inflation, however, not everyone who understands it deplores it. Among those who enjoy inflation are the banks that reap an interest for handling the inflationary bookwork.

You lend to an individual if, when and as you choose. But you lend to the federal government whether you like ir or not. That is the big difference between personal finance and governmental finance.

Located at the intersections of U.S. Highway 85-87, Colorado Highway 115 and U.S. Highway 24, the new U-shaped, 48-unit motel contains the latest in modern fixtures and facilities for customer comfort.

Constructed at an estimated $300,000 cost, it features 18,200 square feet of unit space, full center parking, individual air conditioning and heating controls in each unit plus dressing rooms complete with laboratory and separate from the bath.

In addition each unit is equipped with wall to wall carpets, television, direct dial telephone facilities and all types of piped music and a special vacuum cleaning system connected to a central unit. Several of the suites have inter - connecting doors.

The units are constructed of light weight block and cement plaster, balconies and railings blending as one. The roof is covered with cedar shakes and moss rock comprises the exterior walls.

Intensive landscaping composed of white gravel, large boulders, mos rock, and dwarf trees of evergreen varieties create an Oriental atmosphere. A swimming pool complete with diving board is located beneath a large sun deck enclosed for summer or winter use. Here also will be found a beauty salon and facilities for Swedish Suano baths.

A covered canopy for the convenience of guests at arrival and departure has also been provided.

Nearby the motel are restaurants and facilities for fine dining, including Mancini's Western Lounge owned by Jerry Mancini, and Garth's Drive In.

The motel is a member of the Best Western Motel Association.

Built by General Contractors George Wright and Son under the supervision of William Fairbanks, architect, the following companies contributed materials or work to the project:

William Fairbanks, architect; Abrahamson Lumber Company, lumber; Electrical Construction Company, electrical; Heating & Plumbing Engineers, Inc., air conditioning, heating, plumbing and sheetmetal work; Transit Mix Concrete, concrete; Bills Tool Rental, can and tools for danger on job, etc.; Colorado Springs Supply Company, materials; Jordan and Knight, steel and welding; Jim Arnott, masonry work; Housing Components, accessories; City Glass Company, glass; Bill Wood, roofing work and material; Region Tile Company, tile and linleum; Broderick and Gibbons, paving work; John Bowman,, painting; Advance Plastering, plastering; Hurst Insulation Company, insulating; Harrison Brown Furniture furnished the units and made the carpet installation; John G. Hendrie, 531½ S. Weber St., swimming pool.

Both Steiner and Stone said: "We are more than gratified at the fine cooperation between the different contractors and trade unions for a job well done in the shortest period of time.

Steiner and Stone, builders and principal owners of the motel, are local businessmen and developers of the Colorado Springs area.

Socony Mobil Exchanges Stock Shares

Socony Mobil Oil Company, Inc., has announced that it had exchanged 946,500 shares of its capital stock with Northern Natural Gas Company for all of the capital stock of Northern Natural Gas Producing Company.

The producing company was organized in 1952 as a wholly owned subsidiary of Northern Natural Gas. It is headquartered in Omaha, Neb., and is principally engaged in exploration for and production of natural gas in the United States and Canada.

Substantially all of NNGPC's gas production is sold to the parent company under sales contracts regulated by the Federal Power Commission. The gas reserves are predominantly in Kansas and Texas. The company has some oil and natural gas liquids reserves, predominantly in Canada.

Mobil stated that it had acquired the producing company's stock as an investment. NNGPC will continue as a separate company with the same employees.

Stock Market Fluctuates With Viet Nam Crisis

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK AP)—The stock market reacted violently last week to the Viet Nam military crisis and took its sharpest loss since the week of President Kennedy's assassination last November.

Prices were recovering as the week ended and calm was restored to Wall Street by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's statement that he saw no signs of a Communist move against the U.S. because of the American raids against North Viet Nam.

As the week began, the stock list was looked up on as being in a vulnerable technical position, analysts said, and almost any bad news would have served to set off a sharp reaction.

On Monday, steels continued their rise on industry talk of a possible price boost and the aerospace defense stocks gained as a result of the attack on the U.S. destroyer Maddox. The market as a whole, however, moved irregularly lower.

Prices worsened considerably on Tuesday as the situation in Southeast Asia grew darker. Holders of auto stocks also worried about which company would be the first "target" of the United Auto Workers in their labor negotiations. Some concern was expressed about the progress of the U.S. presidential contest. The market's loss that day was the worst since Nov. 22, 1963 when Kennedy was killed, but the decline was barely half as large as on that day.

The black headlines about Viet Nam were the backdrop on Wednesday for the worst gale of emotional selling since the tragic Nov. 22 but the recovery was swift after President Johnson made known the firm position of the United Staets.

Wall Streeters likened the situation to the Cuban missile crisis of October 1962 when a sharp market decline was followed by a great rally on news of President Kennedy's successful confrontation with the Russians. But the day's losses were not quiet made up.

On Thursday stock prices skidded again, this time because of nervousness over reported Communist and American military buildups in Southeast Asia. Traders wanted to get out from under before the weekend when worse news might be forthcoming.

This nervousness was largely out of the way by Friday when stocks rallied on the quietest trading in a year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week fell 5.0 to 314.3, the sharpest weekly decline since the week ended Nov. 23 when the average fell 9.8.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week was down 11.94 to 829.16.

200 New York Teenagers to Be Given Jobs

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City has found summer jobs on its own payroll for 200 teen-agers from its racially troubled slum neighborhoods. Eight hundred more are to get jobs next week.

The goal is to get the youths off the streets, give them job experience and fight poverty with paychecks.

Recruiting centers report that hundreds of disappointed youths have been turned away daily. The emergency program, financed by the city's Antipoverty Fund, is geared for 1,000 youths this summer.

The first 200 here placed Friday but only 26 of them went on the payroll immediately—24 as weed cutters along city streets and two, both girls, as clerks.

The 26 Negroes and Puerto Ricans got a pep talk from City Highways Commissioner John T. Carroll, who told them; "I don't want you to think weed-picking is an unnecessary or menial job."

Mayor Robert F. Wagner announced the program a week ago as part of his antipoverty program to meet the needs of Negroes and Puerto Ricans in Harlem and Brooklyn.

Both sections were torn by racial rioting and looting last month.

The youths hired by the city will get $1.50 an hour, and many said they'd spend a large part of it on clothes.

Santa Fe Makes Major Passenger Fare Reductions

Major off-season reductions in round--trip passenger fares will be made by Santa Fe Railway from Sept. 15, 1964 through April 30, 1965, according to Ernest S. Marsh, president.

Round-trip chair car fare between Amarillo and San Francisco, for instance, will be reduced to $64.60, a savings of $15.40, and first-class fare will be lowered to $82.05, a savings of $16.50. Similar savings, averaging a reduction of about 20 per cent, will be effective between most points on the railroad. Tickets sold under the plan will be good on all trains every day of the week.

The plan is similar to one introduced by the railroad between Jan. 10 and April 30 this year. "The interest shown by the public, as evidenced by many favorable comments, leads us to believe that further tests of the plan on a long range basis are warranted," Marsh said. "As the traveling public becomes more aware of the bargain these fares represent, we believe we will show an increase in such revenue during the off-season when our trains do not run to capacity."

Passenger business has been very good this summer, Marsh said, with passenger count on transcontinental trains during June and July running nearly 8 per cent ahead of last year. Advance reservations are also running ahead of last summer.

Car Driver Finds It Just Wasn't His Day

He was driving his sister's 1956 model car when the auto frame broke. He tied it together with a rope.

Then the rear end of the car shifted sideways and the driveshaft fell out of its housing, but the roped-together frame held.

A neighbor in another car, began pulling Gary's auto. Gary's right rear tire went flat. The spare was flat, too, so the trip continued. The flat tire came off the wheel.

The wheel threw sparks from the highway that set five grass fires. The Napoleon Fire Department extinguished the blazes.

Gary, who finally made it home, said "I think we'll keep the car and just stare at it — like a relic."

Bridge Builders Leaving Soon To Polish Skills

Five hundred bridge builders from the 5th Division's largest unit at Ft. Carson, the 7th Engineer Battalion, will leave next week for Wyoming to polish up bridge-building skills.

The engineers will be building a complicated bridge, a new type of bridge employing trestle. They will also work up a new technique of rafting without power boats, using current to propel the rafts.

Lt. Col. C. C. Baldwin, battalion commander, said the bridges would be built across the North Platte river near Camp Guernsey, north of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Companies B and E leave first, starting their 300-mile motor march on Monday. Company D follows on Tuesday, and Company A next Friday. The battalion will close back into Fort Carson August 20.

Col. Baldwin said the engineers would engage in roughly four activities; building light tactical rafts, heavy M4T6 rafts, combination M4T6 floating and trestle bridges and training battalion Armored Personnel Carrier drivers in the techniques of swimming their APCs across rivers.

The bridges take about one day to build and one day to disassemble. The training was emphasized during Desert Strike critques as crucial in nuclear attacks affecting existing bridges.

The engineers recently built a 110-panel bridge across the Arkansas River near Pueblo at the request of the Bureau of Reclamation. The bureau which paid for the bridge, needed it to provide access to a project under construction.

Officer Urges ADC Weapons Study Board

Maj. Eugene A. Brennen, speaking before a seminar of the 5th Annual Air Force Safety Convention, has presented an Air Defense Command proposal, which if accepted, would see the formation of an Air Force board to investigate the hazzards of Electro - magnetic weapon detonation.

Maj. Brennen made one of the two presentations contributed to the Maxwell AFB, program by the nine - man ADC contingent. Maj. K. L. Patrick, also of the office of the ADC Chief of Safety told the convention of an ADC incident involving a Sidewinder missle.

Col. Stanton T. Smith, Jr., ADC Chief of Safety, headed the ADC contingent to the convention hosted by the USAF Chief of Aerospace Safety, Brig. Gen. J. T. Robbins. Maj. Jack E. Bailey, Capt. Orland O. Oryall and Mr. Ray D. McNeilly completed the attendance list from the ADC Safety Office. With the safety-men, Maj. Nicholas Orden from ghe ADC Directorate of Operations, Robert K. Forsey and S. V. Black both of the ADC Directorate of Materiel also attended the conference.

Maj. Brennen presented the ADC view that a special board to investigate Electro-magnetic hazzards should be established for one year. During that year the proposed board would investigate the hazards of electromagnetic detonation and recommend changes to current weapons systems as well as establishing criteria for the construction of future systems.

More than 200 Air Force representatives from around the world attended the conference which started Tuesday and concluded Thursday. The conferees study safety on the ground, in the air, and in space. It is from their findings and recommendations that the Air Force Safety program receives its direction and impetus.

Local Man to Fire In NRA Competition

John L. Southcotte of 520 N. Spruce St., will compete in the 1964 NRA National Smallbore Rifle (.22 Caliber) Championship, to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, from today through Thursday.

There will be a field of 1,200 of the country's top marksman competing for the national title now held by 1st Lt. Lones W. Wiggers of Carter, Mont.

The competitors will fire a 480 round course at ranges of 100 yards, 50 yards, and 50 meters. Mrs. Lenore M. Lemanski is defending her title as the Womens Smallbore Rifle Champion. Mrs. Lemanski held the title in 1959 and 1960.

Retired Colonel Awarded Oak Leaf Cluster

The cluster was presented to Col. Davis by Maj. Gen. D. B. Johnson, deputy commanding general of ARADCOM. Colonel Davis was with the weapons and Fire Coordination Branch of ARADCOM's G-3 (plans, operations, and training) Section from May, 1960, until his retirement.

His Army career included combat duty during World War II, when he was an Artillery liaison officer to the 96th Infantry Division, participating in the Leyte and Okinawa campaigns.

Col. Davis was with U.S. forces in Korea before the war there, serving as battery commander with the 57th Field Artillery Battalion, 7th Infantry Division, from 1946 to 1947.

Among other assignments he has been assistant personnel officer at headquarters of the 2nd Infantry Division at Fort Lewis, Wash., and an instructor at the U.S. Army Artillery and Missile School, Fort Sill, Okla.

Before coming to ARADCOM headquarters he was with the Joint U.S. Military Advisory Group in Thailand.

Col. Davis is married and has two daughters. Mrs. Davis's mother, Mrs. Elsie Isaac, has been living with the family, which will now move to San Diego, Calif.

Army Explosive Expert Busy Since April

Explosive disposal experts are ready to move at any time but the commander of Ft. Carson's 94th Ordnance Detachment, 2nd Lt. Ronald Horner, has been on the road most of the time since he reported in April.

An eight-year veteran of Army Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD), the lieutenant returned from the refresher course at the U. S. Naval Propellant Plant, Indianhead, Md., in time to visit Colorado's Four Corners area.

At Cortez, Horner and Spec. 6 Charles Humerickhouse spoke to a three-state firefighters' convention on the hazards of handling explosives and munitions and explained some of the techniques used in exposive disposal.

The 94th makes regular trips to western Colorado to speak before law enforcement, school and Civil Defense groups and disposed of discarded dynamite on farms in the Delta area recently.

Horner received a direct commission as an ordnance officer in November, 1963, and came to Ft. Carson after completing the basic officers course at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

He began his Army explosive disposal career in 1956 within a year after he enlisted from Hopkinsville, Ky. Since then he has served in Japan, Korea, Ft. Bragg, N.C., and Ft. Campbell, Ky.

His eight-man detachment is on call 24 hours daily to police Carson ranges for dud explosives, check and dispose of potentially dangerous war souvenirs and explosive materials in Colorado and Wyoming.

The EOD technicians also give classes in explosive recognition and handling for law enforcement officials, firemen and other concerned groups.

They ask that any civilian requests for assistance be channeled through the nearest law enforcement agency.

CU Graduate Students Study Nile History

BOULDER — The Nile Valley supported a robust, vigorous population about 7,000 years ago, but at least some of those people had a rough time of it.

These are two of the conclusions reached by graduate students at the University of Colorado who are reassembling skeletal remains found at the site of the CU Nubian expedition near Wadi Halfa in the Sudan.

The bones were dug up during the second and final season of CU's archaeological expedition to the Sudan. The season ended in April. The expedition was attempting to salvage knowledge before the area is flooded following completion of the Aswan High Dam next summer.

The Colorado expedition was one of 23 working in the Upper Nile region, representing the largest concentrated archaeological effort in history. The work was done under the auspices of the National Science Foundation and Sudanese government.

Assembling the fossilized bones are George Armelagos of Allens Park, Mich., George Ewing of Denver and David Greene of Boulder, all CU graduate students.

The three physical anthropologists have 39 skeletons to work on; they think this may be the largest single human fossil collection in the United States. The fossils show a combination of modern and primitive traits and may, therefore, represent an important racial bridge.

Striking characteristics of the skulls are massive jaws, markedly rectangular eye sockets and sharply sloping brows. The individuals appear to have been racially between the primitive Africans and the Mediterranean peoples.

The combination of traits, plus the fact that very few predynastic remains — ones dating from before the Egyptian kingdoms—have been brought out of Egypt or the Sudan gives the collection an importance, the scientists believe, that its age alone could not give it.

It appears the skeletons are remains of people who were in cultural transition. The lack of fishing tolls, which have been found from earlier times, and the apparent presence of som domestic animals and agriculture suggests that the society was just settling down.

A male skeleton being assembled is of a man about 5 feet, 7 inches tall — a considerable stature for that time. He had suffered a broken arm and a broken leg, both of which healed badly, leaving him with reduced articulation in both limbs.

The skeleton also shows signs of arthritic deformity in most joints, including the jaw. To add to what must have been one of the more painful later lives in his community, the man had worn his teeth down to the dentine, which no doubt caused him to have a score or so of toothaches every time he took a bite of food.

Badly worn teeth are not uncommon in primitive societies where soft stones are used to grind grain; grit from the stones is in every bite of food.

The individuals being studied apparently enjoyed a varied diet; investigators found skeletal remains of birds, reptiles, turtles and large and small mammals.

The individuals were buried at campsites rather than separate ceremonial burial areas. All bodies were buried on their sides in the flexed position typical of primitive groups. This contrasted with Neolithic burials at Khartum a short distance away, where bodies were laid extended on their backs.

Armelagos will continue the painstaking task of assembly through the winter and be rejoined by Ewing and Greene next summer. They describe their ultimate aim as "being able to say as much as we possibly can about the physical characteristics of these individuals."

What they learn during the next year may possibly help tell where the remarkable 7,000-year-old Egyptians came from.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Another Malthus?

He reasoned that human beings who could not find something to eat would not be able to stay alive. This stunning revelation was followed in his mind by another frightening possibility. The human propensity to reproduce is certainly extensive; whereas the tendency of food production to increase has far less of the emotional urgency accompanying the other process. Thus, said Malthus, basing his conclusion on no known facts whatever, "Populations tend to increase geometrically whereas food production tends to increase arithmetically." And from that dictum he went on to propound his pessimistic view of life. . .perpetual starvation, requirement for centralized birth control, and so on and on.

John Wilkinson, who studied physics and philosophy of science at Pennsylvania, Chicago, Munich and Vienna, seems to be well on his way to wrest the crown of gloom from the brow of Malthus.

In a recent paper entitled: "The Quantitative Society, or What Are You to Do with Noodle?" Mr. Wilkinson takes note of a basic truth: Computers can compute mechanically, more rapidly than men can compute with paper and pencil. This stunning revelation is followed in his mind by the frightening possibilities that might ensue if conclusions computed by computers were fed into other computers capable of computing.

He sees the output of one computer becoming the input of the next computer in line, and so on down a non-protesting row of whirring monsters until, behold, at the end, man has no more reason to exist. Indeed, man has long since been forbidden to enter the sacred precincts of the robot who is now engaged independently in a plot against humanity.

Mr. Wilkinson, despite his degrees, should enter the field of drama. His stuff has plot and motion. It may not tie very closely to reality, but that is the substance of dream, diversion and delight.

Dr. Wilkinson's output would be slightly funny except for the fact that he is touching on a point in the human libido that is overly sensitized. Ever since the days of the Industrial Revolution, superstitious folks have seen in the machine an instrument of Satan. And the superstitious are still with us. Further, they still imagine all kinds of clanking monsters moving inexorably down long corridors of production, heartless, unswerving, devoted only to mechanical repetition. Many of these superstitious folk are members of unions. Indeed, the very beginning of modern unionism goes directly to people like Sam Ludd who fancied themselves appointed by the Lord to stamp out the machines so as to make the world safe for handicraft skills.

Just as no one can quarrel with Malthus' basic truth (if you don't eat, you'll die) so no one can quarrel with Wilkinson's fundamental assumption (the speed of mechanical and electronic computation). It is when these gentlemen assay the journey beyond their points of beginning that they come to grief.

Let's try to talk some sense. Man is the creator of the machine, the machine does not create man. Nor can it ever. The machine can only operate on the basis of its particular function. The computer can only operate on data supplied to it. Data emerging from one machine is no more dangerous in the machine that spews it forth than it is in the next machine into which it might be fed.

Machines do not have motivation. They may respond mechanically or electronically to stimuli, but they are not motivated to originate. Men who have never understood incentives perhaps have difficulty in understanding that incentives play a major role in stimulating all kinds of human action; also, in stimulating action by machines.

Is it possible for a giant machine to originate inquiry among computers, receive their conclusions and then act? No, it is not. Why not? Because before any question can be asked, someone or something must WANT an answer. Machines do not WANT anything. Man must always stand behind the machine, operating it and WANTING something as a result of his operation. Man is the master because he has a motivation. The machine is the tool and the servant because the machine cannot desire.

To the credit of those who heard Dr. Wilkinson present his paper, they dissented with considerable energy.

Satisfaction

Why deprive yourself of pleasure? Why not end each day with the satisfaction of knowing that you've done your job as perfectly as it can be done?

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 563: "If one is not inclined to make the effort to try to understand what is morally right and will promote goodwill and prosperity, what ought one to do to judge who is worthy of his confidence?"

Answer: In the first place one ought to try to make an effort to know the difference between right and wrong. You have to use your judgment one way or another. Life is nothing but making decisions. But if you are interested in other things and think you do not have the time, then it would seem that one of the tests, the only test we can think of, as to whether a party is worthy of your confidence is whether he has convictions as to what the universal standard of right is, and is able to answer questions from anyone without contradiction or evasion.

If a man doesn't know enough about what he is advocating or talking about to answer questions without evasion or contradiction, he certainly is not worthy of your confidence. He is not a man who is setting a good example. The man who has convictions is always glad to answer questions about them to try to throw light on and test his ideas to know whether he is right or not.

Of course, the man who has convictions doesn't want to limit those who may ask him questions because if he selects his questioners, he can always be right. It must be unlimited as to who can ask him questions.

The man who can answer questions about what is right and wrong without evasion or contradiction always wants to have his ideas tested by progression or degression. That is, he wants to enlarge them as well as decrease them in numbers. If he believes that a certain thing is right if it is done by enough people, then the way to test it is to reduce the number to two people and see whether it is right for either individual to do that act against the other man, and if it is not right for one man to do it against another man, then it is not right for 200 million to do it against 100 million.

Yes, the best guide in knowing whom to have confidence in is whether a man has convictions and is able to answer questions on them without evasion or contradiction. If he is not able to answer questions on these convictions then he is not worthy of your confidence and you should continue to look for someone who is able to do this.

If you do not want to study questions (and all political and economic questions in the final analysis are reduced to ethics and what is morally right) you had better look for the man who knows enough about the subject that he is glad to answer your questions. Look for the man who always wants his ideas tested.

Questions are limited to general human relations, questions that will improve the well being of all mankind on this earth.

A Whopping Bonus

And we simply must share it with you. The bonus wasn't in the form of money. It was in the form of intense satisfaction. It came about this way.

Back in 1957 we had occasion to discuss at length some of the ideas of freedom and economic responsibility we hold with some very outstanding people.

Among these people was a young man, recently admitted to the bar, who was thoroughly attracted to the ideas of capitalism and the free market.

We suggested to him that the real problem we face in his country is that too many people want to solve their problems via political action. They seem to detest the market. They don't want to earn money. They want to solve their problems by voting for someone or by getting themselves into government where they become a member of the tax-paid privileged class.

This young man, while he agreed with us in general, felt that we were wrong about political participation. He contended that government service was not only a fine career, but actually that within government, as a staunch conservative, he could be of real help in stemming the trend toward more and more governmental dependency.

By employing logic and reason this conclusion can be disproved. And we were able to do so. However, while admitting the superiority of the logic we employed, our young friend still persisted; logic to the contrary notwithstanding, he was going to enter politics and within the government structure he could and would render his most useful service.

When he returned to his mid-western home state, he stood for the state legislature and, in a close contest, won. He distinguished himself by being one of the most ardent conservatives in that august body. In fact, he became known as a man who voted "no" so many times that you could practically count on his negative opposition in any case.

But it happened that we had an opportunity to check on his thinking on several occasions. And gradually through the years (he was repeatedly re-elected) we saw his viewpoint shift to one of compromise, support of socialist measures on a moderate base, and so on. We even brought this to his attention on one occasion, not to reprimand him, but to reveal to him just what he was doing. He had lost sight of his principles. Although still very conservative, he was engaged in expediency.

Now we have a letter from him. And it contained the bonus we mentioned. In part his letter said this: "As the years go by, I find I am becoming less and less patient with those who are the new liberals. You will be happy to know that I am completely disillusioned with politics and have retired voluntarily from the state legislature to devote my full energy to making money (or at least trying to make money)."

But there was so much that we were able to read between the lines. This man had finally discovered that if principles of freedom hold, they hold equally on all persons. Persons in positions of power cannot help using that power. To have a free society does not require men who plan your lives for you, but rather it requires that each man plan his own affairs and refrain assiduously from planning the affairs of anyone else.

Our friend wrote from a remote summer resort up in the wilds of Wisconsin. There he had gone, soul-searching, trying to straighten out his values; trying to understand just what he was doing and where his activities in politics were taking him. The cost he paid in writing this letter was an enormous one.

We have already written congratulating our friend. We like to extend congratulations to any and every man who reaches this decision and decides, regardless of difficulties, that he will do more for society generally by staying out of politics and minding his own business.

We know that this is an unpopular view. But it is logical and true. People who rely on political solutions invariably do so because they wish to use force to compel others to their views. If they do not wish to use force, they need not call for political action.

Our friend has a lot of ability. It wouldn't surprise us to see him become a wealthy and highly respected citizen, holding down positions of trust and responsibility. But we doubt very much if he will ever again attempt to do it through government.

It took him six years and much personal anguish. But what a bonus he has sent to us!

Fourth of July Congestion

By RUFUS L. PORTER

It has been suggested by a few of my readers that I write something on the Fourth of July traffic jam that occurs at Cascade after the Pikes Peak races. Most people seem to favor another road up the Peak to facilitate the movement of the several thousand cars, the drivers of which are all anxious to "get down from there" as soon as possible.

Back in the 20's there was a man, W. D. Corley, who had the money and the inclination to build another Peak road, but he was denied the privilege. Those in authority could not see the need of two roads up the same mountain peak.

When Corley acquired the defunct Cripple Creek Short Line railroad and converted the roadbed into a scenic highway (toll road), he applied for permission to build a road from Clyde to the summit of Pikes Peak, but permission was never granted. Having climbed the Peak several times and by several routes, I believe a road from Clyde to the summit is the most feasible route for a new Peak highway. There is already a road as far as Seven Lakes on the Colorado Springs watershed. This road could be widened at not too great expense and extended upward to the summit more cheaply, I believe, than any other proposed route.

Traffic could be kept on one-way basis (downward) on the day of the race and the road wouldn't need too much widening. The same could be done on the Gold Camp Road (formerly Corley Road) from Clyde to the Springs to save the further expense of widening the entire route. As I said, I believe this would be the cheaper way out, if a new road must be built. This would bring one stream of traffic back by an entirely different route.

But, if a new summit road is built via Gillett, as some are proposing, the traffic would have to flow down Highway 67 to Divide and thence by Highway 24 to Cascade, and the bottle-neck would still exist, and in the same old spot. There is certainly enough traffic flowing down Highway 24 already on July Fourth.

Furthermore, in my opinion, a route by way of Gillett would be a very expensive thing to construct — much more so than by way of Clyde.

As for who should build a new route, why, private enterprise, of course. It is my belief that if the road had been left in the hands of the original builders, something would have been done about the traffic congestion long before now.

One thing about it, either route will furnish the drivers with new thrills in scenery. And elk and bighorn sheep are almost certain to be spied on either of them.

The builders of the Pikes Peak highway were given 25 years by the federal government in which they could own and operate it as a toll road. Their time ran out in 1941 but the government was willing to let them continue to operate in the same manner. (The road was built entirely on national forest land.) But the builders were denied the privilege of a new lease because socialist-minded people were opposed to the idea of Spec Penrose and his associates "robbing" the poor tourists. Note: The toll has doubled under socialist operation.

The Short Line railroad was also built mostly on government forest reserve land and Corley was given 15 years to operate his toll road, which was very popular and he kept the road in good condition. His time ran out in 1937 and the United States Forest Service has maintained it since that time on a "drive at your own risk" basis.

If the need for a new route up Pikes Peak becomes apparent, some group of private enterprisers will quickly apply for the privilege of building it. If they don't see a profit in such an endeavor, then the state or city government would be foolish to step in where sound business management fears to tread.

There is one solution, or at least a partial solution (which is all any of them would be) in the cards at the present time. That is the proposed four-lane highway up Ute Pass to and beyond Cascade. This will be government built, of course, but how can we escape that?

I believe that a four-lane highway from Cascade through Manitou and connecting with the east-west freeway that has been extended as far as 31st Street, would relieve the congestion as much as any other way that could be devised. After all, how much expense can we afford to go to to relieve the nervous tension of a few thousand drivers for a few hours once a year?

FEEL ANY BETTER?

From Rocky Mountain News

We are reminded by the Burbank (Calif.) Review that the chemical value of the human body, once fixed at 98 cents, now has risen to $34.54, as measured by the latest price listed for the ingredient chemicals.

Inflation as we all know, is a dangerous thing. In this instance maybe more so, because look what it can do for your ego!

It's Up to You

Berlin in Retrospect

By H. E. KERSHNER, L.H.D.

In his book, "Diplomat Among Warriors," Under Secretary Robert Murphy tells of having warned General Eisenhower against following the theory of not offending the Russians, but the general was determined to show friendship and trust to the Communists. He had little patience with Murphy's criticism of that attitude.

According to Secretary Murphy, "The Russians gave plenty of warning of the Berlin blockade running over a period of at least three months." To their everlasting shame, he points out, some American and British military officers advised withdrawing from Berlin while it still could be done without too much loss of prestige. Like the patriot that he is, Murphy joined with others in opposing this policy of surrender. He called it "politically disastrous."

Seeing that no resistance was encountered from the West, the Russian Communists imposed more and more vexing restrictions on traffic to and from Berlin. Feeling that they had tested the will of the West and found it wanting, they stopped all traffic on the autobahn and the canal. This made the blockade complete.

At this point, Secretary Murphy cabled the State Department, "proposing that we use a small combat force to call the Russians' bluff at Helmstedt, where a wooden pole across the road, guarded by two Mongolian soldier, represented at that time the Berlin blockade." Had this advice been followed, the blockade would have ended before it started. The loss of prestige and the enormously expensive airlift would have been avoided.

Mr. Murphy believed that we were bluffed out of a well-earned victory in Korea. He would have backed MacArthur's request for permission to bomb the Yalu bridges and prevent the Chinese from sending re-inforcements into North Korea.

Secretary Murphy expresses his opinion of U.N. in the following words, "Personally, I never regarded the U.N. as a divine machine from which happy solutions to our problems would miraculously flow. Nor have I feared the consequences even if the U.N. should collapse utterly."

Secretary Murphy also protests against the weak policy of our State Department in not carrying out reprsials to Russian aggression. When our planes were shot down and our men murdered, he would have demanded apology and satisfaction from the Soviet Government. But, as he says, "Nevertheless, the administration decided not to retaliate. We, in the State Department, could only speculate what effects this incident might have on the Russian mind — this knowledge that a brutal attack against unarmed Americans could be committed with impunity."

A radio operator in a nearby country made one tape recording of the shooting down of an American plane. The recording revealed that the event was not accidental but purposeful. Mr. Murphy called Soviet Ambassador Menshikov and his air attache to his office in the State Department and started to play the tape recording of the shooting down of the plane. "Menshikov jumped to his feet protesting that he would not listen. He became vehement, almost incoherent."

I believe most of my fellow citizens join with me in longing for the time when our foreign policy will again be conducted by strong, patriotic Americans. Most of us want to see the sickly American eagle soar once more.

The Old Mountaineer

Thoughts by The Wayside

By FRANK McDONOUGH

As of the day this is written our Navy off Viet Nam has been ordered by the President to shoot, to destroy if attacked by Communist patrol boats. Additional navy vessels are sent and a fleet goes forth from Hong Kong. The word goes forth that additional American troops will be sent to the area. Our daily losses in men increase.

All of this is happening more than ten thousand miles from our home base. The announcement is made from Washington that the purpose is to prevent the spread of communism and its aggression in Southeast Asia.

In the meantime and for some two years past, the stepping-stone of Cuba lies ninety miles off our shores. Daily patrol boats by the dozen come and go with Russian supplies and Russian manpower. A submarine base has been built and is a refuge for Communist submarines; missiles and missile bases are built in strategic positions where they are a constant threat to our entire tier of states in our southland. This is all Russian aggregation which we allow to open the door for the spread of communism throughout the American continents, yet we do not take measures to stop the aggression at our door although we are very positive that we shall not permit the spread of communism ten thousand miles away.

It is all very mysterious and hardly understandable that we go to war in distant places and take a soft attitude where there is greater danger. It would seem that our war in far off places is merely a diverting action to take our minds off greater aggression practically at home. What is the purpose of fighting our enemy in far off places and permitting their building of power at our door?

When the new candidate for our head of state calls attention to this anomaly, the screams go up in unison from Moscow and the entire communistic and socialist world. While pointing out our real danger he is called a war-monger by his political opponents. Our regime carries on actual war but denies to us self-protection where it is needed most. If the people of the United States have become so dull in their minds or so infiltrated with propaganda, then they deserve to be buried by our enemies.

To The Point

Was Jesus Better Than Nero?

By RUSSELL KIRK

Education is meant, primarily, to teach the rising generation what it is to be a man. When education, at any level, fails to impart distinctions between virtue and vice, truth and falsehood, beauty and hideousness — why, then that educational system is decadent.

In Oregon, recently, a grand jury found that more than thirty college students had debauched a thirteen-year-old girl. Some students, not directly involved, declared that "such activity is just part of living, and the only concern is the consequence of getting caught."

What sort of instruction, in home, church, and school, had those student relativists received? The answer to this inquiry is suggested by an exchange in a public debate between a sociologist and this columnist, before a meeting of the Ethical Culture Society of New York, last year.

I had argued that there are enduring norms for mankind, to which any decent and reasonable human being ought to assent. Anyone can discern the difference, for instance, between Jesus of Nazareth and the Emperor Nero.

But my sociological opponent would not concede this point. There's a great deal we don't know about Nero's childhood, he said; and these two people lived in different milieu; and they had different social functions. Who can say that one was better than the other? They just had different value-preferences, that's all. So spake the relativist.

Yes, I replied, these two certainly had different value-preferences. The value-preference — if you want to call it that— of the Christ was to die in agony for the salvation of mankind. The value - preference of Nero, on the other hand, was to commit degrading and brutal acts, including incest with his mother, whom later he murdered. Who can possibly say which of these two was the better? Why, any man in his right senses. Certain professorial relativists, intoxicated with their cleverness, seem to have become mad as hatters.

If there exist no norms for man, no standards of human dignity, then indeed one scarcely can object to the mass debauching of a child by a crowd of young brutes. Under the moral anarchy, one sensation is as good as the next. But before long, young people reared in this anti-faith are nasty caricatures of humanity; and society dissolves because the bonds of honor and charity are broken.

In the magazine-racks of the dormitories at some big state universities, I have noticed chiefly quasi-pornographic publications on sale. The "girlie" photos in these publications are sufficiently indecent, but the articles and stories are a good deal worse: the product of sick minds, avid for forbidden sensation, and ready to debauch intellectually and in taste a generation of moral ignoramuses. Alleged "sexologists" with dubious doctoral degrees, asserting their authority with a bald nastiness in these publications, roundly recommend sexual perversions as "gratifying."

If, in any educational system, the imitation of Christ and the other great masters of the transcendent is ignored or denied, you do not end with simply a crowd of silly boys. You end, before long, with a generation of Neros. Nature, abhorring a vacuum, will not permit us to be morally neutral.

Education vs. Schooling

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

For the past several months, I have noticed a steady increase in the number of letters received from parents who quite positively oppose the government - owned and controlled system of compulsory schooling. The most frequently asked question is, "Is there any place in this country where I will not be prohibited from teaching my own children? We can't afford to send them to a private school and I believe that any reasonably intelligent parent should be able to do a better job of teaching than is done in the socialist school system."

Some months ago I mentioned that the Commonwealth of Virginia does not have a statewide compulsory school attendance law. A few readers, including Virginians, questioned the accuracy of my statement but I can assure you it is correct. Additionally, I have this information from the Chamber of Commerce in Danville, Virginia, forwarded by a good friend who lives in Tennessee, at present. "The compulsory school law is optional in the State of Virginia and at the present time Danville is not under the compulsory attendance law."

I don't know much about Danville except that the Dan River Mills Company is located in that area and that the Chamber of Commerce is located in the Commerce Building at 644 Main Street. The executive vice president, Mr. Howard Hylton, signed the informative letter. I do not mean to imply that Danville is the only area in Virginia which is not plagued by a compulsory school attendance law and I hope to have more information on this subject before long.

I am in complete agreement with the lady who insists that any reasonably intelligent parent should be able to do a better job of teaching than teachers in the socialist school system, and parents who are so concerned they will assume responsibility for the education of their own children will certainly be intelligent. As a matter of fact, any person who has been able to avoid being a victim of progressive education in the socialist school system or otherwise, should be able to provide children with a good grade-school education, at the very least. From that point on, it might seem wise to add educational material available from the various home-study high school courses.

A stray throught just now slaped me on the back of the head. What a wonderful sense of accomplishment parents would feel knowing they educated their own children.

I suspect there are many excellent private schools in and around Danville, Virginia, and that illiteracy is NOT prevalent. I'm quite sure the good people in this area of Virginia are entirely responsible in the matter of providing their children with an education rather than being content with the schooling available under the socialist school system. They should certainly be proud of the fact that a compulsory school attendance law does not exist in their area. Politicians are not logically able to refer to the state's children in this situation.

During the last two years, my mail has included a high percentage of letters from parents who have stated, in effect, they would move to any area they could find where compulsory school attendance laws did not exist and I hope this information will provide them with some encouragement. It might be a good idea to let the Danville Chamber of Commerce know you approve of the situation, to encourage a continuation of the condition as it now exists.

I hope this information also improves your dispositions as it has mine. I find myself quite relieved to know that if things get too rough in Mohave County, Arizona, my family might find the idea of moving to Virginia compatible. I could then offer to help with the education of our grandchildren knowing that I would not have to buck the socialist conglomerate in its strongest position. I suppose I am pleased to know about an available alternative whether we take advantage of it or not.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

To the Editor:

The "Double Trouble Club" of Denver is most anxious to contact the mothers of multiple birth in your city. We want to organize a similar club in your area. We would appreciate a small article or editorial in your paper, publicizing our intentions and the merits of our organization.

Following is a summary of what we would like you to cover:

1. Purpose: To exchange ideas, promote and gain further knowledge among mothers of multiple birth or guardians of same.

2. Aims: To aid in medical research wherever possible and to promote interest in starting new clubs throughout the state in order to form a state organization.

3. Affiliation: To become affiliated with the National Order of Mothers of Twins Club (N.O.M.O.T.C.) which represents over 4,000 mothers of multiple births throughout the United States. The N.O.M.O.T.C. slogan is "Where God Chooses the Members."

There is more information concerning the details of the purposes and aims of our club, but for the sake of brevity, only those mentioned above should be necessary.

3RD DISTRICT RACE

To the Editor:

The very-left wingers are now campaigning in full swing attempting to use every kind of invective to discredit anyone standing in their way. . . this includes members of their own party.

I make reference to the 3rd District Democratic spoils-gang, some of whom are college professors. William Hochman, who in recent times has become "ambitious" on behalf of himself and several other college boys who are apparently opportunist enough to have control of the Democratic Party, has proved to be lacking a "degree" in language. His blistering attack on Thursday last before members assembled at Carpenters Hall carried with it the hate-mongering type of statements unbecoming to the Democratic Party.

Mr. Hochman, Mr. Bechtol (another professor with left-wing ambition), and Mr. Maytag — all three — demonstrated a peculiar zeal to insure for the 3rd District a sure defeat in the race of Congress this fall. How does this add up? In part it is blueprinted thus:

When Mr. Ross announced his candidacy and shortly after which Mr. Olshaw decided to enter, the left-wing wheels quickly went to work, and even before these two announcements, knowing that there was a strong possibility Mr. Ross could carry the El Paso County vote — vital in the defeat of Mr. Chenoweth (Ross is not a machine-man), and realizing also that Mr. Olshaw would campaign tirelessly to affect some sort of "melding" of Independents-Demos and Conservatives (Olshaw also will not be bought) in the El Paso area, the Betz-Maytag - Bechtol-Hochman school (including the active support of the college Young Democrats) picked the most likely candidate to LOSE the 3rd District.

Any of the mentioned above will, two years hence, get a real crack at the District of Columbia — there are others, also. The left-wing local long - range plans are aiming at a completely different date in which to take over the Capitol. It will not be their desire to see at this time (or ever, for that matter) a moderate or Conservative Democrat in Washington from the 3rd District. This is the very heart and soul of why the Betz-Maytag college boy gang has never won — from Adams to Stewart — the grooming of left-wingers in our district has been biding its time.

Now, I am of the opinion that unless Mr. Maytag and Mr. William Hochman are asked to politely resign their State-Central Committee positions, I shall be forced to uncover the minutest of detail which prefaced the rigging of the Democratic Assemblies and also the conventions here at Pueblo.

It is time we remove the elements so detrimental and damaging to our two-party system whose party titles are far removed from a common American standard.

By the way, college boys are not all bad actors — only the susceptible ones who are ripe and ready for socialism.

IS IT AWARENESS?

To the Editor:

There seems to be a new something in the air; a look in people's eye, a questioning tone to their conversation, an ear-to-the-ground, waiting expectancy.

Let us hope that this "something," this subtle yet real portent of coming change, stems from a dawning awareness of moral principles and vanishing freedom rather than from the sensing of a political upset and a desire to catch the caboose of the latest political express.

LITTER

To the Editor:

An estimate by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, to the effect that up to 20 million cubic yards of litter will be dumped this year on the nation's streets and highways, has been translated into meaningful terms by anti-litter-minded Keep America Beautiful, Inc. It says that this amount of rubbish, if concentrated, would bury the preferred 3,000-mile New York to San Francisco auto route (Route 66) a foot deep in paper, metal, and plastic wastes. KAB puts the annual cleanup bill to American taxpayers at more than $100 million dollars.

By our simple arithmetic that works out to about 69 cents per bushel or about the same as the price of oats.

WHAT ABOUT CUBA?

To the Editor:

The terrible condition of the Cubans who have not been able to escape has been told by those who have reached the U.S.A. and we are assured that no improvement has been made to date. Castro's sister told of the thousands of half - starved prisoners crowding their prisons without trial or hope of release, while their families are at the mercy of the communist soldiers, which from all records is a worse fate than imprisonment.

We spend millions in Viet Nam, and let our nearest neighbor suffer the pains of death and worse without lending any helping hand. It seems so silly because we are endangered all the time that we allow that Castro outfit to train guerilla soldiers for war on the South American countries and we know they will train for service against us, too. The Communist objective is to conquer the world, and no country that they have conquered has ever thrown off the slavery of communism. The reason is that they murder all the men that oppose them, and give the women and children to the soldiers. That explains why the conquered nations never recover their freedom. Their leaders are tortured to death, and every resistance meets with tortures that no human can stand and live. They believe there is no God, that men have no souls, and that if they resist communism they deserve to die; if they live, it is a condition of slavery too brutal to endure.

I ask you, will we have to wait until the War against Poverty is won, before we help our nearest neighbor to escape from Devil Castro? Poverty war has been going on for centuries, and if we wait for that to end first, Castro may get strong enough to invade us, and with his gentle comrades to help him, we may be looking for someone to help us. We better fight while there is a chance to win. The Bay of Pigs was the crucial failure, it could have been won with our help. And since then we have defeated all attempts of Cubans to survive.

VOTING RECORD

To the Editor:

Complaints are heard even from among conservatives about things which Barry is reported to have said. His Senate votes are a matter of record and critics among conservatives may feel better to learn that Barry's ACA voting record is 100 and his ADA voting record is 0. Barry's votes portray his considered judgment. Those who deplore the build-up of violence, which started at Oxford, Miss., and blossomed into the Harlem, Brooklyn and Rochester, N.Y. riots and nationwide loss of personal safety, evidence the foresight and conscience of Barry. His vote against cloture and against the federal civil rights bill, which he considered unconstitutional, were his convictions from which he refused to deviate. He has voted to halt the growth of powerful centralized government and these are two of the great votes he has cast in the Senate by which he may be judged. They required his usual fine judgment and high courage.

PROTECT PROPERTY

To the Editor:

The other day, when reading about the riots in New York, I indulged in a bit of searching thought, which led to the conclusion that if the property owners had been allowed to protect their own property, it is very doubtful that a second attack on private property would have occurred. Imagine having to stand by helplessly while your property is being destroyed. Pretty sickening thought, isn't it? But what a different picture if the property owners could protect their own.

It is only logical to assume that individuals, ingenious enough to have made the advantages this country enjoys could devise an effective protection for the homeowner other than a gun.

Can you think of a more formidable force than that of someone determined to protect what he has worked long and hard to acquire? Remember how fiercely our pioneers fought the Indians and the British to save what they knew to be rightfully theirs? What a fur piece we have come from the days when a man could loudly proclaim that his home was his castle and no one had better dare trespass it. By the same token, however, he didn't dare trespass anyone else's "castle" for then he would put his own in jeopardy.

We seem to have forgotten the Golden Rule. "Don't do to others what we would not have done to us."

FACT vs. FANCY

To the Editor:

Thirty-four years ago we were subjected to a barrage of calculated lies by a smooth-tongued politician from New York who sought the presidency on a conservative plaftform. At that time most of us knew nothing about the secret bosses who prescribed a good American platform as bait for votes only. All major promises were repudiated by the winners for the next twenty years.

Then came the press laudations for the "war hero" who was placed in command of World War Two armies in Europe by the same bosses who elected our President in 1932 by fooling the voters. This general paid much lip-service to private-enterprise and the American way of life before he was elected President — then followed the same tactics of repudiating campaign pledges. This reversal of promise was copied by too many members of our Congress from 1954 to date. One of the chief about-facers was to be given the honor of nominating Goldwater in 1964.

By 1960, the secret control of both parties was an accomplished fact. The almost equal vote for both stooges for one-world government attests to the absence of choice. The ultimate winner had his representative in Moscow discussing disarmament of this nation before he took office. Later that disarmament plan was passed by a compliant Congress.

The hidden powers realized that voters were wising up —not by way of their controlled communications media — but through the meetings and pamphlets of conservatives. So, it became necessary to invade the ranks of conservative organizations with the plausible cliche that restoration of constitutional government could only be accomplished within the existing structure of one of the two parties those one-worlders controlled, just as they control our Congress.

One might reason that such a takeover of the loyal opposition could not be accomplished in view of the previous three decades of political perfidy — but the fantastic delight of most of the leaders of conservative groups over the outcome of last months' G.O.P. convention indicates that they have swallowed some golden bait based on a platform that was left-wing compared to the one that put F.D.R. in office.

There will be no more choice for voters in 1964 than there was in 1952. The propaganda hysteria will reach its peak in November — then next year we'll continue to follow the directions of our "hidden masters" — regardless of the candidate elected to the once high office of President. They will, through their stooges in our government, continue to tear down our Republic until we are annihilated by their world revolution — unless conservative leaders and followers start acting on fact instead of fancy.

A PLAGUE

To the Editor:

With each passing year more and more Americans are being "paid" from the federal treasury for not working. It has been proposed every person be "paid" a "living wage" from the treasury, whether they work or not. While this plan is not acceptable today, we are certainly heading in that direction.

The only reason most people work is to earn a living. Give them a living without having to work, and what incentive must we then use to get people to work? Ration cards? Living quarters permits? Police state, slave labor methods?

Repeal the Divine injunction, he who shall not labor neither shall he eat, replace it with a "living wage" for all who aren't working, and we either have starvation and poverty or cruel taxmasters making us work.

Brotherly charity is self-controlling and self-correcting. Welfarism is like a contagious plague, weakening and killing, no respector of person nor place in society.

Kidnaping Charges Delayed in Denver

DENVER (AP)—The hearing of Orland Lee Cline on kidnaping charges was delayed Friday for three weeks so a defense attorney can be found.

U.S. Dist. Judge Alfred A. Arraj said he would appoint the lawyer for Cline, an ex-convict charged with kidnaping two Indiana boys July 30 and releasing them at Deckers, Colo., last Sunday.

Property Right Is Moral Right

By WILLIAM D. GRAFF
Publisher,
The American Standard

The well-intentioned moralists have drawn a dividing line between "property rights" and "moral rights" where no division, in fact, exists. The alternative to property ownership by the citizen is ownership and control by the government — a condition which is condoned and desired by an exceedingly small percentage of the people.

The inherent morality of property ownership, per se, has seldom been seriously questioned except by the socialists, who would reduce anyone to the lowest common denominator.

Realizing the futility of ever persuading the American citizenry that government should own all property, a new dodge is now being adopted — that of sanctioning property ownership but taking away the owner's control of his property. In effect, this renders ownership meaningless; for without sovereign control of what is owned, one may as well be renting or leasing. It matters not whether the property owner is Caucasian, Negro, or Oriental; or whether the property is a suit of clothing, an automobile, a home in a middle-class neighborhood or a swank apartment building. It is a strange bit of Pseudo-logic to hint that morality decreases as holdings increase; or that ownership is amoral if it is more prevalent among the members of one particular race.

The individual is a sovereign human being in the eyes of the Creator; and that which he holds title to under his state's title laws is his to do with according to his own best judgment.

The sophistry that the control of one's own property is somehow amoral and must be dealt with by government is one of the commonest forms of reaction. Its proponents, while perhaps not harking back to the Neanderthal era, would have stopped the world and gotten off, possibly, at the time of the Caesars. Or they might have stayed on through the Jacobin era in France when property ownership was rewarded with a visit by the portable guillotine.

There should be no quarrel with the motives of the moralists. The integrity of their position should be respected. Yet one must regret the deficiency in their knowledge of the true American Revolution which produced, as one of its blessings, the right of the individual to own and control his own property.

If these moralists are truly seeking "progress and rights" for everyone, such can never be gained by surrendering the most fundamental right of all to the dictates of "society," as represented by those who are elected to govern. For as soon as the individual's economic self-determination is removed by law, he no longer has a foundation for any other rights, and the "state" reigns supreme. When the transformation is complete, those who imagined they were being "helped," find themselves to be cruelly deceived victims — along with everyone else.

This trumped up difference between morality and property rights, then, is the false premise which formed the crux of the controversy over "civil rights." I may have failed to look in the right places, but I have yet to see anyone penetrate to this heart of the matter. There still seems to be the fatal tendency on the part of emerging conservative intellectuals to be trapped in the quicksand of "liberal" semantics and false premises. The individualists are becoming far more articulate, but the necessity for probing for the Achilles' heel of opposition arguments — and then exploiting it to the best advantage — is still a little used art.

A reform wing in the Republican party endorsing President Rutherford B. Hayes was called Half Breeds by their conservative counterparts between 1876-1880.

Central City Too Noisy, Council Says

CENTRAL CITY, Colo. (AP) —Central City may be an old mining town, but the Town Council says it's too noisy.

City Marshal J. A. McBride and his officers have been ordered to make the streets a little quieter. McBride asked that merchants with outside loudspeakers take them down.

Looking at Hollywood

JANET MARGOLIN TO STAR WITH BRANDO & BRYNNER

HOLLYWOOD — Janet Margolin, the beauty who became internationally known for her first picture, "David and Lisa," then played Mary in "Greatest Story," steps in at 20th Century-Fox to co-star with Marlon Brando and Yul Brynner in "Morituri." Producer Aaron Rosenberg starts the picture for Dick Zanuck the middle of this month off the southern California coast. The cast and crew will live on Catalina Island for two months and put out to sea daily to film this thrilling spy story of a camouflaged German blockade runner during World War II.

Since I wrote that Lucille Ball was trying to get Jean Arthur for a show, Jean has been besieged with offers from all over the country. Lucy, Gary Morton, and two of their friends dined with Jean at her home in Carmel. She cooked the dinner and served it. Lucy says: "She is absolutely enchanting. Her aim is to bring more happiness to people." As soon as Lucy comes up with an idea, Jean has promised to discuss it further. Meanwhile, she's on a two-weeks fishing trip up the coast with some friends from Berkeley. The two girls flipped for each other. What a combination for TV or a film!

Sammy Davis and May Britt didn't like being apart, so she won't wait for the Broadway opening of "Golden Boy" before moving east. She takes off in ten days; will travel with Sammy to Boston and Detroit. The luckiest guy in town is Sammy's press agent, who inherits his house for a year. Believe me, it has all the comforts of home, including a motion picture screen. The play has a $1,200,000 advance, which means it will be on Broadway at least seven months, and Davis hopes to sandwich in "The Sandpiper" with Liz Taylor and Richard Burton before he opens in New York.

When you see Arthur O'Connell pulling flowers out of his ears and rabbits out of a hat in "Wagon Train," it won't be trick photography. He took a crash course in magic. He says his greatest thrill was making a bottle of whisky disappear without touching a drop.

Merle Oberon waited for Bruno Pagliai at the Doug Fairbanks' home in London for three weeks. He couldn't get away, so she's returning to their home in Mexico City and may stop here a few days en route.

Ray Stark is planning to stage Cy Howard's "Wind It Up and It Breaks" at La Jolla, then take it to Broadway. After that a movie. He has Mike Connors lined up to play the lead on stage and screen.

Mary Leatherbee, Josh Logan's sister who did that beautiful salute to Hollywood for a national magazine, returned from a three months trip around the world with a top photographer and is loaded with stories and pictures for the periodical. He says the trip was much more difficult than persuading Cary Grant to give an imitation of Charlie Chaplin.

Hope Holliday goes east to try and nail down the femme lead in "It's a Ball," with Buddy Hackett, for Broadway.

Souvenir Takers Stripping JFK Tree

OTTAWA (AP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Government House have been asked to keep close watch over a red oak tree planted by the late President John F. Kennedy at the cost of a back injury on a visit here in May 1961. Although not advertised in tourist promotion, the tree has been losing leaves and strips of bark to souvenir-takers.

JFK Library to Feature Portrait by Ent Artist

When the doors of the Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard University open to the public, visitors will view a portrait of the late President which was accomplished by an Ent Air Force Base artist.

T. Sgt. Manuel J. Rodriguez, of the 4608th Support Squadron, assigned to NORAD Audio-Visual, recently received a letter from Attorney General Robert Kennedy and the late President's wife expressing delight in accepting the portrait for hanging "in a fitting place" in the museum.

The exact date of acceptance of the portrait has not been established, but Sgt. Rodriguez says he will go either to Boston or Washington for the ceremonies. Because Mrs. Kennedy is observing a year of mourning, the Attorney General indicated that a member of the family or close associate would accept the portrait.

Local citizens saw Sgt. Rodriguez' portraits on display, and a demonstration of his portrait techniques at the Colorado Springs Annual Art Show, at the Colorado College Ice Rink.

In addition to his now-famous Kennedy portrait, Sergeant Rodriguez displayed eight other portraits and items, including a landscape, an abstract, record covers, and magazine illustrations. He was one of 60 exhibitors at the show.

Samples of the artist's work are also displayed in several buildings at Ent. Portraits of Gen. Ent and Gen. Chidlaw are now hanging in the respective Headquarters buildings. Two of his murals are on display in Gen. Gerhart's office, Building P-5 and in the ADC Museum, Chidlaw Building.

Sgt. Rodriguez, his wife Marcella, and their 10-year-old daughter Rachel live at 101 Sherri Drive, Security. Rachel has already begun to follow in her father's footsteps. "She has wonderful creative abilities for a child of her age," he admits.

Sgt. Rodriguez, who was born in San Antonio, Tex., but claims Chicago as his home, says he got an early start in art — during grammar school. He and his brother were always in charge of the art work for the school's plays.

"I learned at an early age what I wanted to do when I grew up and worked constantly toward that goal," he said.

Parents Should Set Example, Carrell Says

Show respect for traffic laws and highway safety regulations today, and your observing youngster will most likely grow up to be a good driver tomorrow.

This is the opinion of the Colorado State Patrol which operates on the firm belief that many a tragedy could have been averted if the young driver had been brought up with proper respect for the rules which govern our behavior on the road.

"There is no better lesson to teach your child than strict obedience of the law, traffic or otherwise," says State Patrol Chief Gilbert Carrel. "But in order to do this, your attitudes and reactions must reflect respect of the law."

Patrol records constantly show that tragedy often comes from what seems to be a minor violation such as running a stop sign, or racing past a traffic signal with the caution light glowing.

Children are a lot more observant than the average parent might suspect and any violation, no matter how minor it may seem, plants a seed of desire to do it 'dad's way' in a developing mind," Carrel said.

Many tragedies might have been prevented if parents had "sold acceptance of good safety practices" to observing children when they were in the formative stages looking on as young passengers learning right from wrong from their mothers and dads.

Italian Communists Call Off Strike Plan

ROME (AP) — The threat of a three-day railroad strike has ended in an apparent victory for the new government of premier Aldo Moro.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Italian Labor Friday night called off its scheduled strike set for Aug. 8-10. It said an agreement, also supported by non - Communist unions, had been reached on workers' demands for higher fringe benefits.

Fort Welcomes Fifth Army's Chief of Staff

Ft. Carson Thursday welcomed Fifth Army's new chief of staff, Brig. Gen. George M. Jones, and introduced him to the post, its facilities and its leaders.

Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, Commanding General, greeted Gen. Jones on his arrival at Butts Airfield and accompanied the former 3rd Infantry Division assistant commander to Post Headquarters. There an honor guard ceremony extended a formal welcome to Gen. Jones.

Briefings by the general staff, plus time to meet senior unit commanders, were arranged for the new chief. He toured post facilities and training, especially in the 3rd Brigade. He also saw the post and its setting in the Pikes Peak Region for the air during a helicopter tour.

In the afternoon, Gen. Jones visited ARADCOM headquarters in Colorado Springs.

Gen. Jones left Colorado early Friday morning.

A 1935 West Point graduate, Gen. Jones holds the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star, the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Bronze Star Medal with Cluster and the Air Medal.

He was an original member of the three-man Advanced Study Group established by General Eisenhower in 1947.

New Hope, Inc. Of Canon City Opens Today

New Hope Inc. will hold an open house today at the Brookside school near Canon City from 2 to 8 p.m., it has been announced.

The school will house New Hope's first classes in training and educating mentally and physically handicapped persons in the Fremont county area.

Mrs. Dessamary Black, a member of the board of directors of the community project said all persons are invited to see the facilities of the training center, adding that musical entertainment, and refreshments will be provided. Mrs. Black will be one of the instructors at the center.

The project, Mrs. Black said, has been set up to serve the needs of persons in this area whose needs are not being met by existing local agencies. The center came into being after the last Colorado legislature provided funds for communities to set up education facilities for the mentally and physically handicapped to hold down the load and expense of state institutions.

The local group has a state grant of $9,500, and must raise a mathing sum to operate the center. Mrs. Black said voluntary contributions have been received in the form of money and service.

The center will have a capacity of 48 pupils, Mrs. Black said, although it is planned to start a smaller group this fall for the first year of operation.

The center is one of 14 throughout the state. Several board directors will be on hand during the open house to explain the purpose and aims of the training facility.

Elephant Guns Featured at Manitou Show

Guns at the Manitou Gun and Coin Show include models to stop a charging elephant and drop a fleeing dove.

The show in Memorial Hall, 606 Manitou Blvd., was well-attended Saturday, despite a brief afternoon shower.

Thirty-seven states are represenetd in the three-day show which closes today, said Earle Field, coordinator.

Guns displayed included dueling pistols, Lugers, rare shotguns, flintlock and percussion rifles and the latest models of the guns which tamed the West.

One of the finest examples of English gunsmithing was a 1933 Daly Regent Diamond quality 10-gauge model with a single triger and double barrel. Workmanship was so perfect that a magnifying glass was necessary to see where metal plates were joined. Its owner, Clyde Fults of Englewood, valued it at between $1,250 and $1,500.

"Cartridges for collectors. Not recommended for shooting. Shoot at your own risk," was the sign on the table of rare and odd size cartridges collected by A. C. Anderson of Aurora.

Included was a 505 Magnum Gills shell for dispatching elephants, the largest magazine cartridge made. Still larger was a 600-caliber shell for a 900-grain bullet. In comparison, a 32-caliber automatic cartridge is usually 71 grains.

"Yellow dogs" were sold for 10 cents at several tables. The small finned personnel bombs, weighing but a few ounces, were dropped by U.S. planes on land convoys in Korea. Though they carried no explosive, the bombs reached sufficient velocity to go through engine blocks.

Ward R. Betz, of Ogden, Utah had a much-admired collection of German Lugers, including models made for Portugal and Brazil.

Al Powell of Trinidad, who was blind, picked out a 94 Winchester from his dispaly by its feel. His sensitive hands can determine when blueing is rubbed off a barrel.

A sign on a rusted S & W 38-caliber revolver said it was a "good visual aid for lectures on government spending." This batch of guns was purchased by the government, then scrapped. The sign said that some parts were still usable.

L. T. Manuel of Colorado Springs had a 1864 J. Wurfflein percussion rifle in his collection of rare models of this type. The 40-caliber rifle was not manufactured for the war effort, but for the Chicago Rifle Club.

A "John Brown model" carbine was exhibited by Harry A. Wolf of Denver. The 1858 weapon had a ring for hanging on a saddle and could be easily aimed and discharged with one hand.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Joe Abey has roamed the world as former president of Rotary, International. And he has the shrewd psychological judgment of a lifelong newspaperman. So listen to his indictment of our foreign aid program. Maybe Uncle Sam should stop trying to compete with the churches!

By - GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-442: Joseph Abey is Circulation Director of the newspapers at Reading, Penn.

But he is the talented ex-president of Rotary International.

In that capacity, he roved the world, addressing Rotary Clubs on the various continents.

In a recent speech he mentioned that our foreign aid has been largely ineffective in winning the common people to our side.

Joe says this is due in large part to the fact the recipients of our world Santa Clausing are not told that Uncle Sam is the donor!

Russian and other national leaders thus hide from their citizens the fact that it is our American wheat and tax dollars that undergird their dinner tables and even their economy.

"In areas like Hong Kong," Joe explains, "the churches have done a splendid job of distributing food and clothing.

"So the people are very grateful to America, for they know the real source of this vital aid.

"Elsewhere, and India is a good example, the government doesn't let them know the aid is from Americans."

To judge from Joe's shrewd observations, maybe it would be smarter to let the churches again handle such "foreign missionary" aid exclusively, as they did so well prior to the advent of world boondoggling at the American taxpayer's expense.

A recent public opinion survey in India, for example, showed that America was the most disliked of these four foreign nations — Russia, England, Germany, U.S.A.

Yet we had meanwhile been the chief financial support of India via our foreign aid with coerced American taxes!

Since we have failed so miserably despite the many billions poured into foreign nations, then why not let the churches have full sway via their voluntary aid, instead of coerced taxpayers' philanthropy?

"If at first you don't succeed," says Sir William Lever, "then try another method."

For 30 years bureaucrats have attempted to buy friendship abroad with taxes extorted from American workers.

Yet we are less liked today throughout the world than before we ever squandered a single billion on foreign aid!

The churches, however, had created a high regard for America prior to World War II. But ever since Uncle Sam raided the functions of the churches, we have created ill will abroad!

Astute Sam Pettengill, famous statesman and former Congressman, thus says more people are hungry around the world and America is more disliked today, despite billions sent abroad in foreign aid, than ever in our history.

The churches can also furnish missionaries abroad at about 30 per cent what it costs us taxpayers to send out young folks via the Peace Corps.

So it isn't always a case of "good" vs. "bad" regarding governmental projects but of "good" vs. "better" methods.

Manitou Kiwanis Club Pancake Day Thursday

"All You Can Eat" is the theme of the annual Manitou Springs Kiwanis Club Pancake Day to be held in Manitou's Soda Springs Park Thursday, according to Pancake Day chairman, Homer Sharpton.

With all proceeds ear-marked to promote the club's youth welfare projects, Kiwanians will turn out in force Pancake Day, to serve buttermilk pancakes, butter, sausage and beverages to all comers.

Last year, the Manitou Springs Kiwanis Club served hundreds of both residents and visitors to the region. The Kiwanians will serve on Thursday from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

First Methodist Opens Church School Monday

The First Methodist Church will open it's second summer Vacation Church School at 9 a.m Monday. The school will continue for two weeks Monday through Friday from 9 until 11:a.m.

Classes are available for children who will enter kindergarden this year, through sixth graders. Theme for the school this year is "Jesus." Any child is welcome regardless of church affiliation

Lightning Hit McAllister House Friday

Lightening struck McAllister House Friday. The historic residence, now a museum, is located at 423 N. Cascade Ave. The bolt struck at 1:30 p.m., making five holes in the ceiling of a bedroom just as Miss Kendra Englert, custodian, was about to enter the room with a party of visitors.

The visitors ran from the building. Miss Englert seized the telephone to call the fire department, but the lightning had put it out of commission and she had to go to the house next door to use a telephone there.

Assistant Chief Herman J. Richter was in charge. There was no fire, but walls and ceilings in other parts of the house were blackened. Contents of the museum were not damaged.

The museum was open as usual Saturday morning. It is operated by the Colonial Dames, and Mrs. Polly Ruhtenberg, of that organization said that it would not be necessary to close the house to make repairs.

Mr. Higginson Died Friday

Mr. Higginson was born Nov. 29, 1872, at Flora, Ill. He had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1903.

He was with the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad for 32 years, and was car foreman for 17 years. He was a member of the First Christian Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Ruby G. Harper of Colorado Springs; one granddaughter, Mrs. Louise J. Brown of Long Beach, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Tina King of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Grace Campbell of Flora, Ill., and several nieces and nephews.

His wife, Cora A. Higginson, preceded him in death in 1959.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 11 a.m. at Swan Drawing Room with the Rev. Warren M. Hile officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Former Dean Died Friday

Lester Strickland Grant, 86, former dean of the Colorado School of Mines at Golden, died Friday Aug. 7 at La Jolla, Calif.

Mr. Grant was with the Colorado School of Mines from 1921 to 1927. From that date to 1949 he was manager of McElroy Ranch at Crane, Tex., in the oil production and cattle business. He was graduated from the Colorado School of Mines in 1899.

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Grant, La Jolla, Calif.; a daughter Mrs. Mary Tau, Culver City, Calif.; three sons, Robert W. Millard, Ely, Nev.; Richard T. Grant, Tokyo, Japan; and Robert Waltman Grant, Denver. Seven grandchildren also survive.

Memorial services will be held at 10:00 A. M. Wednesday in the Law Funeral Home drawing room, Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Springs Man Named To Teaching Staff

Donald W. Clay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Clay, of 2321 Valley Forge Rd., has been appointed professor of physical science at Arizona Western State College, Yuma, Ariz., effective Sept. 1. He is a 1958 graduate of Colorado College.

After graduation there he attended Arizona University at Tucson, where he was awarded a masters degree in geology in 1960. For the past two years he has been instructor in geology at Odessa, Tex., Junior College. He is married to the former Miss Louise Chadwick of Marblehead, Mass.

Songfest Set Monday At Soda Springs Park

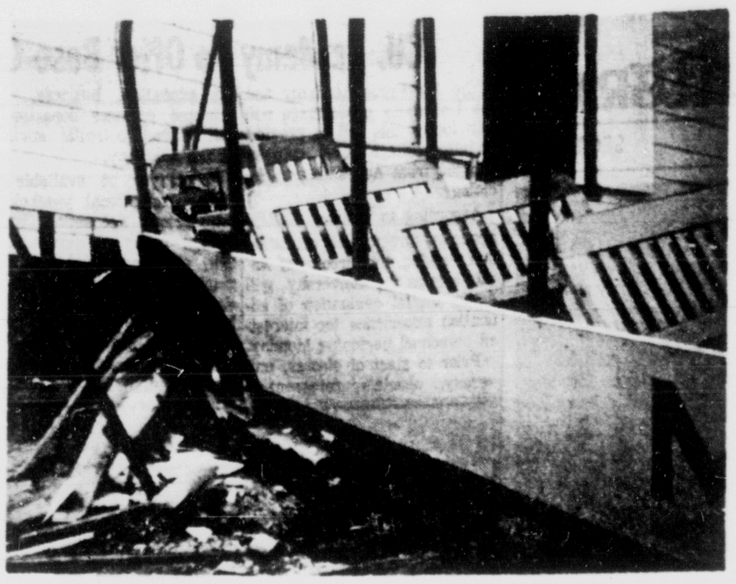

Clifford Brown will conduct an hour-long community sing at 8 p.m. Monday in Soda Springs Park, Manitou Springs.

Brown has just completed a series of seven weeks sings in Acacia Park. He will do a group of solos and will introduce Sonny Figurelli, 15, who will play several selections on his accordian. Sonny has been playing the accordian since he was seven.

Mrs. Jessie Oellerich will be the accompanist and Iom Carpenter will run the projector for slides used for the songs.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

A Son's Thoughts

DEAR ABBY: I can't get that Father's Day column out of my mind. This is for the mother who sent you her 19-year-old son's letter in which he said, "If I turn out to be a father like my dad, I wish somebody would shoot me."

Only when your son has sons of his own will he appreciate what his father has done for him. I assume your son is not paying his own way through college. Few sons do.

I had the same type of father. He never played ball with me. He never cuddled me when I was young. Never talked with me, man-to-man. He never took me on trips, either. But he worked every day. And he paid the bills. And he put food on the table and clothes on my back, and shoes on my feet. And he quietly did without himself.

I used to feel resentment, too. But now I have sons of my own, and realize that there are many ways of showing love. And my father loved me no less for his inability to show it. One day that son will live to eat his words. —OLDER AND WISER

DEAR ABBY: The letter on Father's Day from the boy who was disappointed in his father bothered me. Considering the thousands of boys who have had to grow up without fathers, I think this young man is lucky to have had even a part-time father. At least he's made a home for his family and has paid the bills. If the boy fears his younger brother will suffer from the absence of a father's love and guidance, why doesn't he spend more time being the older brother? Older brothers are usually adored and looked up to by the younger ones.

I have four sons, from 9 to 16. Their father has been in the state mental hospital since the oldest boy was eight years old, so it is almost as though they had no father at all. His mind is gone and he will be there the rest of his life. Yet the boys keep busy, help each other, help me, and I have never once heard any of them complain about how tough it is to be without a father. —MOTHER OF FOUR

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from the college son to his mother, criticizing his father. The boy sounded like an overprotected, spoiled, sniveling brat, just looking for points against probably a hard-working, long suffering, devoted introverted father. Who sent this kid to college? My husband is a quiet man, and our three sons adore him in a quiet way. They feel no necessity to drool over one another. One son is a newspaper man and the other two are engineers, and they all married wonderful girls. The boys turned out to be the kind fathers brag about, but my husband never bragged. My husband never took the boys hunting or fishing. In the summer he either was going to college (he is a school teacher) or working to supplement our income. He never wrote any of them a letter in his life. Yet they loved and respected each other and enjoyed a fine relationship. What we need today is more strong silent men who quietly rule their homes. Then no son will hope to be shot if he isn't taken fishing or to Disneyland.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the letter from the college boy who condemned his father for not being a "good" father:

I am willing to bet that if you were to ask one hundred successful, reasonably well-adjusted family men if their fathers ever played ball with them, took them on trips, or sat down and talked "man-to-man" with them, ninety-five would have to say no. —"ONE OF THE 95"

Federal Tax Tips

By ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

HIGHWAY USE TAX QUESTIONS ANSWERED: I have been asked to provide answers to truckers and others operating truck-tractors with trailers who have inquired about the Federal highway use tax return that is due Aug. 31, 1964. Some of the most frequent questions asked and the answers follow: (a) How is unloaded weight figured Unloaded weight is the empty weight of the vehicle when fully equipped for service. Unloaded weight includes the weight of the chassis, the weight of the body, all accessories, all equipment attached to or carried on the vehicle, and full supply of lubricants, fuel and water. The weight of a trailer pulled by the motor vehicle is not included in the calculation. The weight of the driver and equipment used only to load, unload, protect or preserve the cargo is not included. Certain refrigeration equipment, for example, that is it stalled to protect a cargo in transit is not included. The weight of dollies and pads used on moving vans is likewise not included.

(b) What is a public highway? For the purposes of this tax a public highway is any roadway that is not private. A truck which operates only on city streets is therefore liable for the tax. However, some vehicles are not subject to the tax even not subject to the tax even though they may use a public highway to move from one site of operations to another, because they are not considered highway motor vehicles. Examples include farm tractors and road and construction equipment that is designed for off the road use.

(c) Is any highway use tax credit allowable on a new truck when the tax has been fully paid on the old truck traded in? No tax credit can be taken on a new truck which is a replacement for an old truck, even if tax for the old truck was fully paid. However, if the highway use tax has been paid on a vehicle which is subsequently sold, the new owner will incur no liability for the Federal highway use use tax on that vehicle for the remaining portion of the fiscal year for which the tax has been paid. More on this subject will be discussed in my column of next week, be sure to look for it. In the meantime if you have any questions, call 636-5171 and ask that Publication 349 be sent you

Manitou Incline Car Collides With Building

About 30 people, men, women and children, walked down Mt. Manitou Saturday when an upcoming car on the incline Railway, for which some were waiting, hit the upper platform and crashed into the building which houses the operator.

"They told us that the cable line would soon be operating and we could ride down," said Mrs. J. F. Young, 1343 Oswego St., "but after seeing what happened we preferred to walk. About 30 people walked down. The car that crashed into the building was loaded, but all of the people jumped out. One woman hurt her knee but was able to walk down," Mrs. Young said.

The accident occurred at about 11:45 a.m., according to Mrs. Young.

She had taken her brother-in-law, J. B. Young; his mother, Mrs. Marie Young; his two sisters, Miss Roberta Young and Miss Rita Young, and Mrs. Vera Meyer, all of St. Louis, up Mt. Manitou for a treat. They had ascended on another car and were thinking of descending, she said, in the one that crashed into the building. In the Young party were also Mrs. J. F. Young's two children, Timmy, 7, and Debbie, 6. They walked down the mountain with the others.

"The people in the car coming up jumped out so quickly that all of them were out almost as soon as it hit the building, said J. B. Young. "The trouble, we heard, was that the bell that signals the car at the top of the ride failed to ring and notify the engineer to stop the machinery."

Young Democrats Schedule Meet Tuesday Night

The Young Democrats of El Paso county are heating up with a case of political fever and, instead of vacationing throughout the summer from regular meetings, they're going to hold one Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Special guests at this meeting will be the local Democratic party candidates for state, county and judicial offices, according to Young Dem officials.

This Tuesday night meeting also will mark the first session at the group's new gathering place, the meeting room of the Congregational church at the northwest corner of St. Vrain and Tejon Streets. The forthcoming demolition of the Antlers Hotel necessitates a change in meeting site.

Candidates due to be on hand to address the group include: John F. Gallagher, candidate for district judge; Colorado Senate hopefuls John J. (Joe) Donlon and Norman B. Bodinger; House of Representative candidates James S. LeHaye, Alfred Coxe, Lindy Fields, Donald Brinton, Gerald Lindsey and William L. Carew; and county commissioner candidates Charles H. Bickley and L. F. "Red" Quaney.

The meeting will be open to the public.

Local Student Honored At Nebraska College

JoAnn Orsak, of Colorado Springs, qualified for the dean's list at Hastings College, Hastings, Neb. She is a freshman. Dr. M. G. Scarlett is dean.

Scholastic figures were released last week by the registrars office. JoAnn was one of 69 students with academic grade point average of 3.4 or better.

BRASILIA — Brazil will restrict malt imports.

Canon Youths Attend Junior League Meet

Two Canon City youths will attend the 11th annual National Convention of the Junior Classical League on the University of Illinois campus at Urbana, today through Thursday.

David Eslick, and LenoreMarquardt, members of the Canon City Chapter of the Junior Classical League at the Canon City High School, will join 33 other delegates from Colorado and Wyoming. More than 1,500 delegates are expected to attend from throughout the United States.

In addition to attending the convention, the Colorado - Wyoming group will tour Chicago, take a boat ride on Lake Michigan, tour St. Louis, and Hannibal, Mo.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Green,, and Lenore the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Marquardt

Former Palmer Coach Named To AFA Post

A native of Denver, Porter graduated from Regis High. He received a bachelor's degree in mathematics from the University of Nebraska and his masters in education from Columbia.

The new staff member is no stranger to service academy education. Commissioned through the ROTC program at Nebraska, Porter was assigned to the faculty at West Point following a two-year tour at Ft. Huachuca, Ariz. He spent three and a half years at the Military Academy teaching mathematics and coaching plebe football.

During the Korean Conflict, Porter was recalled to active duty and served from 1952 to 1954 on the West Point faculty.

Prior to joining the Academy staff, Porter spent seven and a half years with the Sandia Corp., Albuquerque, N.M. In his last post he headed the university relations division.

L. A. Hower Died Saturday

Lawrence Arthur Hower, 65, 220 Everett Ave., Security, died Saturday at a local hospital, following a brief illness.

Mr. Hower was born in Oil City, Pa., and was an estimator for the A.A. Construction Co. He had been a resident of Security for the past eight years and was a retired assistant of prisons for the state of Illinois at Aurora.

A member of the Baptist Church, he was also a member of the Moose Lodge and was the first graduate from Moose Heart, Ill., and a member of the Masonic Lodge, Jerusalem Temple number 90 at Aurora.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Cecile Jane Hower, Security; two daughters, Mrs. Virginia McCarty of Security and Mrs. Jane Wagner, Manchester, Mo.; two sons, L. Arthur Hower Jr., Des Plaines, Ill.; and Robert L. Hower, Medina, Ohio.

Two sisters, Mrs. P. J. McMahon, Deerfield, Mich.; and Mrs. Ralph Fleckenstein, Oil City, Pa. Twelve grandchildren also survive.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Law Mortuary.

Mrs. Harmon Died Saturday

Mrs. Dora Harmon, 83, 1921 Manor Lane, died Saturday at a local hospital. She had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1920.

A retired school teacher, Mrs. Harmon started teaching in Colorado Springs in 1925 at Bristol School and Ivywild School and at Lowell School from 1928 to her retirement in 1946.

She was a member of the United Evangelical Brethren Church since 1925.

Four nieces and nephews survive in Springfield, Ohio. Mrs. Harmon's husband passed away in November, 1951.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday in the Law Funeral Home drawing room, Dr. W. G. Schaefer, officiating. Burial will be at Evergreen Cemetery.

AEC Plans Nuclear Blast in Salt Mine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission plans to set off a small nuclear blast deep in a salt mine near Hattiesburg, Miss., Sept. 22, the first of three in "project dribble" for developing techniques to detect underground nuclear explosions.

The nuclear device, designed to yield an explosive force of five kilitons, will be set off 2,700 feet down in the mine, 28 miles southeast of Hattiesburg.

'Canned Man' Checks Space Life Systems

BURBANK, Calif., Nicknamed "canned man," a machine that breathes in oxygen and exhales carbon dioxide is being developed to evaluate portable space life support systems, the Lockheed-California Company reported Friday.

The "canned man" test equipment will simulate human respiratory functions in testing back-mounted portable life support systems to be used by astronauts in Apollo space flights and moon landings. The test machine can also be hooked up to a pressure-suited man to provide life support while under test.

This instrumented man-simulator is being built at the Lockheed Rye Canyon Research Center (near Saugus, Calif.), under a $93,000 contract, for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, which is in charge of the Apollo lunar landing program.

The "canned man", designed at Lockheed's Houston Spacecraft Center, bears little resemblance to either a human being or even a robot. It is a console-like piece of equipment seven feet tall, 10 feet wide, and three feet deep.

When the test machine plays the role of man in checking out an astronaut's breathing equipment, it breathes, exhales, and sweats to simulate an astronaut in his space suit. The "canned man" takes in measured amounts of oxygen and "exhales" carbon dioxide and oxygen. Steam, pumped in through inlet ports and stainless steel tubing, supplies moisture to simulate perspiration and breath vapor.

Performance and effectiveness of the space suit and life support system will be determined by measurement and analysis of the oxygen-carbon dioxide-moisture mixture, purification, leakage, and component reliability under various operating conditions.

This Lockheed - California Spacecraft design and development program is under the technical direction of Paul F. Halfpenny.

16 at Ent AFB Left Service Last Month

Sixteen Ent Air Force Base personnel shed their Air Force blues at the end of last month to enter civilian life as retirees.

Receiving the large military service career certificate at ceremonies held at their respective supervisors' offices were T. Sgt. Thomas Finnegan, Maj. Welton D. Bailey, T. Sgt. Paul R. Pack, S. Sgt. James W. Lyon, SM. Sgt. John A. Ryll, M. Sgt. Jesse A. Bixley, Maj. Frank S. Wiley, T. Sgt. Louren L. Moffett, M. Sgt. Arthur L. Kelsey, Jr., Alfred F. Irvin, and Lt. Col. William S. Phillips.

Four other attended a parade at Memorial Park last Friday and "reviewed the troops" with Maj. Gen. William B. Keese, ADC Chief of Staff. They were M. Sgt. Elinor G. Maines, Lt. Col. Archibald G. Kearns, Lt. Col. Stanley W.H.C. Lau, and Maj. Robert Holcomb.

GIRL IN ORBIT — Newly crowned Miss Colorado of 1964 — Kathleen Knight of Denver, gets a first hand report on man-made objects in space. Royal Canadian Air Force Squadron Leader G. E. Gruson of the North American Air Defense Command staff, who is presently assisting in manning the NORAD Space Detection and Tracking System exhibit at the New York World's Fair, is the briefer. Occasion for the visit of Miss Knight to NORAD at the Fair was Colorado Day celebrated there recently. Incidentally, this will probably be the last non-smiling picture shot of the attractive Denver girl until after the beauty contest at Atlantic City.

Native of Texas Army Hospital Executive

Col. William O. Hastings, former director of personnel at Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, has become executive officer of the U.S. Army Hospital at Ft. Carson.

Col. Hastings is a native of Stratford, Texas.

He enlisted in the Army in 1934 and was commissioned in December 1941, in the second Officer Candidate School class to graduate at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

He was sent to Ft. Bliss, Texas. There he joined the 1st Cavalry Division and he remained with this unit in the Pacific throughout World War II.

He held several assignments on his return to the United States until March 1948 when he was assigned to the Office of the Chief of Staff Review Board in Washington.

In 1949 he was sent to the Toxi-city Laboratory at the University of Chicago and in 1951 he returned to Washington for his first assignment in the office of the surgeon general.

He next attended the command and General Staff College and after graduation in 1955, he was executive officer of the 9th Hospital Center in Germany for three years. He then attended the hospital administration course at the Medical Field Service School at Brooke before his return to the office of the surgeon general.

Col. Hastinsg has been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds in the Luzon fighting, the Bronze Star Medal, Army Commendation Medal, the Asiatic- Pacific Campaign Medal with five campaign stars and the Philippine Liberation Medal.

Col. Hastings and his wife Gertrude live here with their two sons, the older of whom is attending Colorado State College. They have a married daughter, Mary Kathleen.

Insurance Men Know Need of Whiplash Care

By The Colorado Chiropractic Society

The nation's insurance companies are famed for their faith in statistics, and they have endorsed chiropractic as valuable in treating accident victims suffering from whiplash injury.

The insurance people decide on the benefits of a policy after considering thousands of cases — only then do they offer it for sale. After long research and experience, every auto accident policy written in Colorado allows payment for chiropractic care.

Insurance statisticians know that a whiplash injury is one which commonly damages the bones of the neck, and they know further that the doctor of chiropractic is eminently qualified to repair this damage through x-ray and manipulation of the spinal bones down to a microscopic degree of correctness.

Too often spinal bones can be cracked, misplaced or actually broken on the inside of the spine and still escape detection with ordinary xray pictures and diagnosis. It is the chiropractor who is trained to x-ray and detect such injury with special equipment.

Another reason why this nerve and spine specialist is so valuable in the treatment of whiplash injury is that he can prevent illness of the rest of the spine and the entire body by freeing the nerves which may be damaged or pinched in the accident.

The spine, carrying millions of nerves within its center, is the nerve life line for every organ, gland and muscle in the rest of the body. Paralysis of the arms or legs can be the result of whiplash injury, and even though it seems odd to those who are uninformed, there can be serious diseases such as infantile paralysis and arthritis — the nerves fail, and the body does too.

The Colorado Chiropractic Society suggests that auto accident policy holders in Colorado remember that no insurance release need be signed before a Chiropractic examination is made. A whiplash injury can bring serious health trouble much later if not detected and corrected — and it can be too late for financial help if a settlement is made too soon.

Pueblo Depot Employes Honored by Johnson

Two Pueblo Army Depot employes who made a cost-saving suggestion in connection with the Nike Hercules guided missile were awarded Certificates of Merit by President Lyndon B. Johnson at Pentagon ceremonies in Washington on July 21.

They were among 19 persons honored during Cost Reduction Week, observed throughout the Department of Defense.

The two are Richard C. Kettering, an electrical equipment installer-repairer, and Merl D. Meek, an electrical equipment installer.

Academy Staff Members Study At Arizona U

Mrs. Ann L. Alford and Dr. (Capt.) Robert W. Lamb, both of the U.S. Air Force Academy, among the 61 representatives of education, law enforcement, industry and military studying spectroscopy during a five-day course which ended Friday at Arizona State University in Tempe.

One of a few such courses offered in the nation, the fourth-annual course in infrared and ultraviolet absorption spectroscopy, directed by Dr. Jacob Fuchs, ASU professor of chemistry, determined qualitative and quantitative composition of matter by measuring the intensity and wave length of absorbed radiation.

Absorption spectroscopy can analyze almost anything organic and most things inorganic. It can determine the kind of pollutants in the air or the protein content of meat, analyze composition of planets or detect narcotics.

Mrs. Alford, a chemist, and Dr. Lamb, associate professor of chemistry attended both lecture and laboratory sessions. Equipment and lecturers for the course were provided by such companies as Bausch & Lomb, Rochester, N.Y.; Beckman, Fullerton, Calif.; Perkin-Elmer, Norwalk, Calif., and Applied Physics Corp, Monrovia Calif.

The United Nations Bureau of Social Affairs estimates 150 million families in less developed countries are in need of adequate homes.

Is your company getting these "Plus-values" from your bank?

It is if you bank with the FIRST NATIONAL

When you bank with the FIRST NATIONAL, you get a lot of extras. For example –

\+ Business and personal connections in all parts of the country. Often, a letter or telephone call from a First National officer gets information or help that might otherwise take weeks.

\+ Size to serve. Being the largest bank in the region, the First National has the greatest loan capacity — and if necessary can arrange for even more through connections with largest banks in the nation.

\+ Fast, accurate processing of local and out-of-town items because of IBM equipment.

\+ Helpful business experience and know-how. The First National understands the needs of business, large and small, from years of wide experience.

\+ Plus all the dozens of benefits you get from a bank that is interested in serving business and knows how to do it.

"FIRST NATIONAL" is a good name to have on your checks, here or anywhere

Personalines

Gen (Ret.) and Mrs. Laurence S. Kuter of New York City, formerly of Colorado Springs, will arrive later this month for a vacation at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Gen. Kuter, former Commanding General, North American Air Defense Command, will play in the World Senior Men's Golf Tournament. They will also be here to attend the debutante ball at the Officers' Club, Ent AFB, on Saturday, Aug. 29, when twenty-two young ladies, all daughters of Air Force Officers, will be presented. The ball is sponsored by the Ent Officers' Wives Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Berg, and sons, Bill, David and Hank, of Falls Church, Va., will arrive Monday to spend three weeks visiting Mrs. Berg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall Trant of 1514 Wood Ave. Several parties are being planned to honor the visitors.

Miss Artheta White will leave today for San Francisco, en route to a cruise around the world. She will be joined in San Francisco by Mrs. E. Stewart James of Churchill Plantation, Gloucester, Va.

Miss White and Mrs. James will travel aboard the American President Liner, President Polk. They will visit Honolulu first, and their next stop will be Japan, where they will do some inland traveling. They will visit Okinawa, Hong Kong, Bangkok, Singapore, Bombay, Delhi, and Pakistan.

Traveling through the Suez Canal, they will visit Alexandria, Egypt; Marseilles, France; Genoa and Lavorno, Italy, and at a number of places, will take inland tours. The travelers plan to return to New York City about Nov. 1.

Carol Truax gave a cocktail party Thursday evening complimenting her niece, Mrs. Hunter Frost of New York City. Mrs. Hunter is the former Lynn Aldrich, a graduate of Colorado College and the daughter of Miss Truax's sister, Mrs. Aldrich (Rhoda Truax) whose latest novel, "With Equal Grace," is just off the press. She is the author of "Hospital" and several other novels.

Also a guest of honor at the cocktail party was Virgil Thomson, composer, critic and conductor, who will be the house-guest of Miss Truax for the remainder of August. MRS. FREDRIC CONWAY REICH
—Nee Mary Jane Leiweke

Reich-Leiweke Vows Read In Normandy, Mo. Church

St. Ann's Catholic Church in Normandy, Mo. was the scene of a wedding of much interest in Colorado Springs, when Miss Mary Jane Leiweke of that city became the bride of Fredric Conway Reich of Colorado Springs. The ceremony took place at 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, with the Very Rev. Godfrey Poage, CP., of Rome, Italy, officiating.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Leiweke of St. Louis, Mo., was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Reich of 14 W. Espanola St.

Two large baskets of white carnations, with pink and blue chrysanthemum daisies were placed on either side of the altar, and garlands of lemon leaves with white satin bows marked the center aisle pews.

The bride's gown was of ivory peau de soie with bell skirt and detachable train secured at the back of the waist with a flat bow. The bodice was made with sabrina neckline and elbow sleeves, and Alencon lace enhanced the slightly high rise of the waistline and the edge of the sleeves. Her veil of illusion flowed from a dainty bonnet of lace and peau de soie. Her flowers were white moth orchids and lilies of the valley, centered with two cymbidium orchids, with streamers of ivy.

Mrs. Thomas Croak, sister of the bridegroom was matron of honor and Miss Joan Leiweke was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bonita Barkey and Miss JoAnne Craig. All wore floor length gowns of white silk organza over beige taffeta, with sashes of Venice lace threaded with petitpoint ribbon, and they wore lace crowns threaded with matching ribbon. Mrs. Croak's flowers were pink chrysanthemum daisies and Miss Leiweke's were blue. Both bridesmaids carried bouquets of pink and blue daisies. Miss Craig was the bride's roommate at Loretto Heights College.

Joseph A. Reich Jr. attended his brother as best man and the ushers were Phillip Bobberschmidt, Gary Potter, Thomas Croak, the bridegroom's brother-in-law; Joseph Fanganello, John Harding and Bob Wynne, all former classmates of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother, wearing a blue silk dress with matching accessories, received the guests at the reception held at the Norwood Hills Country Club. The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of pink silk, also with matching accessories.

Garlands of smilax surrounded the cake and decorated the bride's table, and the guests' tables were centered with pink and blue daisies in bud vases. Two large baskets of white carnations with pink and blue daisies flanked the fireplace where the receiving line was formed.

After a motor tour of the Western States the couple will live at 235 Crestone, Colorado Springs. The bride's going-away ensemble was of brown linen with white monogram, and white accessories.

Attending the wedding from Colorado Springs were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Reich, his brother, Joseph A. Reich Jr., his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Croak, of Boulder, Mrs. P. K. Steahlin,, Mr. and Mrs. E. Croak and son David, also of Colorado Springs.

If you like to keep a bottle of catchup and one of chili sauce on hand, but do not use the condiments every day, store them in the refrigerator and they'll keep their bright red color.

Household Hints

Dark-colored bath towels should never be washed with colored cottons or the towels will get full of lint. But if you have already done this, wash the towels again separately and rinse through two waters. Add a tablespoon of vinegar to a gallon of water for the third rinse. When dry, all lint will have disappeared from the towels.

It's a big help if closets in the house are equipped with automatic lights that turn on and off when the closet door is opened and closed. It saves time in hunting for a garment; makes the cleaning of the closet easier and because there is never so much rummaging around in it to find things, the closet just naturally stays neater.

UNUSUAL CAMPAIGN

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Campaigning door - to - door for re-election, Constable James A. Powell may have lost a couple of votes.

Powell said he found a bleeding saloonkeeper, armed with two bottles, and the saloonkeeper's wife brandishing a butcher knife, squared off at each other in their establishment. He charged both with assault.

It is far better to let the phone or doorbell go unanswered when you have a child in the bathtub than to risk an accident. A child left in the bathtub unwatched can easily slip under the water or even turn the hot water on himself.

Arvin Michel Weds Athenia Athey

Immanuel Lutheran Church was the setting at 4:30 p.m., Sat., Aug. 8, for the wedding of Miss Athenia Marie Athey to Arvin Herbert Michel. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Glenn Athey, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Albert Michel.

The Rev. Walter A. Enge performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white gladioli, white pom-pons and lighted candelabra. White gladioli also adorned the pews.

Kenneth Schlueter at the organ played a prelude of nuptial selections and Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary" for the processional and an arrangemnt of the 19th Psalm for the recessional

* * *

Mrs. Gwen Geisler sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" and "Oh Perfect Love".

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For her late summer afternoon wedding she chose a formal length gown of antique ivory satin designed with fitted bodice, portrait neckline and three quarter length sleeves edged in Alencon lace dotted with seed pearls. A spray applique of Alencon lace, embellished with seed pearls, extended over the bodice and the dome skirt. The skirt was further enhanced with a full shirred back held with a bow which flowed into a cathedral train. Her bouffant ivory silk illusion veil cascaded from a pill-box of matching satin appliqued in lace. She carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids defined with stephanotis and English ivy.

* * *

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Dianne Goff of Denver. Bridesmaids were Miss Sharilyn Buman of Aurora, and Miss Marilynn Camerlo of Florence.

The attendants were gowned alike in full length dresses of azalea georgette designed with soft flowing skirts and Empire bodices fitted with deep azalea velvet bands. Velvet Dior bows in deep azalea crowned with circlet veils completed their ensembles. All carried bouquets of pole pink glamelias with English ivy, the maid of honor's bouquet was accented with a happiness rose center.

Dennis Michel attended the bridegroom as best man, and ushers were Donald Ryden and Cecil Turner, both of Colorado Springs.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Athey chose a brown sheer wool dress accented with deep brown velvet and a metallic bronze demi-chapeau. Her corsage was a bronze feathered mum. Mrs. Michel wore a two piece ensemble of royal blue with matching blue velvet hat. Her corsage was of pink miniature roses.

A reception followed at the Antlers Hotel. Floral arrangements were of white gladioli and white pom-pons. The tables were covered with white satin cloths and silver appointments, and a white glamelia topped the bridal cake. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. A. D. McCalluj of Wauneta, Neb.; Mrs. Paulus Pilgrim of Hampton Neb.; and Miss Kathrine Madsen of Aurora.

Mrs. Michel is a 1963 graduate of the University of Colorado where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi social sorority, and Kappa Delta Pi and Pi Lambda Theta honoraries. She is now teaching at Lakewood High School.

Mr. Michel was graduated from the University of Colorado class of '64 and is employed as an electrical engineer by Public Service Company of Colorado.

After a brief honeymoon the couple will reside at 1965 Yank Ct. in Lakewood.

MRS. WILLIAM R BILLINGSLEY JR.
—Nee Virginia Lynn Shafer

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Shafer, 224 Grape Dr., Security, and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Billingsley, 1504 Hallam Ave., Security.

Mr. Schafer escorted his daughter to the altar. She wore a white gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline and chapel length train. Seed pearls and iridescent sequins sparkled on the bodice and her veil of illusion was caught to a crown of pearls. Her bridal bouquet was of white glamelias.

Miss Linda Heeney was maid of honor. Her gown was designed with a pink satin bodice and a skirt of pink chiffon over satin. Her veil, was matching pink and she carried a fuschia-centered bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Barbara Billingsley and Miss Sue Heeney were bridesmaids. Both wore lavender gowns styled like that of the maid of honor. Their fuschia-centered bouquets were of lavender carnations.

Larry Hart was best man. John Shafer, brother of the bride, and Donald Woods were groomsmen.

A reception in the church followed the ceremony. Assisting were Mrs. Evelyn Wickman and Miss Patty Wickman.

For her wedding trip to Woodland Park, the bride changed into a white suit of looped mohair trimmed with a white fur collar. Her accessories were blue and she wore a corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

The couple's future residence will be Long Beach, Calif.

Olsen-Murphy Wedding Held at Stratmoor Hills

Miss Edna Marie Murphy became the bride of Ronald William Olson at 2 p.m. Thursday, July 9, in Stratmoor Hills Methodist Church. The Rev. Richard I. Peterson officiated in a setting of pink carnations and white gladioli. Wedding selections included "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Loren A. Murphy, 1308 Harrison Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Olson, 3100 Wood Ave.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white full length gown with a lace bodice, long sleeves, and taffeta skirt covered with net and lace edging. Sequins and pearls enhanced the scalloped neckline and her long white veil was also lace-trimmed. Her bouquet of white carnations was centered with baby pink roses.

A reception in the church followed the ceremony. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a lavender two piece suit. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace dress.

VFW IN SAFETY DRIVE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars have distributed enough reflective tape strips for more than 5 million bicycles as part of a Lite-A-Bike program designed to promote bicycle safety.

The strips of reflective tape, visible at night from as far as 1,500 feet, are made available free to schools or civic groups participating is the VFW program.

SPRAY BLURR

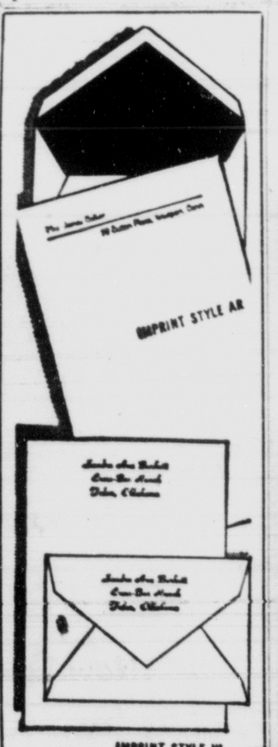

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the cosmetics industry turning out 225 million cans of hair spray a year, no wonder some of it is getting in madame's orbs.

Watch direction of the nozzle when putting the finishing touches on a coiffure, suggest Murine researchers. If spray does get in the eyes, wash them with plain water immediately. If irritation still results, try an eye wash.

Debs and Mothers Have Spectacular View of Storm

Nineteen debutantes, their hostesses, and honored guests were entertained unexpectedly Tuesday at the Garden of the Gods Club by Mother Nature, who indeed staged a phenominal show!

Mrs. Henry Viccellio, Mrs. G. H. A. Newman, Mrs. Charles Stevens Jr., Mrs. Harvey McDaniel, Mrs. Claudius Fingar, Mrs. Frederic Champlin, and Mrs. Walter Beane, Jr. hosted the luncheon honoring the 1964 debutantes, and the debutante committee.

The debs and guests arrived in sparkling August sunshine, and the Garden of the Gods Club was a picture of perfection as these lovely young ladies posed amid the flowers and sun dappled stone. Nature's fireworks began just as the luncheon concluded.

Perhaps nowhere in America is there a more perfect vantage point to view such an awesome display, than this beautiful club with its spectacular view of the mountains.

The storm, which was to prove so costly to Manitou Springs, was show-cased by the glass walls of the club, and the rolling thunder, jagged lightening, and staccato beat of the hail provided a wonderous show of nature.

Turks Are Not Unfriendly, Says U.S. Traveler

By HAL McCLURE

ISTANBUL (AP)—Are Turks sour, unfriendly and humorless?

Many people believe so, says an American, Louis M. Bailey—"until they visit Turkey."

And Bailey is working on a project to change the Turkish image. He calls it the Foreign Friends of Turkey.

Bailey's idea is simple: tourists are urged to lecture and show pictures of their Turkish visit when they return home.

"The Turks are really a wonderful, friendly people, a far cry from the wild and wooly image many people have," says Bailey, a former New York City advertising man.

"Through history we've heard such phrases as the 'Terrible Turk' or the 'Sick man of Europe.' When the visitor learns the truth about this country, he should spread the word.

The American has set up his headquarters in an ancient Turkish bath, put at his disposal by the Istanbul municipality.

Bailey first came to Turkey in 1951 and fell in love with the place. He now divides his time between Egypt and Turkey.

Is the project successful?

"Slowly but surely, we think people are changing their views of Turkey and the Turks," says Bailey. "We hope we've contributed something to this change."

FLAG TO FIGHT LITTERING

Cook-Davey Vows Recited At Pilgrim Holiness Church

The marriage of Miss Phyllis Jean Davey and Jimmy C. Cook was solemnized July 15 at the Knob Hill Pilgrim Holiness Church, with the Rev. Elgin Glendenning, uncle of the bride, officiating.

Two baskets of pink and white gladioli and an arch decorated with pink and white carnations, and white candelabra, formed the setting for the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davey of Colorado Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herndon C. Cook of Frankfort, Ky.

Larry E. Menerey at the organ played nuptial selections and accompanied Norma Jean Glendenning who sang "Each for The Other," "Hand in Hand," "We'll Walk Together," and "A Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white nylon Chantilly type lace over taffeta. Seed pearls and sequins trimmed the neckline, and the sleeves were matching gauntlets. Her fingertip veil flowed from a crown of seed pearls and crystal beads, and her flowers were red sweetheart roses which she carried on a lace-covered Bible.

Marilyn Davey attended her sister as maid of honor, and Sandra Henderson and Sheryl Stuart were bridesmaids. Both wore gowns in pastel shades with matching veils and white accessories. The maid of honor carried red roses, and the bridesmaids wore white carnation corsages.

Donald G. Cates was best man and groomsmen were Charles R. Eason and Donald M. Smith. Special usher was Ronald Davey, brother of the bride.

Jeannie Slaven was flower girl. She wore a white frock trimmed with pink roses and carried a white basket of rose petals which were strewn in the path of the bride.

Carolyn and Marilyn Henderson, wearing white lace over pastel shades of taffeta, lighted the candles and Barbara Slaven was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's mother wore a brown and white print dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's parents were unable to attend.

Following a brief honeymoon, the couple lives at 835 E. Costilla St. The bride chose for traveling a blue suit with white accessories, and a corsage of red sweetheart roses. She is employed by Sno-White Laundry and Cleaners. The bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Army at Ft. Carson.

MRS. REYNOLDS RAY CHALLONER JR.
—Nee Barbara Anne DePeaux

Barbara Anne DePeaux Is Bride of R.R. Challoner Jr.

Miss Barbara Anne DePeaux and Reynolds Ray Challoner Jr. were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8 at the First Presbyterian Church of Green Bay, Wis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Vaughn DePeaux; and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Ray Challoner, all of Green Bay.

The bride taught second grade at Buena Vista Elementary School of Colorado Springs before her marriage and will teach next fall at Neenah. A graduate of West High School, Green Bay, she received her B.A. degree at Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis. in 1963. Her sorority is Alpha Gamma Delta, and she is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Miss Christine DePeaux was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. George K. Whyte Jr., sister of the bridegroom, Miss Kathi Samuels and Miss Gretel Hansen, both teachers in Colorado Springs.

John W. Challoner was his brother's best man and groomsmen were Dr. David R. Challoner of Bethesda, Md., Michael DePeaux, brother of the bride; and ushers were Mancer Cyr, Thomas Martin, fraternity brothers of the bridegroom from Wisconsin, and Donald Sharp of Green Bay.

The bridegroom attended Wayland Academy at Beaver Dam, Wis. and received his B.A. degree at Carroll College in 1964. His fraternity is Beta Pi Epsilon, and he is a trainee at Marathon Corp., a division of the American Can Co.

The couple plans to return eventually to Colorado Springs to make their home.

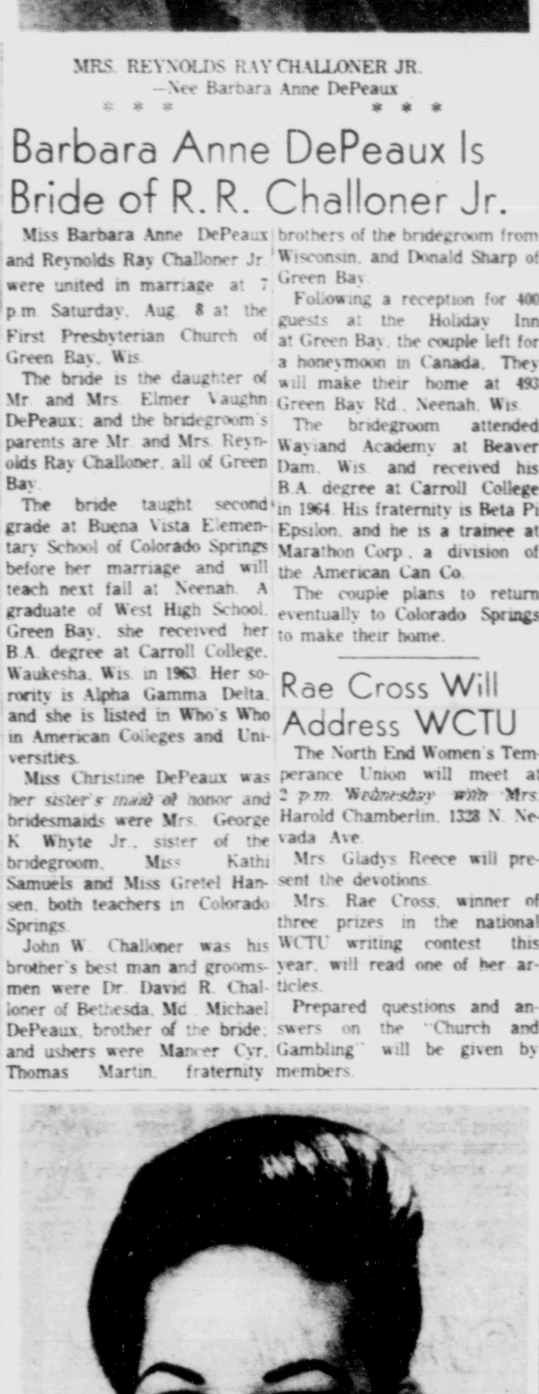

Rae Cross Will Address WCTU

The North End Women's Temperance Union will meet at 2 p.m. Wednesday with Mrs. Harold Chamberlin, 1328 N. Nevada Ave.

Mrs. Gladys Reece will present the devotions.

Mrs. Rae Cross, winner of three prizes in the national WCTU writing contest this year, will read one of her articles.

Prepared questions and answers on the "Church and Gambling" will be given by fraternity members.

TO MARRY IN DECEMBER—Maj. and Mrs. James Marion Wilson, U.S. Air Force Academy, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lettye Jane, to Paul Edward Guerin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Theodore Guerin of Rochester, N.H. Miss Wilson is a graduate of Sidney Lanier High School, Montgomery, Ala. She attended Southern Colorado State College and will attend the University of Colorado in the fall. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. George I. Teasley of Barnesville, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Wilson, Clearwater, Fla. Staff Sergeant Guerin graduated from Spaulding High School, Rochester, N.H. and attended the University of New Hampshire and Southern Colorado State College. He is a member of the Air Force Academy Drum and Bugle Corps and will also attend the University of Colorado. The wedding will be solomnized on Dec. 19, in Our Lady of the Skies Chapel, U.S. Air Force Academy.

Clara L. Meury Becomes Bride of James L. Foltz

Miss Clara L. Meury and James L. Foltz were recently married in Immanuel Lutheran Church, the Rev. Walter A. Enge officiating. Candelabra and basket arrangements of gladioli and daisies were placed on the altar. Nuptial music included "Jesus, Come Unto Us This Day," and "Wedding Prayer."

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Meury, 828 Midland Ave., Manitou Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Foltz, 2309 W. Platte Ave.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a satin brocade gown which was designed and made exclusively for her. She wore a white lace mantilla, a very old keepsake, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Ann Cornell, matron of honor, wore a floor length yellow brocade gown with a matching net hat. She carried a basket of pink, yellow and blue daisies.

Patsy Woolsey, wearing a full length pink brocade gown, and Ann Nichols, wearing a blue brocade full length gown, were bridesmaids. Both wore hats to match their dresses, and carried baskets of pink, yellow and blue daisies.

Roxanne Eflin was candlelighter. She wore a floor length lavender gown of taffeta and lace and a wrist corsage. Rickie Godec, also a candlelighter, wore a white coat and dark trousers.

Jennifer Eflin, as flower girl, wore a full length gown of mint green taffeta and lace, and carried a basket of pink rose petals. Gary Godec was ringbearer, and Mark Lowderman was train bearer. Both wore white coats and dark trousers.

Lester Foltz, the bridegroom's father, served as best man. Claude Seivert and Norman VanNattan were groomsmen.

The bride's mother wore a blue satin brocade dress with matching jacket, and pink accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother selected an aqua silk dress with matching coat, and white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

For a wedding trip to Taos, N. M., the bride changed into a blue silk suit with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses and carnations. The couple will make their home at 204 N. 22nd St.

The bride attended Southern Colorado State College.

PULL-TAB CANS FOR SOFT DRINKS

NEW YORK (UPI)—The pull-tab can, which captured 50 per cent of the canned beer market in less than two years, has been introduced to the consumer for soft drinks by the Continental Can Company.

Cans now account for about 6½ per cent of the soft drink market, according to Ellison L. Hazard, Continental's president. He predicted that canned soft drinks will attain more than 10 per cent of the market by 1965, largely because of the new pull-tabs.

Shepard-Ball Vows Recited At Pueblo First Baptist

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Ann Ball and Loren David Shepard was solemnized at 7:30 p.m. July 24 at the First Baptist Church in Pueblo. The Rev. William C. Moser performed the ceremony by candlelight, before an altar flanked by baskets of white gladioli and mums.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. A. E. Ball of 221 W. Routt Ave., Pueblo. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Shepard of 224 E. Jackson St., Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Paul Groening at the organ played nuptial selections.

Adrian M. Burson, cousin of the bride, gave her hand in marriage. Her gown of sheer chalk-white silk over faille was fashioned with high rise bust line and bodice appliqued with leaves and flowers, which also extended onto the sheath skirt and detachable Watteau train. Her bouffant veil was attached to a delicate headdress of jeweled lac, and she carried a white orchid with stephanotis on a white Bible.

Mrs. Warren Walding of Cheyenne was matron of honor; and bridesmaids were Mrs. James Tomlinson of Avondale and Miss Gretchen Bauer of Loveland. All wore floor length dress in a soft green shade, with matching shoes and hats, pearl necklaces and gloves.

Phil Skelton was best man and ushers were Roy Ewing of Pueblo and James Tomlinson of Avondale.

A reception for some 300 guests was held in Judson hall of the church, where Mrs. Roy Ewing was in charge of the guest book and Miss Linda Edwards of the gift table.

After a trip to California, the couple will make their home at 2931 2nd Ave., Pueblo. The bride chose a blue printed silk ensemble for traveling, with patent accessories.

The bride is an alumna of Pueblo College and Colorado State College. The bridegroom attended Colorado College. Both are teachers at Pleasant View Junior High School in Pueblo.

Among the guests were Mrs. F. E. Webb and sons of Sacramento, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Ben Snodgress of Elhart, Kan., Mrs. Ruth Sebastin of Odik, Ill., and the Lyle Kingery family of Freemont, Calif.

Bethany Baptist Is Scene Hick-Nolan Wedding Rites

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, July 11, Miss Ellena F. Nolan and Larry O. Hicks were united in marriage. Vows were recited in Bethany Baptist Church, the Rev. C. L. Moser officiating.

Traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. Betty Sperry, organist, who also accompanied Bill Schlief as he sang "I Love You Truly," "The Lord's Prayer," and "More."

The double ring wedding vows were pledged before a background of candelabra entwined with ivy, baskets of pink gladioli and carnations with pink bows. Lighted candles marked each pew.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nolan, 3211 W. Kiowa St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hicks, Oklahoma City, Okla.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown which she and her mother designed. The molded bodice was fashioned with a scoop neckline and fitted elbow length sleeves A large bow accented the back waistline of the skirt which flowed into a chapel train. Appliques of lace, sparkling with sequins and seed pearls, highlighted both bodice and skirt and her elbow length illusion veil fell from a crown of pearls. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried pink carnations and ivy on a white lace Bible.

Mrs. Lorraine Anderson was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kay Hicks, sister of the bridegroom, and Judy Adams, cousin of the bride. All wore identical gowns of pale and deep pink, respectively, with modified bell-shaped skirts of crystalette and short lace jackets.

Matching pillboxes held their short veils and they wore matching satin slippers, and mitts, and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Jill Morimitsu, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Morimitsu, was flower girl. Her pink frock was of crystalette and lace with matching pillbox. She carried a satin basket of pink rose petals.

Robbie Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Walters, was ring bearer. He wore a white jacket, dark trousers, pink carnation boutonniere, and carried the rings on a white satin and tulle pillow. Both the flower girl's basket and the pillow were made by Mrs. Ruth Zorman,, the bride's aunt.

Chuck Nolan,, the bride's brother, served as best man. Paul Saucerman., and Kendell Hartman of Oklahoma City, were groomsmen. All the men wore white dinner jackets except the bridegroom who was attired in a black tuxedo. Their boutonnieres were pink carnations.

A reception in the church followed the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with a white satin table cloth and pink net overcloth trimmed in lace, centered with a four tier pink and white wedding cake and a large 7 - branch candelabrum. Assisting were Miss Joan Rowton who registered the guests; Miss Fran Williams who attended the gift table; Mrs. Gus Hill and Mrs. Ruth Zorman served the cake; Mrs. Maxine Breeding and Mrs. Bill Schlief poured punch, assisted by Mrs. Ted Robinett and Mrs. Ruth Bogue. All wore white carnation corsages.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hicks and Kay, Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Hartman,, Frank Smith, all of Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Bowdino, Tony, Donna, Iris and Bonnie of LaVeta; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wookey, Larry, Roberta and Jim of Fowler; Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Wookey of Manzanola.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nolan selected a gown of deep aqua crepe and lace with long sleeves, matching shoes and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a light blue suit with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink sweetheart roses.

The couple will reside at 1021 E. Jefferson St., following a honeymoon to Yellowstone National Park and the Grand Tetons, Wyo. The bride's going away outfit was a pink and gold print dress with gold accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

A graduate of Colorado Springs High School, Class of '59, the bride is presently employed as a dental assistant. The bridegroom attended Northeastern State College in Talequah, Okla. and is now stationed at Peterson Field.

Marilyn Deane Uhles Is Bride of W. Lee Root

The Rev. Malcolm McHarg officiated at the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Marilyn Deane Uhles and W. Lee Root, at 3:30 p.m. July 19, in the garden of the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Uhles of 1210 N. Tejon St. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. M. Hendryx of 325 W. St. Vrain St.

Nuptial selections were played by Bob Bishop, J. P. Jones, Hugh Teason and Joe Daniels.

Mr. Uhles gave his daughter in marriage. The bride wore a gown of white peau de soie styled with a scoop neckline attractively embroidered with pearls and sequins. Her shoulder length veil was caught to a pearl tiara and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, which was a gift from the bridegroom. Her flowers were pink sweetheart roses centered with white orchids.

Mrs. Louise Clay, sister-in-law of the bride was the matron of honor, wearing a rose chiffon dress with matching headdress. Her flowers were pink, yellow and rose carnations. Cathy Parker was maid of honor, wearing similar dress in yellow, with matching headdress, and a similar bouquet.

Jim Rathburn attended the bridegroom as best man, and ushers were Lee Clay, Gary Uhles, both brothers of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a white and silver dress with white accessories and white carnations corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of blue brocade with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Vaneta Anderson cut the cake at the reception held at the Uhles home. Miss Linda Clay presided at the guest book and serving punch were Rick and Lee Clay. Baskets of white mums and gladioli were placed in the garden and the trellis was decorated with fern, lilies of the valley, pink sweetheart roses and centered with two large wedding bells.

Following a honeymoon in Denver the couple will live in Colorado Springs. The bride wore for her trip a floral pastel suit in brocade tapestry, with white accessories and her corsage was a white orchid.

Both young people attended Palmer High School.

McDowell-Woolsey Nuptials Held in Penrose Church

Friends Church in Penrose was the scene of a candlelight service July 11 uniting Miss Patricia Jean Woolsey and David McDowell. The Rev. John Oliver officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clive Woolsey and Mr. and Mrs. Ray McDowell, all of Penrose.

The bride wore a lace gown featuring a hooped skirt with a back bow and train, and a veil held by a tiara. She carried an orchid over a Bible.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Donna McDermott, as matron of honor, and Miss Judy Woolsey, as bridesmaid. Mrs. Kay Stroud also was a bridesmaid.

Flower girl and ring - bearer were Tammy Carmack and Brian Nation.

The bridegroom's brother, Jerry McDowell, was best man. The ushers were Paul McDowell, Jimmy Johnson, and Herbert Woolsey, the bride's brother.

At the reception in the church parlors, Mrs. Shirley Ham, the bridegroom's sister, had charge of the guest book.

The newlyweds reside at Penrose. The bride was graduated in June from Scott's Beauty College at Pueblo. Her husband is employed in the shipping office of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Corp., Pueblo Plant.

Mrs. White Is Delegate To Hadassah Convention

Mrs. Herbert White, president of the Colorado Springs Chapter of Hadassah, is scheduled to leave Monday for the 50th national convention of the Women's Zionist Organization of America at the International Hotel in Los Angeles, Calif. from Aug. 16 through 19.

Mrs. White is one of the more than 2,000 Hadassah delegates representing the organization's more than 300,000 members in 1,320 chapters and groups throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. Mr. White is accompanying his wife and they will vacation in California preceding the opening of the convention.

Hadassah's national convention chairman, Mrs. Max Schenk of New York City, stated that the convention will concern itself with major problems affecting the United States and Israel. Addresses will be given by Mrs. Siegfried Kramarsky, national president of Hadassah; Dr. Kalman J. Mann, director-general of the Hadassah Medical Organization in Israel; His Excellency Abraham Harman, Israel ambassador to the United States; and the Hon. Harris Wofford, associate-director for search of the Peace Corps.

The largest individual Zionist organization in the world today, Hadassah spends more than $9 million annually on its undertakings. In Israel, Hadassah conducts a comprehensive health, vocational education and social welfare program which includes diagnostic, curative and preventive medical services, health stations, rehabilitation and education of underprivileged Jewish children and youth, and land redemption programs.

In the United States, Hadassah, — a non-governmental organization accredited to the United Nations, — conducts an intensive American Affairs program, through which Hadassah members are kept informed on vital community, state, national and international developments. In addition, Hadassah interprets Israel and its people to the American public.

Lang-Pepperl Vows Recited At Ent Air Force Chapel

The chapel at Ent Air Force Base was the setting for the wedding of Miss Barbara Pepperl and Dennis Lang, at 6:30 p.m. July 3. Chaplain Smith officiated at the candlelight ceremony where arrangements of white pom pons formed the background for the rites.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pepperl of 450 El Paso Blvd., was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Long of Lubbock, Tex.

The bride's gown was of lace and net with full skirt and long tapered sleeves, and her shoulder length veil fell from a pearl crown. She wore a pearl necklace, and her flowers were white pom pons.

Mrs. Bill Pate, sister of the bride was matron of honor and Donna Pepperl, another sister, was maid of honor. Robin Pate, niece of the bride, was flower girl. All wore street length gowns of blue brocaded taffeta, with bell skirts. All carried bouquets of blue pom pons.

Bill Pate, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man and Lyle Henningsen, cousin of the bride, ushered.

The bride's mother wore a three piece lace suit with green accessories and a corsage in shades of yellow and brown. The bridegroom's mother was not present.

After a short wedding trip the newlyweds are living at 525 Swope Ave. The bride's going-away costume was a sheath of white brocade with blue accessories, and her corsage was of rosebuds.

The bride is a '64 graduate of Manitou Springs High School, and the bridegroom was graduated from Lubbock High School, class of '62. He is stationed at Peterson Field with the U.S. Air Force.

HEARING DELAYED

DENVER (UPI)— The State Civil Service Commission agreed Thursday to postpone a hearing into charges against Colorado Banking Commissioner Frank E. Goldy. The hearing was rescheduled for Aug. 19 at the request of an attorney for Robert Cohen, operator of the Republic Finance Co. of Denver. Cohen had charged that Goldy discriminated against some loan companies and received gifts from some license holders. Goldy has denied the accusations.

AMENDMENT BACKED

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Rep. Donald Brotzman, R-Colo., said Thursday he was in favor of an amendment to the U.S. Constitution which would allow state legislatures to apportion at least one of their houses on more than just a population basis. Brotzman made the remark while testifying before a House Judiciary subcommittee which is hearing arguments on reapportionment proposals. Gov. John Love spoke before the group earlier this week.

U.S. Pakistan Office Wrecked By Students

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — Nearly 200 Dacca University students attacked the U.S. Information Service office Thursday night in a protest against American action in the Tonkin Gulf.

The students smashed six plate glass windows, broke other windows on the first floor, and wrecked bookshelves, newspaper racks, furniture and telephones. An American spokesman estimated damage at $1,000.

The attack came after a protest meeting on the university campus at which students charged "American barbarism" in NORTH Viet Nam.

U.S. Consul General Charles O'Donnell said he was considering a formal protest to the Pakistan government.

♣ A K Q 6 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
7 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Today's hand was submitted by South, asking for an indictment against North, who responded with two spades rather than two notrump. North's hand, he contended, did not justify a positive response, though he did acknowledge part of the blame on the basis of his undue aggressiveness.

Whether or not North should respond positively depends on your philosophy of the game. According to my lights, North has a good hand when partner makes a demand bid and it is my policy to bid two spades with that type of holding. The North hand is valued at nine points, seven in high cards, and two for distribution. The positive response may be made on a hand containing seven points if it includes one quick (defensive) trick, or with eight points, if it includes a half a quick trick. The proviso that responder have a fairly good suit was complied with when North produced Q-J-9-8-6.

South, for reasons best known to himself, proceeded with the assurance that North had a couple of kings and a queen. Curiously, even if North did have that holding, a contract of seven notrump would not necessarily be sound. Suppose, for example, North's response had been made on the following holding: Spades, K-Q-6-4-2; Hearts, K-J-10; Diamonds, 9-6-4-2; Clubs, 3. Even with this hand the odds are nearly two to one against fulfilling a grand slam contract. It would require a 3-3 break in spades which is very considerably against the odds.

After hearing the positive response of two spades, South should allow space for further conversation. Since the opening two bid is forcing to game, it is enough for him to bid merely two notrump at this point and await partner's further pleasure, intending ultimately to bid at least six notrump, or seven if partner indicates a solid spade suit or club support, in which case a grand slam in clubs would be a bright prospect.

MRS. EDWARD WILSON
—Nee Doris Evonne Glover

Good Manners

Stuck in recalling someone's name? Let him talk. Perhaps he'll drop a hint to help you.

Cut phone conversations short when a guest is in the room.

Try to learn something new every day.

Counting calories? Do it silently. Everyone has a favorite diet, and never hesitates to tell it.

Weigh advice in terms of your problems. Following it blindly can trap you.

Edward Wilson Weds Miss Doris Evonne Glover

Miss Doris Evonne Glover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glover, Passaic, N.J., and Edward Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Wilson, 524 E. Cimarron St., Colorado Springs, were united in marriage recently at the Union Baptist Church in Passaic, N.J.

Carrying a cascade of white roses centered with a white orchid, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie trimmed with lace appliques and highlighted with simulated pearls. The train of her controlled skirt was detachable. A pearl studded lace headdress held her veil.

Mrs. Marion Brown, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Brenda Veal of Cleveland, Ohio, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Inez Wilson, sister of the bridegroom from Denver, Mrs. James Townes, Miss Louise Council and Miss Louise Holloway of Oberlin, Ohio.

The flower girls were Melissa Glover, niece of the bride, and Valerie Dorsey. The attendants wore street length dresses of organza over taffeta, styled with floor length overskirts. The honor attendants were in aqua and the bridesmaids were in maize.

The mother of the bride wore a cognac dress with champagne accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink dress of imported chiffon, with pink accessories.

After a reception in the Sapphire Room of The Garden, Passaic, the couple left for a honeymoon in the New England States. Upon their return they will reside in Somerset, N.J.

The bride, a graduate of Bladwin - Wallace College, Berea, Ohio, taught German and English at Westwood High School for the past two years. In the fall she will begin a new position in Edison Township. She is a member of Delta Phi Alpha, the national German honorary fraternity.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Adams State College, Alamosa, Colo., and is an Industrial Arts teacher at Piscataway High School, New Market. He served two years in the United States Navy.

Guests from other cities were: Dr. and Mrs. Julius Glover of Shaker Heights, Ohio; Misses Anna and Alice Overbey of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Wilson of New York; Lt. Willie Phillips of Colorado Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Walker of Oberlin, Ohio.

Art Courses To Be Offered At St. Marys

Colorado Springs Catholic schools will open Sept. 8. Enrollment is expected to climb at St. Mary's High School, from about 565 last semester, to 600 this September. Registration has continued throughout the summer.

For the first time art courses will be offered at St. Mary's, taught by Sister Gladys Ann, in part of the music conservatory.

Faculty changes at the high school were announced by Msgr. Robert Hoffman, superintendent of St. Mary's:

Sister Mary Aline, principal for the past six years, has departed for a new assignment at Loretto Academy in Santa Fe, N.M.

Other faculty changes are: Sister Ann Thomas to St. Joseph High School, Taos, N.M.; Sister Mary Kenneth, St. John's School, Denver; and Sister Ann Leonard, Nerinx Hall, Webster Groves, Mo.

Lutheran School Will Start Sept. 8

Classes will begin Sept. 9 at Redeemer Lutheran Elementary School. An enrollment of 100 is expected.

The school year will open at 9 a.m. Sept. 8 with chapel services for students and parents, conducted by Rev. Edward Busch. Following the service, registration will be 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. in the school auditorium.

A four-classroom educational building at 2221 N. Wahsatch, costing $110,000, was dedicated in October 1963. It serves the grades one through eight elementary program.

Redeemer Lutheran is open to children of Lutheran and non-Lutheran parents and provides a Christian education. Administration is from Redeemer Lutheran Church which had delegated this function to an elected board of Parish Education.

Sneakers Are Necessary for Gym Wear

The frequently frowned-upon "sneaker," which has achieved a singular popularity among school children of all ages, has been assigned a significant place in the realm of footwear.

While sneakers are considered indispensable for athletics and wear in the gym, many foot specialists also recommend them for wear on soft terrain such as sand and grass, and for a relaxing change from the conventional, with proper precautions.

These precautions include frequent changes (every four hours, say some podiatrists), letting them air-dry between wearings, and washing the innersoles periodically.

Things to watch for when buying sneakers are: a minimum number of inside seams and ridges; natural shapes, not tapered; uppers of porous material, semi-rigid counters, shanks for better support.

District 11 to Experiment With New Projects

District 11 will experiment with new projects and teaching aids this year with $20,000 budgeted in 1964 for the innovations.

Advanced biology students will study life zones by visiting different altitude zones in the Pikes Peak region. About 15 to 20 students will participate in the special field biology course.

Science students will also experiment with ultra - high frequency sound, using hamsters.

Language offerings have been expanded and strengthened. An independent study course is scheduled in Latin under the concept that "bright youngsters can study and do independent research," said Thomas Doherty, District 11 superintendent.

Russian will be offered the first time in Wasson and Palmer high schools for sophomores and juniors. Robert McClain is head of the project. Conversational techniques will be stressed.

New materials will be used to teach reading to junior high school students. "No one really ends his study of reading," Doherty pointed out. Already the district offers reading courses for the average student and developmental or rapid reading using machines to measure words read per minute.

Two elementary school principals have developed a series of slides and taped sound tracks on the geological features of the Pikes Peak region. The slide shows are feared to elementary general science courses. The principals are Gerald Bear of George Washington Elementary, and Maurice Christensen of Taylor Elementary.

Special education courses are scheduled for about 30 pupils at Monroe Elementary School, under the direction of Thomas Hockman. They are behind average students in their studies.

Another advanced placement course has been added. This time calculus in the senior year. This will be coordinated with a program started previously to prepare students for calculus by offering algebra in the eighth grade; advanced algebra, ninth grade; plane geometry, tenth grade; and solid geometry, eleventh grade.

Advanced placement courses are already offered in English, science and social sciences. Students usually take a maximum of two of the advanced placement courses. Three would be the equivalent of a year of college work.

The team teaching program will be enlarged, using the special facilities at Washington Irving Junior High School. Many of the classrooms were designed with partitions which can be opened for large classes, using the talents of two to four teachers. As many as three classes will meet jointly. Courses will not be limited to lectures, but will include individual instruction from teachers who are specialists in particular fields.

A program will be started using lay readers to read English papers.

The Wasson High School library will open two nights a week for students because of the recent emphasis on research papers.

STRAW-HAT TO YEAR-ROUND

DOBBS FERRY, N.Y. (AP) —A new summer theater is planning to become an all-year operation because of the popularity of long-run off-Broadway shows with suburban audience.

The operators of Theater-in-Westchester, Jack Anderson and Hal Thompson, report biggest advance ticket sales for three shows, "The Hostage," "Doubletalk" and "The Boys from Syracuse." Touring productions of previous Broadway hits have aroused smaller response. The playhouse is 20 miles from midtown New York.

When making a house dress or a child's dress or shirt, sew a small piece of cloth somewhere in the inside seams so that it will lie flat when ironed and remain hidden.

ETIQUETTE, 1887 STYLE

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Full title of a recent acquisition in the Rare Book Room of the Pennsylvania State University Library is (take a deep breath): "The Lady's Guide to Complete Etiquette, in Manners, Dress and Conversation, in the Family, in Company, at the Pianoforte, the Table, in the Street, in Gentlemen's Society; also a Useful Instruction in Letter Writing, Toilet Preparations, Fancy Needlework, Millinery, Dressmaking, Care of Wardrobe, the Hair, Teeth, Hands, Lips, Complexion etc."

Compiled by Emily Thornwill and published in Madison, Wis., in 1887, the book prohibits such actions as:

"To look steadily at anyone, especially if you are a lady and are speaking to a gentleman; to turn the head frequently from side to side in conversation; to balance yourself upon your chair; to bend forward; to strike your hands upon your knees, to hold one knee between your locked hands; to admire yourself in a glass; to remain without gloves, to fold carefully your shawl, instead of throwing it with graceful negligence upon a table; to laugh immoderately, to place your hand upon the person with whom you are conversing; to roll the eyes or raise them with affectation; to take snuff from the box of your neighbor, or offer it to strangers, especially to ladies."

Springs Schools to Open Sept. 9

Colorado Springs public schools will open Sept. 9. Last year youngsters began classes Sept. 4.

Elementary pupils, including those who in kindergarten who enrolled in pre-registration last spring, will report to their schools at 9 a.m., Sept. 9. Children must be five-years-old during 1964 to enroll in kindergarten and six-years-old during the year to attend first grade.

Pupils, including those in kinergarten, who enroll for the first time in city schools, will submit birth certificates at enrollment. New pupils in the system and pupils in the first, four, seventh and 10 grades will have physical examinations. Registration forms are at the Administration Building, 1115 N. El Paso St.

Adjustments in time schedules for the 1964-65 school year are necessary at high schools because of the enrollment increase.

Juniors and seniors at Palmer High School will report at 8 a.m. Sept. 9 to a sponsor group. Registration will be finished by noon. Sophomores will report to an orientation meeting at 1:30 p.m. Registration will be completed by 3 p.m.

Juniors and seniors at Wasson High School will report at 7:30 a.m. to a sponsor group, then to classes. Sophomores will report to a sponsor group at 12:30 p.m., then to classes.

Former elementary pupils, including kindergarten, will be excused for the rest of the day after they receive homeroom assignments.

Students at East, North, Horace Mann,, South and West junior high schools — who attended District 11 schools last year — will report to assigned homerooms at 8:45 a.m. Sept. 9. Students at these schools who are new to the district, or those who do not have homeroom assignments, will report to the auditorium.

Students enrolling in Washington Irving Junior High School will report at 8:45 a.m. to the following areas: seventh grade, cafeteria; eighth grade, gymnasium; ninth grade, auditorium.

Enrollment will be accelerated for students in grades seven to 12 who are new to the district, or have been away for a year or more, if they arrange programs of study and take preschool tests to be administered at 8 a.m. Aug. 27, 28, 31 and Sept. 1 in Palmer and Wasson high schools. Youngsters with physical or other handicaps may make special arrangements for testing by contacting the principal of the school they expect to attend.

New students at North, South and West junior high schools and Palmer High will report to Palmer High for testing. New students at East, Horace Mann and Washington Irving junior high schools and Wasson High will be tested in Wasson High.

Students going to Palmer High for tests should use the main entrance on North Nevada and East Platte avenues and report to the cafeteria. Students going to Wasson High for tests should use the office entrance on Afton Way.

This is the testing schedule: grades seven to nine, 8 to 11:45 a.m. and 1 to 2:30 p.m.; grades 10 to 12, 8 to 1:45 a.m. and to 3:30 p.m.

It is necessary for studetns taking tests to appear on only one of the above dates. Report cards and brith certificates are not needed when a student is tested. On Aug. 24 students transferring from one junior high to another are requested to call the school they will attend to arrange registration.

Officials say that testing new students will take most of the day and that arrangements should be made for a noon meal.

Students who attended Palmer High or Wasson High last year — but withdrew during the school year — must arrange for an appointment with their counselor Aug. 27. If this is not done the student may wait until Sept. 11 to be enrolled. Students should make telephone appointments at their respective high school offices.

Students who changed residences during the summer, and will be transferring from Palmer High to Wasson High or visa versa should call the school to which he is transferring and arrange to see his counselor Aug. 27.

High school sophomores should have a medical examination during the summer. The record of this examination is to be given to the student's sponsor at enrollment time.

Physical education is required of sophomores and juniors. If a student wishes a medical excuse, a doctor's certificate presented at registration will accelerate enrollment.

Lockers will be assigned Sept. 9 at both high schools and locks will be issued.

Cafeteria service will begin Sept. 10. It is recommended that students eat in the cafeterias, whether they bring or buy lunches.

Wasson High students who drive automobiles or motor scooters must register them with the school office by Sept. 10. Parking places will be provided on the school lot.

High school students are urge to buy activity tickets so they may participate in all activities at minimum cost. Activities are: admission to all regularly scheduled games (except hockey and championship playoff games), concerts, dramatic productions, school parties sponsored by the student organization, a subscription to the school paper and annual. Other activities, such as debate, music and teh student organization, receive funds from sale of activity cards, which cost $10.

Under a deferred payment plan activity cards may be paid for in installments for a total cost of $10. Cards are sold at business managers' offices.

New Boundaries Announced For 3 District 11 Schools

New boundaries have been announced for three District 11 schools.

Madison Elementary School lines start at Warwick Lane and Maizeland Road, continue south along Warwick to Brady Boulevard, west on Brady to Essex Lane, south on Essex to Constitution Avenue and across Constitution to LaSalle Street.

East on LaSalle to Clemson Drive, south on Clemson to Dixon Way, west on Dixon to Baylor Drive and south on Baylor to Palmer Park Boulevard.

East on Palmer Park to Clemson and south on Clemson to Galley Road.

Pupils living east of Clemson (not including kindergarten), with the exception of those living north of Palmer Park and east of Academy Boulevard, will be transported by bus to the school.

Kindergarten pupils living east of Clemson, with the exception of those living north of Palmer Park Boulevard and east of Academy Boulevard, have the option of continuing to attend Mark Twain Elementary School or enrolling in Madison Elementary.

Washington Irving Junior High School lines start at Sturgis and Chelton roads, go south to North Circle Drive, south on North Circle to Pikes Peak Avenue and extend east on Pikes Peak.

Monroe Elementary School lines start at Platte Avenue and Circle Drive, run south to Pikes Peak Avenue, east on Pikes Peak (taking pupils from both sides of the street) to Brentwood Drive.

South on Brentwood (taking pupils from both sides of the street) to Chelton Road and south on Chelton to the District 11 boundary.

Lytle Has New School

A one-classroom school has been built on the site of the Lytle School which burned last January.

Five or six pupils is the expected initial enrollment in Lytle District 39J, the county's smallest district for attendance, said Robert M. Atkins, superintendent-principal-teacher.

The district had an on-and-off enrollment of about 20 last year, Atkins said.

Pupils will attend classes in the new school, beginning the first week in September. The new building is of concrete block construction and includes a kitchen and two restrooms. Atkins said it cost about $9,000 and that funds came primarily from insurance on the old building plus the school budget. The district had a 1963 levy of 13.81 mills, compared with 33.25 mills for most of District 11.

TAKE 'EM OFF

NEW YORK (UPI) — People who wear sunglasses for night driving are ignoring safety, an automobile leasing expert warns.

Contrary to a popular belief, drivers who wear sunglasses during the day and leave them on after darkness falls are risking an accident, says George A. Culp, vice president of C.I.T. Service Leasing Corporation. Sunglasses do reduce the glare of headlights, but at the same time they seriously impair the driver's vision, he said.

School Bells to Ring Early at Manitou Springs

School bells will ring early this year in Manitou Springs and Ute Pass.

Last year the first day of school was Sept. 4. This year classes will begin at 8:30 a.m. Aug. 31 in the high school and half an hour later for junior high school and elementary classes.

W. W. Bundy, superintendent of District 14, predicted that enrollment will be up only slightly from last year, or "a little over" 1,100 to start. Enrollment was 1,076 when school ended this spring.

District 14 will have three new staffers. Two will fill slots caused by resignations, and a counselor will be added. The counselor is James C. Taylor, who has taught at Air Academy High School. New teachers are David Baeth of Green Mountain Falls, who will teach sixth grade, and Charles Stull of Green Mountain Falls who will teach seventh grade. Mrs. Helen Field will return to the district to teach English.

Maintenance men have been busy throughout the summer. They repainted the inside of Cascade Grade School. Drainage problems at this school are also being corrected. Aluminum windows were installed on the west side of the junior high school. A deck was added to the kindergarten play area in the Manitou Elementary School.

The following information on registration has been announced by school officials:

Students in Green Mountain Falls will register 8:30 - 11:30 a.m. Aug. 25 in the Green Mountain Falls Community Center; in Casacde, 1:30-3:30 p.m. in Cascade School.

Registration in Manitou will be Aug. 26-27. The first day, kindergarten through fourth grade students whose last names begin with A through F, will register 9-11:30 a.m. in the elementary all-purpose room; grades five through eight, last names begin with A through F, 9-11:30 a.m. in the junior high school lunch room; seniors, 9 - 11:30 a.m., senior high school building; kindergarten through fourth grade, last names begin with G through L, 1-3 p.m., elementary all-purpose room; grades five through eight, last names begin with G through L, 1-3 p.m., junior high lunch room; and juniors, 1-3 p.m., high school building.

District 12 Will Have 2,000 Enrollment

District 12 officials estimate that Cheyenne Mountain schools will have an enrollment of 2,000 this fall, up from 1,882 in attendance this spring.

School will open Sept. 2. Officials say the expected enrollvunti increase is evenly distributed on all grade levels.

New courses are planned, including stenoscript, business law and advanced typing. A new political science course will deal with world government and details of a possible electronics course are being worked out.

For the second year the district will have special education classes for the mentally retarded. They will be in conjunction with four other districts, Harrison, Manitou, Air Academy and Widefield. Superintendents of these districts have information regarding the special education classes in their respective districts.

Personnel of the district will have a "get acquainted" luncheon Aug. 31 in the high school cafetorium.

— Physical examinations are required for new students. Forms are at the schools or the administration office.

— Written examinations are required of new junior high or senior high school students in the district. They will be given Aug. 24 in the schools to properly place students.

School fees are: kindergarten, $2; grades one through six, $8; junior high, seventh and eighth grades, $12; and high school, grades nine through 12, $15. Fees will be paid at registration.

Ten teachers will join the staff: Mrs. Esther Carroll, librarian, Skyway Park Elementary School; Merell C. Folsom, industrial arts, Cheyenne Mountain High School; Robert Gerdeman, physical education, Cheyenne Mountain Junior High School; Armin E. Graber, physics, Cheyenne Mountain High; John Haigh, physical science, Cheyenne Mountain High; Mrs. Adele Hyman, English, Cheyenne Mountain High; Mrs. Ann Landwehr, special education, Cheyenne Mountain Junior High; Miss Roberta Ringer, English, Cheyenne High; Donald Strait, social studies, Cheyenne Mountain Junior High; and Mrs. Jean Webber, business education, Cheyenne Mountain High.

"MUST" IN 1852

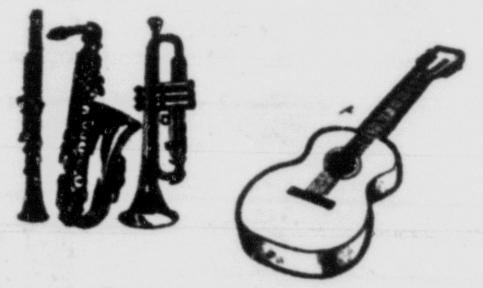

The first compulsory school attendance law in the United States was enacted by Massachusetts in 1852, reports The Encyclopedia Americana. Under this law children between the ages of eight and fourteen were required to attend school 12 weeks a year, six of these weeks to be consecutive.

Joint School Planned for 3 Districts

Cooperating are Cheyenne Mountain District 12, Air Force Academy District 20 and Manitou Springs District 14.

A three-hour basic electronics course will be offered this fall in the former government and military discount house owned by Hewlett-Packard Co.

The three districts have jointly secured equipment, materials, classroom space and an instructor, Dennis Nall, a recent graduate of Colorado State University.

An enrollment of about 25 is expected. Each district will run a bus or car to the training center. State or federal aid will not be sought at this time.

In a joint statement, the superintendents of the three districts said: "It is our hope to eventually produce graduates trained and ready to enter technical fields."

Classrooms Set for Sale

Woodland Park School District RE-2 has two portable classrooms for sale.

The steel buildings have been used for two years by the district and are no longer needed because of the new junior-senior high school.

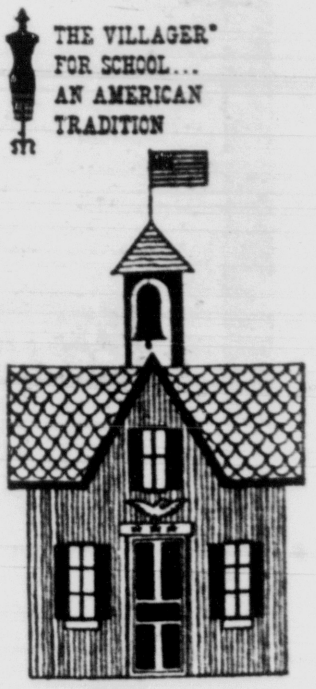

The price for the 24 by 32-foot buildings is $5,000 each and the buyer must pay the moving charges. The portables are wired, insulated and have a heating system, blackboards, clocks and other assessories. They lack plumbing and desks.

Teaching Techniques Speed Development of Talents

Elementary school pupils will take part this fall in an exploration surpassing any to be found in their history books. It will involve the discovery of their own potentials as they unfold in new educational environments.

The exploration is becoming increasingly interesting for teachers and pupils as they discover unexpected abilities brought forth by new teaching techniques, expanded curriculum and new shapes in school classrooms.

More and more of the nation's 40 million-plus elementary pupils will be greeted by team teachers, get programmed instruction and take subjects on television.

Physical Shapes Change

may have no interior walls or windows. There may be outdoor play courts that are also used for classes.

Earlier Introductions

Besides reading, writing and arithmetic, today's students may also be getting an introduction as early as the first or second grade to geometry, economics, astronomy, zoology, physics, botany, chemistry and physiology.

Many of these educational innovations are part of experimental programs used in only a few schools and are not likely to filter down to all of the nation's 125,000 public schools. Yet an ever greater number of pupils will feel the impact.

Helping to serve as a buffer and a bridge to the "new education" will be the team teachers, who are replacing past techniques that isolated a teacher and 25 or more students in a classroom all day.

The teaching teams consist of six to eight teachers (a leader, specialists, regular and beginning teachers) who are able to work freely, crossing subject lines and combining subjects to fit the children's development.

The teachers may work together or individually with classes as large as 150 for lectures or fewer than 15 for advanced or remedial studies.

Many new buildings no longer have fixed interior walls. Instead they are carpeted or have movable and operable walls so that there is freedom of movement from study area to study area and freedom to change the size of the study areas.

One new school has six-sided classrooms to get more usable floor and wall space and direct youngsters toward each other. Another school design is circular to get maximum use of space through movement of interior partitions.

Within these modern study areas, students such as the second graders at Burlingame, Calif., may be learning some of the secrets of geometry.

Or, they may don head sets and use tape recorders to study languages as early as the third grade or they may use them to learn spelling phonetically.

Films, new projection devices or television may communicate some fundamental principles of physics, biology and chemistry.

Parents Urged to Map Safe Way Back to School

There are a greater number parents of elementary school children in this nation than ever before who will have to give more than cursory attention to this matter of safety in traffic for their youngsters this year.

This situation arises because many of the youngsters may be going to school over unfamiliar routes to new schools just opened or to older schools to which enrollment problems have made it necessary for them to be transferred, or to schools in areas which their families have moved.

The procedure recommended to parents in all such cases is the same as recommended in the instances of first-timers.

Explore the area for the best and safest route for them to take, then walk them over it a few times before the opening of the school term.

Point out just where and how it is safest to make intersection crossings.

Many will, of course, be bussed to school.

Everywhere the now indispensable School Safety Patrolmen will be on duty to help their schoolmates to safety. Also, police safety measures will be amplified by use of adult Crossing Guards.

But these precautions can not cover all eventualities, and neither can they be at peak efficiency until after the school term has started.

One way of assuring the interest of young children in learning the safest routes to and from school is to prepare a block by block map of the area over which they will have to travel, and then induce them to help chart the safe course on the map.

Basic cautions to be drilled into the very young, who will get more of this during their classroom work, are the following:

Never cross when the light is red. Wait till it is green. Yellow is not safe enough. Make sure no cars are turning. Then cross.

Always mind your School Safety Patrolmen. They are there to protect your safety.

American school children have built up an enviable record of safety from traffic hazards, thanks to the efforts of the schools, the police and automobile clubs.

Parents can help keep that record improving.

Billions Spent to Expand Educational Facilities

American schools and colleges are making a $3 billion effort to build modern facilities for enrollments that are mounting at almost every level of education.

More than $3 billion dollars in construction contracts were awarded last year for educational and science buildings, according to estimates by the F. W. Dodge Corp., and The Nation's Schools, a school administration magazine.

Many of these projects will be available for use this year to help ease a shortage of some 125,000 public school classrooms.

The problem, however, is crucial at the college level where the full impact is expected to be felt this year from the enrollment of "war babies."

College construction budgets will be getting a valuable assist throught the passage of the College Facilities Act, which provides an additional $400 million a year for the next three years.

But a recent report by Educational Facilities Laboratories warns that there may be a shortage of a million or more seats in colleges by 1970 at the present rates of construction.

The bulk of the construction money is currently spent for public elementary and secondary schools, according to The Nation's Schools.

Public elementary and secondary schools, $2.2 billion; private and parochial elementary and secondary schools, $450 million; and colleges and universities, $1.5 billion.

Despite the size of this building program, the price of a new school does not come at a bargain rate.

A study of 85 elementary and 43 junior and senior high schools by The Nation's Schools shows that new schools started in the year beginning July, 1958, cost an average of $730,000.

The average cost of an elementary school was about $370,000 and the average cost of a secondary school was about $1,433,000.

BIG CHAIN HAD SMALL BEGINNING

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Frank W. Woolworth opened the doors of the "Great 5 Cent Store" in Lancaster, Pa., June 21, 1879, his stock consisted of $410 worth of merchandise. Sales the first day were $127.65 and by year-end reached $12,024, according to records of F. W. Woolworth Co., which now operates more than 2,110 stores in the United States.

The company, in an 85th anniversary report, notes the policy of "nothing over 10 cents" has changed and so has the scope of its merchandise. Woolworth sales volume in 1963 was nearly $1.2 billion.

District 3 Enrollment Spreading

Officials of mushrooming Widefield School District 3 expect an enrollment of 5,200, up from about 4,800 students at the end of the 1963-64 academic year.

The first day of school will be Sept. 7. Enrollment will be Sept. 3-4.

The two building additions will be completed this fall. On Sept. 1 an eight-classroom addition should be completed at Talbott Elementary School. This addition cost approximately $100,000 and will increase the school's capacity from 400 students to 640.

An addition to Pinello Elementary School will be completed Dec. 20. Included in this addition will be seven classrooms, a special education room, a kindergarten room and a multi - purpose room. This addition will cost $244,000. The addition will boost the school's enrollment to 565 pupils an increase of approximately 295.

District 3 now has six elementary buildings with an average of 550 pupils in each; two junior high school with an average of 540 students in each; and a high school with approximately 800 students. The high school is accredited with the North Central Association and is an AAA high school.

The district has grown in nine years from a small two-room - two teacher - fifty pupil school system to the 10th largest school district in Colorado say District 3 officials.

Schools to Open Early

Cripple Creek and Victor schools will open Aug. 31.

Earl E. Barrick, superintendent, reports that the expected enrollment will be 100 for the high school and 135 for the elementary school.

Grades 10 through 12 will register beginning at 9 a.m. Aug. 24. Grades seven through nine will register beginning at 9 a.m. Aug. 25. Busses will run for the registration.

There will be a teachers' workshop Aug. 26-28 and school personnel will meet Aug. 26.

District 2 School System is Growing Fast

Enrollment is expected to increase at least 15 per cent by Superintendent N. V. Gorman. He said that about 3,000 students will probably be enrolled in the school system this year, compared with a peak enrollment of 2,670 last year.

High school enrollment, grades nine through 12, is expected to be 625 with a senior class of 140 students. Kindergarten will account for approximately 230 of the pupils.

Gorman reports that all elementary and high school positions have been filled and the faculty will total 115.

Plans are being drawn by the architect for the Pikes Peak Elementary School in the Pikes Peak Park area. The school board is in the process of purchasing land for a new high school.

Bids for a school lunch kitchen at Stratton Meadows Elementary School and a library, kindergarten and all - purpose room, plus kitchen equipment, will be opened in late August.

Registration information has been announced by school officials:

Sept. 1 will be the first day of school. Registration hours will be 9 a.m. to noon and 1-3 p.m. Aug. 31 and Sept. 1. Teachers' orientation will be 9 a.m. Aug. 28.

To enroll in kindergarten, children must be five-years-old before Dec. 31 and must have a birth certificate or other legal proof of age. First grade pupils must be six-years-old before Dec. 31. Unless they have previously attended Harrison schools, they must also present a birth certificate.

Pikes Peak Park pupils in sixth and seventh grades will attend Stratton Meadows Elementary. Kindergarten through fifth grades from Pikes Peak Park will attend Stratmoor Hills Elementary School. Seventh grade pupils will all attend classes in elementary schools. Last year's sixth graders will attend the same schools. Kindergarten pupils will not be transported to schools.

Increase Set for District 8

This is about a 150-student increase over the previous school year. School District 8 officials also report that new military housing at Ft. Carson will be completed for occupancy at the close of this school year, and will eventually add to enrollment.

The first day of school will be Aug. 31. Registration will be Aug. 27-28. Students attending District 8 schools include those living in the Lytle Start Route-Rock Creek area off Colo. 115, Ft. Carson and Fountain and the surrounding area.

— North Carson Elementary School: For pupils in kindergarten through fifth grade in the Lytle Star Route-Rock Creek area; NCO Housing area; and Ft. Carson Trailer Court area. Registration will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 27. Estimated enrollment will be 550 pupils.

— Carson Elementary School: For pupils in kindergarten through fifth grade in the Ft. Carson hospital and officer housing areas. Registration will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.. Aug. 27. Estimated enrollment will be 325 pupisl.

— Carson Junior High School: For students in grades sixth through ninth who live in Lytle Star Route-Rock Creek area; NCO Housing area; and Ft. Carson Trailer Court, hospital and officer housing areas. Registration will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 28. Estimated enrollment will be 275 students.

— Fountain-Ft. Carson High School: For students in grades 10 through 12 who live anywhere in the school district boundaries. The registration schedule is: seniors, 8 a.m. to noon Aug. 27; juniors, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 27; and sophomores, 9 a.m. to noon and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 28 Estimated enrollment will be 350 students.

— Fountain Elementary School: For pupils in kindergarten through sixth grade who live in or adjacent to Fountain. Registration will be 9 a.m.. to 4 p.m. Aug. 27. Estimated enrollment will be 600 pupils.

— Fountain Junior High School: For students in grades seven through ninth who live in or adjacent to Fountain. Registration will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 28. Estimated enrollment will be 200 students.

Parents of elementary pupils are asked by school officials to be present at registration. Other wise, the pupils may not register.

To be eligible for kindergarten a pupil must be five-years-old by Dec. 31. To enter first grade, a pupil must be six-years-old by Dec. 31. Birth certificates are requested of new kindergarten and first grade pupils.

Information on school facilities, including pupil needs and bus routes, will be distributed when students register.

District 8 schools operate basically on a 6-3-3 program: kindergarten through sixth grade; seventh through ninth grade; and 10th through 12th grade.

The two junior high schools offer basic study programs with electives in foreign languages, homemaking, arts and crafts and modern mathematics.

BA Degree Is Average For Teachers

More than four years of college figure in the training of the average school teacher among the 1.5 million on the job in the nation's elementary and secondary schools, according to a study made by the Ford Foundation.

Most of these teachers have a Bachelor of Arts degree and many have a master's degree which requires a fifth year of college work.

But comparatively few — though the number seems to be growing—have a doctorate degree.

An average of 100,000 teachers enter the profession each year, nowhere near enough to fill the ever increasing need for more of them.

An estimated $10 million will be spent this year by American business firms to advertise register and vote campaigns, the Advertising Council reports.

Learning to Read Is Many Faceted

Parents new at having children in school may find themselves puzzled by the different methods being used today to teach youngsters reading, the most important of the three R's, says the National Education Association.

The two newest methods are called the "language approach" and the "augmented alphabet" methods, according to Dr. Ethel M. Thompson of the Elementary - Kindergarten - Nursery department of the Association.

Most Widely Used

Most widely used now is the individualized approach which allows children to select their own materials and set their own pace.

Some notion of how new methods for teaching reading work may be had from the friendly "b a t t l e" between schools in Illinois sister cities separated only by a street.

Studies show pupils in Urbana, where the "look-say" or whole word recognition system is used, are ahead of the "phonics" readers in Champaign, at the end of the first month of school. But the "phonics" readers, in Champaign, who learn each new word by the way letters sound, reversed the lead by the second grade.

While Urbana claims their readers will catch up by the fifth grade, Champaign holds that it is time wasted.

Importance Enhanced

Introduction of teaching machines and v i s u a l education methods into classrooms have served only to enhance the importance of learning to read well.

All depends in the end on an understanding of words and their meanings, singly and in combination. All refer back to books which continue the major repositories of knowledge and wisdom.

Without good reading habits, progress in learning is retarded.

Tape Bound Around Learning

Modern learning at almost all levels of education is bound round these days with tape! But it's not "red tape"; it's rather the literally millions of miles of sound recording tape that are being used to make immediately available to students the audible tools of learning.

Language laboratories operated by the schools are but one example.

Usefulness of magnetic tape in teaching foreign tongues by giving students a chance to check their own pronunciations has been declared by Professor Elton Hocking, head of the department of Modern Languages at Purdue University, "a Copernican step forward."

It is also especially helpful in speech therapy.

Magnetic tape makes it possible for schools to maintain an audible of learning available for use over and over again in classroom work.

200 Increase Expected at District 20

School District 20 enrollment is expected to increase by approximately 200 this ye a r. At the end of the last school year, 2,630 students were enrolled.

Sept. 8 will be the first day of school. The system's boundaries include Woodmen Valley, Air Force Academy and the Black Forest.

The teachers, 137 of them, will begin the school year with faculty meetings beginning Aug. 31. Staffers will meet for five days of in-service training and orientation prior to the opening of school.

The program will include library book and audio - visual displays, consultant service in various subject areas, subject and interest area meetings and a review of teaching guides published by the district during the summer.

The pre-school workshop is part of the yearly in - service program of District 20. It is intended to give faculty an opportunity to become better acquainted with the instruction program, do pre - planning to prepare for the opening of school and share new instruction techniques and materials.

Registration information has been announced by school officials:

Pupils attending Pine Valley and Douglass Valley elementary schools will register Sept. 4. Youngsters in grades kindergarten through second will register 9 a.m. to noon. Those in third through sixth grades will register 1-3 p.m.

Black Forest and Woodmen Valley elementary age children will register 9 a.m. to noon or 1 - 3 p.m. Sept. 4.

Air Academy junior and senior high school registration for students wishing a schedule change will be 9 a.m. to noon Sept. 4.

Birth certificates are required for kindergarten and new first grade pupils. Pupils entering the first grade must be six-years-old by Dec. 31. Pupils entering kindergarten must be five-year-old by Dec. 31.

Free physical examinations will be given to first, fifth and ninth grades Sept. 4 at the Pine Valley Elementary.

School Boys Do Apparel Arithmetic

Grade school boys and their mothers are d o i n g apparel arithmetic as back to school time approaches.

Turtleneck under shirts, shirts under sweaters, sweaters under jackets add up to a layer-on-layer look that's warm, comfortable, versatile. The component parts multiply wardrobes.

"Matador" pants or knickers are a new entry, and whether apparel manufacturers will be able to get boys back into knickers is a question only the boys and their mothers can answer. It's certain, though, that these pants are now being presented for approval.

Cracked wheat has extra flavor when it is cooked in rich chicken broth.

Whether they are going "back to school" or "back-to-college" one of their prime needs for making better grades, getting their assignments easier and faster is a TYPEWRITER!
And speaking of typewriters, be sure it is a SMITH CORONA — they are better built for longer and harder usage — priced to suit your budget and we can also arrange terms if needed . . . Let's TALK TRADE! We are in need of good used machines to enlarge our stock of rebuilt machines.

Preparation Need Stressed For Return to Learning

Getting an early start on preparing youth to go back to learning for the new term, now just a few weeks away, suddenly becomes a much more pressing concern of everyone this year, than ever before.

Significant changes in the educational environment at all age levels, changes that have developed over the past several years of the nation's "learning explosion," make this imperative.

Foremost among these is the "enrollment explosion," especially as it concerns the teenagers. In addition to the 40,000 children returning to elementary and secondary schools, more than 5,000,000 — the largest number in history—will be taxing the facilities of colleges and universities.

This year's college growth is no surprise. It is spurred by the children born during the peak year of the post-war baby boom. They have come to college age, and they are pressing for places in institutions of higher learning. More will be clamoring for higher education next year and the year after, but this is the peak year.

This pressure has a tendency to sweep back down the line through the high school group and actually into elementary grades. The reason should be clear.

The importance of education was never greater. Opportunity for the inadequately educated diminishes at an accelerating pace.

Wse parents start thinking about preparing their children for college no later than the seventh grade, conscious of the fact that when the time comes there may be room only for the specially qualified, despite efforts to expand facilities.

Other changes now clearly apparent concern the greater knowledgeability — call it sophistication if you want — of the very young, and the discovery of their increased capacities for learning. Now they tackle math and foreign languages from the beginning in many schools.

The accelerating maturity of teen-agers, many of whom are beginning to see and understand the portents of the future, is another factor. By finding jobs swarms of them have not only earned money for themselves but also have learned something about the importance of education to their futures. The contribution untrained teenagers are making to unemployment statistics is a straw in the wind.

All this means that parents may expect greater self assertiveness from these youngsters, as preparations for return to classes proceed.

Other changes, in many areas, concern dislocation of grade schoolers from familiar areas as completion of new schools, and social changes, require that they transfer from the familiar to new and unfamiliar buildings.

There also are changes of educational methods. Experiments that have proved sucessful are moved into operation in more schools. Many of these put a greater responsibility for learning on the student himself. Such changes are compounded from automation, electronics and newly developed study methods that extend the ability of teachers to devote their skills to more students.

Thus the atmosphere for study in the home becomes more and more important; so does the physical health of all learners, as does the availability of school supplies, and finally the suitability of their wardrobes for their careers in the classroom.

These are the aspects of preparation for the new school and college terms that can and should be disposed of before the term opens.

There may not be as much time left between now and then as you may think.

Schools and colleges, generally speaking, start their new term earlier than they used to.

Those in charge of the nation's educational facilities—the school and college administrator, the teachers, and the maintenance crews — already are at work preparing classrooms to receive students.

Exams Prove Multiple Choice

The College Entrance Board Examinations taken by high school juniors and seniors to help get admitted to college are _____. Fill in the blank with either: A. Useless, B. Necessary, C. Nerve-racking, D. Misused, E. Over-emphasized.

That is a multiple choice question high school juniors and seniors may never get to answer, but it is one that is prominent in the minds of both students and educators as some 1.5 million college applicants prepare for the tests this year.

For most students the tests with their multiple choice questions are "B. Necessary." Many students will spend hours cramming and will seek intensive coaching to get a high score.

Neither coaching nor cramming will make much difference, however, according to studies of the test results by the College Entrance Examination Board, which is constantly revising and improving the exams.

LIBRARIES GO WAY BACK

Citing the importance of education in ancient days, The Encyclopedia Americana notes that the larger cities of Babylon all had libraries. The one at Tello (c. 2700 B.C.) contained 32,000 books.

The right desk is one equipped with plenty of drawer space, open shelves for books and a design suited to the room where it will be located. Length and width are optional; correct height, however, is vital for good study habits.

Good Teaching Aids Talents

Many youngsters are starting the new school year with a sense of adventure, with high hopes for the year ahead. But, when the school year ends, will those hopes be shattered?

Not in classrooms where the teacher respects each child's unique possibilities. In a classroom like that, "Pete" would have bloomed. Instead — but let Mary B. Lane, professor of education of San Francisco State College tell it:

"My seven-year-old neighbor, Pete, has learned to mistrust his own responses. Insistence on a stereotyped response has caused him to give up the responses that he had before his school experience. He used to reach out for books; he insisted on doing his homework as I did mine; he took chances on 'guessing' about the causes of happenings in his world. Today, these responses have disappeared."

Why?

Unimaginative teaching materials and unimaginative teachers; textbooks and teachers which require only the single "right" answer, regardless of the child's own thought patterns.

One example given by Prof. Lane, writing for the Elementary Instructional Service of the National Education Service, is this:

A first-grade workbook showed an illustration like this:

The child was directed to repeat the illustration at the bottom of the page. One child's answer showed he had moved a step beyond the workbook concept. But he got zero for his advanced thinking. He hadn't followed directions.

Discovery. Children are encouraged to discover things for themselves to allow the adventure in learning to show through and excite their imaginations.

Trying out. Children are encouraged to try things for themselves, not wait for directions about the "right" way to do something. "We must give up so much emphasis on right and wrong answers and must substitute choices, or alternatives. How else can we educate our young to trust their responses? Schools should be a place where mistakes may be freely made, amply clarified, and then forgotten."

Is this a new frontier in teaching? Probably not.

"I suspect that teachers who have been successful in their relationships with children have always used these processes," Prof. Lane writes. And she adds: "The new frontier in education will really be upon us when we refuse to rate uniqueness as excellent, good, fair, or unsatisfactory."

Right Study Habits Aid In Future College Success

As school days draw near, students, and their parents, too, are looking homeward for much of their back-to-school preparations—and with good reason.

Educators point out that a student spends less than 10 per cent of his time in classrooms. Therefore, study habits that will determine his future success in college, and then in business or professional life, must be acquired at home.

Thus the question of adequate study facilities in the home receives consideration from parents, the older school-agers and college students.

The problem breaks down into three categories: the grade schooler, who has more homework to do nowadays; the high school pupil, who may be concerned not only with his present studies but also with preparation for the college years ahead; and the college student.

Many of the college students, of course, will be doing their studying in a dormitory or other close - to-the-campus residence, but a growing number of young people are living at home while going to college.

These new "commuter students" are attending the many junior colleges and community colleges springing up rapidly all over the country, to meet the demand for more college educational facilities, as the number of students zooms.

All three groups — grade school, high school, college students—have the same basic requirements when it comes to home study. These are: a study area away from family activities, to assure both quiet and privacy; a desk or other working surface and a chair, both of the correct height; proper lighting; shelf and storage space for study tools.

Reference books such as dictionaries and atlases should be provided to meet the student's needs, and the older students, of course, will require more of these materials.

Can Find Space

Where the study area should be located is a problem that's often difficult—but never impossible—to solve. When space permits, a basement or attic remodeling job may be the answer, with an area to be used exclusively for homework during the hours set aside for study.

Especially with the younger children, a combination study-bedroom can provide the ideal solution. An atmosphere of quiet and comfort should prevail in a child's bedroom, for the restful sleep he needs, and the same quiet atmosphere will be helpful in forming the good study habits required for doing homework thoroughly and well.

Adroit placement of screens, bookcases, room dividers can separate study and sleeping areas. When two school-age boys or two girls must share a room, separate sleeping and study space can be arranged for each, again through the use of screens or other dividers.

Have Importance

For the "commuter student," separated sleep - study areas within a room have a special importance.

Before or after the hours scheduled for study, the "work" area can also be used for entertaining friends, thus bringing into the home some of the "going to college" atmosphere. With his—or her—own quarters as his "property," the student is helped in acquiring the maturity and self-reliance that should develop during the college years.

Small Schools Can Produce Big Names

Young people who have their hearts set on going to a "big" college or university, where admission is becoming more difficult each year, have good reason to take a second look at some of the smaller institutions.

Many of the "big names" listed in Who's Who also are listed as graduates of "small" colleges.

A sampling starts with the best known of all, the President of the United States. Lyndon B. Johnson graduated from Southwest Texas State Teachers College.

From the business world comes the name of Roger N. Blough, Chairman of the Board of U.S. Steel, who was graduated from Susquehanna University in New York State, and later studied law at Yale.

Another from this area is Conrad Hilton, president of the chain of hotels that bears his name. He attended St. Michael's College in Santa Fe, N.M., and later the state school of mines.

In the realm of sports, Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick was a student at De Pauw University in Greencastle, Pa.

MORE LEARNING 'BY DEGREES'

The quest for education is being advanced by "degrees" . . . a great many of them.

By the year 2000, according to the National Science Foundation, some 34 per cent of the persons reaching age 22 will have earned a B.A. degree from an institution of higher learning.

Back in 1901, only 1.32 percent of the persons reaching 22 had a B.A. degree and by 1962 the figure had risen to 17.76 per cent.

Grade School Girls Win Style Honors

First "A's" of the back-to-school season go to grade school girls, who head for the fashion honor roll in apparel that's "A" for attractive and "A" for active.

Part of the credit goes to wider use of stretch fabrics, which lead the active life of a grade school girl with ease. Another help is the happy variety of styles, all designed to go attractively to class, yet take to playground activity readily.

Easy blouson tops over pleated or A-line skirts, dresses with pressed pleats falling from high yokes, dresses with natural waistlines and full skirts, wrap around and kilt skirts, coat, tent and jacket dresses combine young fashion importance with freedom of action.

PSST . . . TEACHER LIKES OUR SEPARATES—For the elementary set, an A-line jumper and sweater set or two piece outfit are so smart and comfortable in class—they team up for a total look! Chosen by the Sportswear Division of the Infants' & Children's Coat Assn., affiliate, National Board of the Coat & Suit Industry.

'Way Out Is Taboo Style

It isn't "in" to be "way out." That's the conclusion evident from a nationwide survey of high school boys' fashion preferences, conducted by Scholastic Magazines and the Boys' Apparel and Accesosries Manufacturers' Association.

The survey, which polled 294 selected leaders from 107 high schools, reveals that high schoolers favor the well-groomed look achieved by a somewhat conservative style of dress. The Ivy suit in traditional three-button style; trousers in moderately tapered style, with belt loops and even cuffs; and shirts with authentic button-down collar were preferred by more than 50 percent of responders.

A well-considered approach to dressing was also reflected in write-in comments about sport shirt selection.

"If it doesn't fit right, it doesn't look right"; "I must think what I will wear it for" were typical comments.

* * *

FAST GROWING — High schoolers need a tailored shirt like this. The expanding neck "grows," too. Easy care fabric, Eastman Kodel polyester.

"TOE THE MARK"

The expression "toe the mark" stems from the early days of our country when few school children wore shoes and they literally did "toe" along the crack in the flooring as they waited their turn to read, says the Encyclopedia Americana.

Adults Focus Attention On Library Importance

A major area of the great American system of education—one that is all not frequently neglected in the thinking of the average layman — is currently under tremendous and constantly rising pressure to fulfill its increasingly important role.

This is the area of learning dependent upon the smooth functioning of the nation's libraries—in communities, in schools and in colleges.

The pressure arises from the collision of great hordes of school children of all ages flowing into libraries everywhere for help in completing research and required reading with the sharply increasing numbers of adults in quest of more knowledge necessary to their own advancement.

An example of what's happening is cited by the American Library Association. A survey in an eastern city indicates that school youngsters will spend more than 12,000,000 hours during a year in libraries.

Add to this an increase of 40 per cent over the past six years in circulation of adult books and the picture begins to take on substance.

The more than 17,000,000 grown-ups enrolled in adult education classes, the millions of others in company sponsored classes, and countless other seeking on their own to fit themselves for advancement or for the new career opportunities opened up for them by these technological times, all increase the burden.

Strive to Expand

Libraries are striving to expand their facilities, their staffs and their services. The complexities of the age have prompted the adaptation of electronic data machines in some colleges to their library problems, to lessen the time devoted to search and thus to increase the availability of needed information.

Further expansion of the services of libraries is, of course, dependent on finances made available to them by government and private action.

Common conception of the library once held it to be a storehouse for books people might like to read. Some authorities point out the library is rapidly becoming an encyclopedic institution aimed at making important and needed information quickly available.

LIBRARIES FEEL IMPACT—Of increasing hunger for education as students and adults crowd into local public libraries. The crush is especially heavy during the Christmas holidays when returning college students turn to the libraries for additional reading.

* * *

Yet the need for more books —basic to all education—to replace outmoded volumes and as additional copies to meet the avid demand, far exceeds current ability of many libraries to provide them.

Some 10,000 more librarians are needed to staff school libraries. This makes an opportunity for interested youth. There are scholarships, grants-in-aid and loans available to those who will train for library careers.

A 104-page booklet jam-packed with information on the subject is available at 50 cents from the Education Division of the American Library Association, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, Ill., 60611.

For people interested in evaluating library services in their own communities, single copies of a leaflet titled "How Does Your Library Stack Up," are available free to those who send a stamped self addressed envelope to the Public Library Association, care of the ALA at its Chicago address.

Offer Reading Lists

Single copies of reading lists for college bound high school students, one on "Outstanding Biographies" and the other on "Outstanding Fiction," also are available free on request from the Library Association's Young Adult Services Division.

The association and its divisions offer many other constructive services to the general public.

Good Light Makes Study Much Easier

Education experts have stated that a well-lighted home study area is an important part of an environment that promotes and encourages learning.

While you can't be expected to do the job of a professional lighting engineer, some knowledge of basic principles — especially as they apply to learning situations — can produce some real improvements for students in your family.

Proper lighting should provide a relatively even distribution of light throughout the room. The lighting expert guards against extremes of brightness within a person's field of view.

Here are additional suggestions to help the student:

The desk should be placed facing a light - colored wall which reflects and contributes to a comfortable seeing environment. If necessary, cover wall with tack- or pegboard.

The surface of the desk should be light colored. Glass or polished wood surfaces may reflect glare into the eyes. A tinted desk blotter helps.

Avoid shades that have dark linings or are closed at the top. This limits the distribution of light and is distracting and uncomfortable. Translucent shields that eliminate direct glare and diffuse the light are recommended.

Let there be plenty of light for the student!

District 11 Continues Enrollment Jump

By JOHN KUGLIN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

School District 11 statisticians predict an enrollment of 25,250 students in city schools this September — up from a 23,737 school attendance last June.

To meet the challenge of a school population which has grown with the city there has been a continuing building program. Three new schools will open in September and there will be additions on five others.

The only squeeze on facilities will be at Wasson and Palmer high schools where student schedules will be juggled to relieve space shortages.

Crowding is expected to be solved on the high school level in September 1965 with the completion of $3,738,826 Gen. William Mitchell High School to relieve pressure on the mushrooming east side of the city.

An increasing high school enrollment, explains School Superintendent Thomas Doherty, is the legacy of larger enrollments at the junior high level.

Doherty predicts a 40,000-student enrollment within 10 years in Colorado Springs' schools. This is a long range projection, by his own admission. However Doherty says that a "very close" projection is about 32,000 students within five years.

Other fast-growing districts—Harrison District 2, Widefield District 3 and Air Academy District 20 — are expanding in student enrollment as fast or faster than city schools. Harrison expects a 15 per cent increase in enrollment this September, much of it from building in the Pikes Peak Park area. Subdividing of the Black Forest and home building in Widefield will continue to add to the enrollment of District 20 and 3.

District 11 has grown with the city. In the 1946-47 school year enrollment was 7,610. It inched upward: by 1950-51 it was 8,947; 1955-56, 14,369; and 1960-61, 20,501.

An era ended Dec. 31, 1963 when Roy J. Wasson retired as superintendent of city schools. His administration was marked by steady growth in enrollment, physical facilities and educational advances.

In 1942 Dr. Wasson became superintendent of a school system with 6,500 students in 14 buildings. When he retired the system had grown to 950 teachers and 33 buildings.

Statistically, the city school district covers 76½ square miles. An estimated 75 per cent of the Colorado Springs metropolitan area, about 138,750 persons, live within District 11 boundaries. Last year there were 953 teachers, this year there will be 1,008.

Under Doherty's administration, nine building projects are underway or completed.

Three new schools will open when school bells ring Sept. 9: Washington Irving Junior High School, 40 rooms, $1.458 million; James Madison Elementary School, 25 rooms, $493,000; and James Monroe Elementary School, 23 rooms, $430,000.

Three additions are also slated for September occupancy: Longfellow Elementary School, second addition, eight rooms, $144,000; Audubon Elementary School, third addition, 10 rooms, $157,000; and Mark Twain Elementary School, second addition, seven rooms, $115,000.

Alterations and additions were completed at West and North junior high schools at a cost of $118,500.

Six portable classrooms were moved from Audubon Elementary to new sites at a cost of $4,500. Three went to Adams Elementary School, two to Pike Elementary School and one to Bristol Elementary School.

A booklet on the 1964 budget, distributed by the school board, says that 65.8 per cent of the budget goes for instruction and 11.6 per cent for principal and interest payments on bond issues.

The cost of education per pupil continues to rise. It was $118.34 in the 1944-45 school year in District 11; and $410.30 in the 1962-63 school year. However District 11 officials cite U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare figures to show that this cost per pupil figure is considerably below the national average.

Six times since the end of World War II the public expressed its confidence in Dr. Wasson's administration by voting in favor of bond issues to upgrade and expand the school system.

Collegians Dress for Local Scene

Local weather conditions, campus fads and personal foibles combine to dictate trends in young men's apparel at colleges and universities across the country, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

Northeast

On the Ivy League campuses in the Northeast, a look reminiscent of the "tweedy twenties" is growing. The beefy cheviot, tweed or shetland suit is being added to wardrobes of sharkskins, worsted flannels and neat herringbones.

Slimmed - down quilted ski parkas, giant plaid wool shirts and jackets, and loden coats go to classes with button - down shirts, and flannel or chino slacks or wheat jeans.

South

College students of the "old South" have been called the best dressed in the country. Influenced by milder weather, they lean toward the natural shoulder and classic traditional in their dress. Many of these men own dinner clothes for both winter and summer.

Midwest

Sprawling campuses, late fall sports activities and some real cold weather add up to fashion with an emphasis on warmth at most Midwestern colleges. Add to this, the hot days of early fall and late spring, and you find the need for a carefully selected wardrobe that ranges from featherweight sportcoats to the warmest dressy outerwear.

The vested suit is still strong here, as are lighter and brighter tweeds and fad hats.

West

President Johnson's celebrated Western hat is on the heads of many college men in the Southwest, along with wheat jeans and classic Western boots, but overshadowing the local influences is the traditional natural shoulder look.

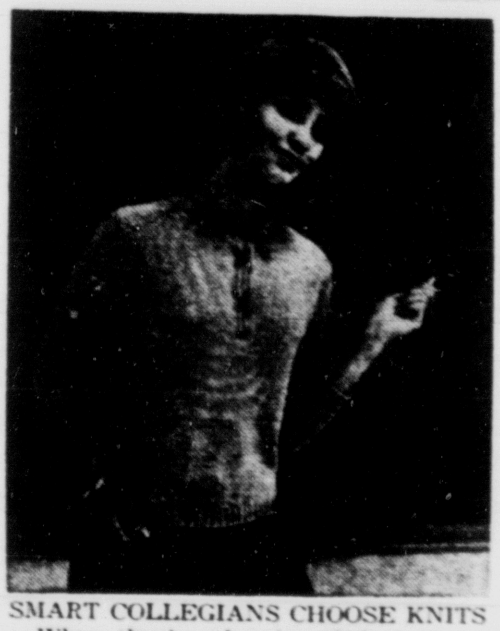

Local trends include: at least one vested suit, madras, seersucker or other lightweight sport jacket and iridescent or plaid raincoats in shorter lengths at Texas, SMU and Baylor.

West Coast

Natural shoulder styling and the highlights of contemporary California fashion shape the vital look of West Coast college fashions. The black mohair suit, self-supporting cuffless slacks, the "shirt jac" and the short sleeve sweater are all a part of the California influence.

WOMEN ON CAMPUS

Number of women enrolled in colleges and universities edged upward to 1,739,000 this past year from 1,604,000 last year.

Fashion Plus Function Is Coed Motto This Year

"Fashion with function" is the motto of back-to-college girls. It's intended for a look of completeness, and a look planned to provide many looks, through the skillful switching of wardrobe basics.

The sloppy look has long disappeared from the campus picture, and the well-groomed, smoothly put-together look is in, points out Wilbur Daniels, executive secretary of the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry.

A solid-tone suit with plaid top coat, a suit with matching long coat, a sleeveless shell top with skirt and jacket or any variety of suits combined with coats, skirts with jackets and tops provide the college girl with the essentials for neat, attractive grooming, in class, around campus.

Add to these a few simple, fashionable dresses—some cotton-blend shirtwaists for the warm days of early fall, some easy A-line and shift shapes. Many of the latter are versatile in styling—ready to go to class by day with the accompaniment of shirts or sweaters, effective for informal evenings on their own.

Balmacaans, chesterfields, trench coats and reefers are among the up-dated fall coat classics. Shoulders are soft and often raglan; buttons perk up and soften the line.

Fur collars, often seen, are generally detachable, so that both the coat and the collar can do double duty.

WOODLAND PARK JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL — Workmen are readying School District RE-2's new $381,885 building in Woodland Park. The 350-student school will end crowding in the system. The 41,603-square-foot building cost about $9.20 a square-foot. A bond issue paid for the school and another $37,000 bond issue was approved in April to help equip the new school and remodel the other school building in the center of town. New High School Readied For Woodland Park District

Superintendent Kenneth Perry predicts an enrollment of 470, compared with 450 last springs.

Perry said that workmen may be in some areas when the new school opens, but that should not delay classes.

— Library facilities supervised by Mrs. Louise LeRoy.

— A modern and properly equipped science department.

— A language room ready when teachers are available. Meanwhile this room will be used for advanced mathematics classes — A trianglular room for social studies.

— A gymnasium and equipment, with two basketball courts and adequate shower and dressing room facilities for the first time.

"We are unable to increase academic offerings because the present staff has a maximum class load," the superintendent said. "As soon as desireable and funds are available to increase the high school teaching staff, other courses will be added to the curriculum," Perry added.

"We are proud and happy with our new facility and know all students will enjoy the opportunity to learn and work in this beautiful structure," Perry said of the new high school.

The district's former industrial arts and music rooms in the old elementary building were completely remodeled for kindergarten classes.

The sixth grade will occupy the former science room which was remodeled and painted. The former social studies and English rooms were remodeled into one room for the fifth grade. The two sections of the fourth grade will occupy the former seventh grade rooms. The first, second and third grade will occupy all former elementary rooms.

Registration will be Aug. 24-25, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the new high school. There will not be bus service during registration. Classes begin Aug. 31 at 9 a.m. for junior and senior high school students, and 8:45 a.m. for elementary pupils.

Lunches will be increased five cents a meal, making the cost 30 cents a meal for pupils through the sixth grade. Lunches will be 35 cents for students in grades seven through 12.

Young Needs Spur School Interests

"Most children three and four years of age, and some two years of age, need experiences that even the most privileged homes cannot give them," says Dr. Lillian L. Gore, a specialist in early elementary education for the U.S. Office of Education.

Writing in "School Life," she stressed that pre-school children need opportunities to develop concepts about their world and to share in activities with children of about the same age.

"The good nursery school, through qualified teachers, proper equipment and materials . . . provides for appropriate continuity of learning and development," she writes.

The growing awareness by parents of the value of nursery schools, which may charge from $500 to $1,000 a year, has become so intense that many children, who live in culturally deprived home environments and need the nursery school experience most, cannot gain admission.

The Ford Foundation, however, has financed pilot pre-school projects recently in selected areas to give enriching pre-school experiences to culturally deprived children.

Nursery schools are frequently sponsored by public school systems, colleges and universities, community agencies, church groups and private persons and organizations.

"The good nursery school," says Dr. Gore, "is based primarily on what is known about how children learn and develop and the values held in our culture for them.

"It uses this knowledge in enabling children to learn about their world first-hand, to play—which is work for the young child—creatively and constructively; to wonder, question, imagine; to express their feelings and emotions; to build a foundation for sound relations, future skills, concepts and creative works."

Tanned Soles Will Give More Wear

Another notable tanning development that has resulted in smarter and longer-wearing foot wear for boys is the resin-impregnated leather sole. For both dress and school shoes, this specially tanned sole actually provides from 50 to 100 per cent more wear.

There is no curling or stretching and a high degree of water-resistance, which is most important with youngsters tempted by every snowbank and mud-puddle they pass. Also, a non-skid treatment prevents slipping on stairs, wet or icy surfaces.

NEW LIGHT ON SUBJECT

NEW YORK (UPI) —Good for room areas where a table takes up too much space: the tray lamp. This lamp, surging to new popularity in recent months, combines features of the floor, table and pole lamp. The typical tray stands about 4 to 4½ feet high, has a compact floor base, and a tray mounted at chairside height on the upright shaft.

In Traffic Alert All to Safety

The much discussed "population explosion" plus national "affluence" combine to prompt school and police authorities to re-emphasize the responsibility of motorists for the safety of all the children in traffic as a new school term approaches.

The "population explosion" has carried school enrollments to astronomical heights at all levels of education. This means that more youngsters than ever before will be on the streets and highways.

The national affluence has vastly increased car ownership, bringing many new and comparatively inexperienced drivers into the scene.

No small portion of these new drivers are "school children" in their own right — teen-agers who have acquired licenses to drive one of the family cars, and many who have acquired cars of their own.

Not only will there be more school children in the streets and more cars in traffic; many children and many motorists will be traversing comparatively unfamiliar routes to newly constructed school buildings. This in itself adds complexity to the problem of traffic safety for school children.

Special "School's Open — Drive Carefully" signs will, of course, amplify the permanently erected "School Zone" signs which frequently proclaim lowered speed limits and other safety measures as a matter of law.

Special "Crossing Guards" will be stationed at strategic intersections to supplement police department school traffic assignments. School safety patrols, made up of white belted youngsters from among the ranks of the school children themselves, will be at work on the safe side of the curb in greater numbers than ever.

Instruction in traffic safety, especially for the very young, will continue to be an important part of their classroom work. So will high school classes in safe driving for teenagers.

Nevertheless, without cooperation of the individual motorist, the full measure of traffic safety cannot be assured the children, say the authorities.

No matter how carefully guarded, the sheer thoughtless impetuosity of little children all too frequently creates the emergency that must be met by the car driver.

Motorists, in addition to being aware of the need for extra care and the need for precise observance of posted regulations and speed limits as the school season approaches, take the responsibility for maintaining their cars in perfect mechanical condition, so that they may cope with any sudden emergency.

Motorists are advised to take their cars to the service station for a complete check-up with special attention to brakes, tires, windshield wipers, lights, and responsiveness of the motor to any requirement.

The forewarned motorist operating a perfectly functioning car makes an important contribution ot the safety of school children in traffic.

BE PREPARED

Add comfort and convenience to dormitory rooms by bringing along a lamp and a foam rubber backed throw rug or two.

Advent Seen Of Automated Classrooms

Today's teacher has a nodding acquaintance with machines that talk or teach or take roll. Many students are now accustomed to television sets, overhead projectors and electronic equipment used in language laboratories.

But modern technology — already so widely applied for use in the business world — is taking a direction in the field of education that may mean much more to students, teachers and school administrations.

Machines are being developed for classroom work that not only talk to students, but answer their questions as well. They guide students through subject materials and even assign homework.

To the teacher all this means not only the ability to handle more students, it also means more attention to students on an individual basis.

Hastened the Advent

Richard Harsh, of the Los Angeles County Superintendent's office, writes in a monograph that rapid advance of data processing "has hastened the advent of automated education."

His monograph predicts that by 1960 universities and secondary schools will be linked by data processing machines and other methods. Some systems already are in operation in 1,000 school districts. They make way for students to work in their own cubicles (called carrels) and to instruct themselves with the aid of a mechanical tutor linked to a nationwide system.

Use of such systems, it is said, can make it possible for teachers to call on regional centers for help on special problems of instruction — thus, in effect, adding specialist teachers by long-distance.

Integrates Teaching

Writing on "The Role of the Computer in Future Instructional Systems," published by Visual Instruction, Donald D. Bushnell says the computer is more than a teaching machine; that it can integrate TV, films, slides, lectures and textbooks.

SPANKING NOW LEGAL

The Georgia House of Representatives has approved a bill authorizing teachers to spank pupils and exempting them from prosecution by parents.

HELPS HOMEWORK

Now that back-to-school planning season is here, it's time to think about a well-organized desk for homework.

The principal decor of the student's room will be the collection of books, posters, prints, souvenirs and the rest of the very personal clutter that every college student cherishes.

SPLITTING UP

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Amy and Ruth Malzberg, twin daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Malzberg, have finally come to the parting of the ways after sticking together through Albany public schools, Harper College in Binghamton, N.Y., and a tour of Israel.

Both sociology majors, the girls will continue their college studies on fellowships. But Amy's is at Brown University, Providence, R.I., while Ruth will attend the University of Wisconsin.

Commuters Need Home Study Privacy

The growing trend toward community colleges has fostered a new and hardy breed of commuter students. They attend classes on campus but study and sleep at home.

The growth of the community college, which is designed to serve a local area, has been a boon to many families because it sharply reduces the cost of a college education.

On the other hand, living off campus does have its drawbacks. For one, it takes the student out of the academic atmosphere much of the time, and commuting cuts into study time.

Where raw space is available in an attic, many families with live-at-home college students convert this area to a sleep-study room. Sometimes a new room can be added by converting a garage to living space. The student may prefer his own bedroom - study area separated from another child's section of the room by a room divider.

Good lighting should be provided for each spot where the student may read or study. This includes both daytime and nighttime lighting, with ample window space for daylight as well as proper reading lamps.

Furnishings should be sturdy and simple, and colors bright and cheerful. Plenty of bookshelves, a bulletin board, a desk and a comfortable desk chair shelves, drawers and cupboards are "musts."

DON'T SCRATCH

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has some advice for outdoorsmen—resist the urge to scratch the irritating bites of chiggers, also called red bugs.

The pin-point size insects probably don't carry disease themselves, the agency warned, but their bites demand scratching which often causes secondary infections in the form of sores and boils. The department recommended repellent products applied to the skin to keep chiggers away.

Junior Colleges Make Major Contribution to Learning

After a decade of phenomenal growth, the nation's junior colleges will achieve a major position in higher education this fall as they open their doors to more than 1,000,000 students.

Edmund J. Gleazer, Jr., executive director of the American Association of Junior Colleges, estimates that the two-year institutions are being established at the rate of from 20 to 25 each year.

Some states—and also municipalities — have embarked on plans to put public junior colleges within reach of most of their citizens.

There are more than 700 junior colleges in the nation today —most of them publicly supported and most within commuting distance of the homes of their students.

Expansion is Planned

Florida has 29—eight of them established in the past three years—and is attempting to put two-year campuses within commuting reach of all high school graduates.

California, a pioneer in junior college development, has 73 junior colleges and plans to spend $350 million in the next five years for further expansion.

In these two states, it is estimated, close to 75 per cent of the college freshmen are junior college students.

The growth of these two-year institutions is keyed not only to the expanding enrollments of higher education but to specific community needs. In fact, many of the junior colleges are called community colleges.

Students may take courses to prepare for jobs as electronic technicians, draftsmen, nurses, dental assistants, medical secretaries and engineering aides.

Many academic courses on a par with those offered at four-year institutions are offered to junior college students, many of whom go on to four-year colleges for another two years of study.

Records are Good

These transfer students have made a good record for success when they go on to four - year institutions and a number of colleges and universities make an effort to recruit from the graduating classes of junior colleges.

But the junior college is complete in itself and they are seen by educators as institutions in their own right and not just bridges to four-year colleges or post high school courses.

Their courses and activities may include institutes, conferences, clinics, forums, concerts, exhibits, studies, basic college work, vocational - technical courses and retraining programs.

Brevard College, Cocoa, Fla., near Cape Kennedy, has many technical programs related to the space industry.

Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn, Mich., has many courses related to the auto industry, and Los Angeles junior colleges similarly have many data processing programs.

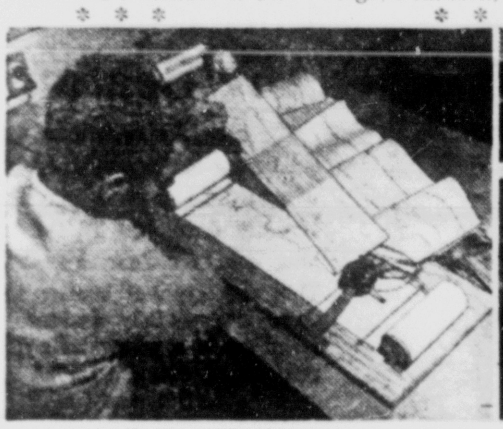

For adults, evening programs frequently aim at retraining those who have lost jobs because of changes in technology and upgrading of adults who are seeking promotions.

The comprehensive nature of the programs offered by these new colleges is reflected in the schedule of courses at the new Cuyahoga Community College, Cleveland.

Two-year technical programs range from dental hygiene to optical technology and to electronic data processing. A total of 12 technical courses of study are offered.

JUNIOR COLLEGES — can, for the most part, boast of all of the unique atmosphere associated with four-year colleges and universities, witness this campus scene at El Camino College in California.

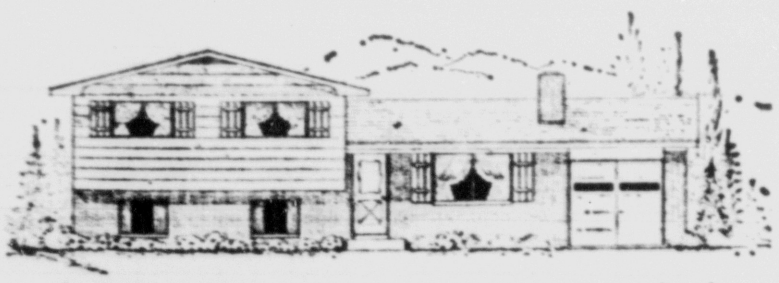

CHALLENGE OF AUTOMATION AND SPACE AGE — Is being met by the growing number of Junior Colleges. Left, a student at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa, Calif., using sensitive electronic equipment, grapples with a problem in space. Right, a professor in data processing at Manatee Junior College, Bradenton, Fla., instructs a student at an IBM 1620 computer.

Planning Makes Way for Modern Teaching Facilities

* * *

School construction is rapidly becoming an advanced science as school boards, architects and contractors combine to produce the best possible space for learning.

Schools today are being built to accommodate such modern teaching methods as televison, electronic laboratories, teaching machines, and automated lecture halls.

Some are built with walls that can be moved to create new study or lecture areas, and others have such refinements as "automated" study areas with television screens and dial systems tied into central stores of information.

A prep school recently completed a new science and mathematics quadrangle that features a planetarium as well as a lecture hall and laboratories. Equipment in the labs includes a complete weather station and test equipment for atomic physics curricula.

Students showing special promise are permitted to use a row of individual laboratories to work on advanced projects, and each instructor has his own private laboratory connecting to his office.

A $2,633,046 high school in Michigan features a "house plan" layout that provides two separate but adjacent high schools, each housing about 800 students in grades 9 through 12.

While the students spend 40 per cent to 60 per cent of their time in their own "house," there are also auxiliary buildings that house cafeterias and administrative offices; a gymnasium; elective courses; and an auditorium.

Another type of layout was used for a New Mexico high school, where students have a large academic courtsurrounded on three sides by two tiers of galleries. The court is covered by a large transullent plastic canopy.

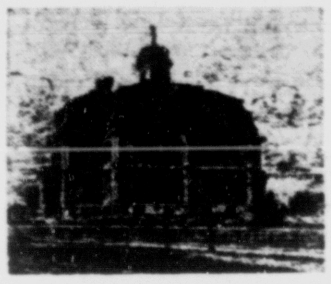

Split - level classrooms were created by an Indiana elementary school by a design that permits use of part of a raised central corridor for classroom activities.

In California, an award - winning elementary school is scaled down to the size of the children while still permitting comfortable movement of adults.

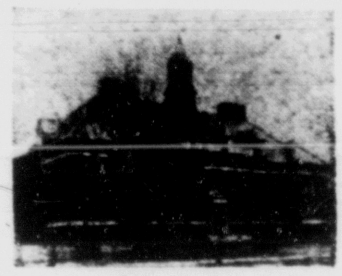

In Maine, a colorful touch was added to a school built to withstand the rigorous winter climate. Multi - hued panels on skylights alternate with transparent panels in a way designed to provide an even distribution of natural light.

A high wall of conceret block surrounds a Lousiiana school located on a site in a low-income area. The wall shuts out the poor neighborhood and creates a new world of covered walks, arches and landscaped courts. The inner surface of the perimeter wall has murals on it.

Flexibility is provided in a California high school by a design that uses movable partitions to create interior spaces. Movement of the partitions makes possible an easy adjustment to teaching needs.

Playshoes Can Resist Any Beating

For once, Junior will be worn out before his shoes—when he's wearing the leather playshoes recently developed by the tanning and footwear industries. This new type of leather footwear is especially designed to stand up to a youngster's most punishing treatment for as long as the shoe fits—and longer.

These new playshoes, reports Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America, evolved from the tough leather "work shoes" made for men doing rugged outdoor jobs—lumbermen, construction workers, ranchers. The leather, either smooth glove leather or brushed "split" leather, goes through special processing so that the finish will be rough and ready in use, yet soft and mellow in appearance.

This same work-shoe leather, pliant and durable, is now used for "play-proof" footwear for junior adventurers. The shoes span a variety of styles, from moccasins and oxfords to boots and chukkas laced by eyelet or hook. Special features include linings of smooth leather or shearling (wool on leather), overlay flaps for extra protection and back straploops.

Whether Junior is running, jumping, scuffling, kicking or climbing, the new playshoes resist abrasion, moisture, stones and other sharp objects, plus the heavy wear - and - tear incurred during a boy's enthusiastic and sustained physical exertion. At the same time, this leather footwear is good-looking enough to go to class.

Last year 9,000 handicapped persons secured jobs with the federal government, according to the Civil Service Commission.

Milk Proves Most Popular On Football Squad Menu

In this back-to-school season, which promises a good deal of studying and many activities calling for lots of energy, the U.S. Department of Agriculture suggests every student eat nourishing and well-balanced meals.

Living proof of the importance of such eating habits are successful athletes in training who must have enough energy to perform well in the classroom as well as on the playing field.

Olympic-famed trainer Jules Reichel of Syracuse University says without a doubt it's milk—year in and year out, and all year 'round. As head trainer at Syracuse for nearly a quarter-of-a-century, Mr. Reichel draws from experience. With the football season here, he points out that the hundred-and - one man squad probably betters 125 quarts of milk per day.

"We recommend no less than five full glasses daily, but we can't keep milk from them. There are seconds, thirds, with some lads enjoying milk at bedtime," he said.

Physical fitness and milk and not solely for athletes, are strongly supported by the University's athletic department. Football coach Ben Schwartzwalder, of national sports prominence, lends support to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's program which focuses attention, particularly that of young people, to the major role fresh milk plays in helping them to keep fit.

Should any aspiring All-American ask, coach Schwartzwalder led the Orangemen to a national championship, steering them to an important win in the Cotton Bowl just a few years ago.

But what do athletes really eat at the training table? Are they weight conscious? Trainer Reichel is probably more conscious of weight than they are. He watches his charges like debutantes on a diet. "We watch for changes in either direction," he explains, "and then act accordingly.

"Fit and fat? No, when a boy's in shape, he stays that way. He doesn't carry more than he needs," he added.

Healthy children make better scholars.

Basics Vital In Grooming

In a move which makes both sense and fashion sense, high school girls going back to class are turning to the classics.

New-Season versions of classic coats, dresses, suits and separates meet the basic requirements in three areas of importance to the high schooler — "dress right" grooming, smart fashion, and wardrobe variety at dollar - stretching prices.

Right up there among the leaders when it comes to dollar - stretching are separates. The "layer-on-layer" look leads in fashion, too, with skirts and jumpers ready to mix and change partners, too.

Coat classics such as the Chesterfield are already under consideration for the first cool days. The traditional boy coat now becomes the military coat with an added touch of jauntiness but still classic in feeling.

The materials of fashion, from corduroy to piles, are often classic, too, and the perennial plaids make a great showing in authentic patterns, bright-to-deep colors.

BLONDES PREFERRED

NATURAL by DESIGN

The young man heading for college in another month can find his tempo in almost any field. In the field of dress he's a traditionalist or would like to be. Good advice would be to consult with our college board representative, Charles Nolan, who is at home on the Colorado State College at Greeley. Charles will be in our shops for men, all this month.
